HELLO, GIVE ME LONDON

Radiophone Will Open Friday

It Will Cost New Yorkers $25 a Minute to Ring Up British Cousin

Service to be Inaugurated Simply and Then Thrown Open to Public

LONDON, Jan. 4. (AP)—Trans-Atlantic radiophone service has been set to begin next Friday. The Postmaster-General informed the public of here today that all will be ready at 1:30 p.m., London time (8:30 a.m., New York time) Friday for London-to-converse with persons in New York.

It became known recently that the service to the public was to be opened, there was a great scramble for enrollment among those who desired to use the system on the opening day. Such a fuss has been kicked up, however, that the Postmaster-General may have to decide who gets in first.

MAY LISTEN IN

The initial ceremonies and conversation will consist of a few formalities and an exchange of greetings; then the service will be turned over to the staff of trained operators who make connections as the calls come in. For the preliminary period of the hours between 1:30 p.m. and 5 p.m., have been set, but the officials hope after a few weeks that it can be made both day and night. Scientific experts are working on plans to insure absolute secrecy in the telephone conversations, but they have not as yet promise that this can be accomplished inside of several months at least.

"We are well aware," one official of the Daily Mail, "that the service at first will be of some little time will be only of an exceptional character, reserved around $27,000 a minute, and in addition to the trouble and expense of the necessary apparatus, he will be able to 'tap' messages. We very much doubt, however, whether he will be able to overhear two-way conversations."

$25 A MINUTE

TALK OVER ATLANTIC

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—Hundreds of persons are expected to pay the record rate of $25 a minute to talk over the radio telephone circuit between New York and London, but no application has been received as yet.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company, which is inaugurating the service in conjunction with the British Post Office, announced today that reservations may be filed beginning 8:30 a.m. today. It was advised to enter early and "avoid the rush." Only first class communication will be accepted at first between Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, and Sir Evelyn Murray, secretary of the British General Postoffice. After that the switchboard will be clear for all comers.

GOV. YOUNG INDUCTED

Throng Attends Ceremonies

Richardson Delivers Parting Address at Session of Senate and Assembly

Incoming Executive Points to Impending Tax Rises and Asks Gas Levy

BY C. A. JONES
"Times" Staff Correspondent

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4. (Exclusive) In an impressive and august ceremonial, Gov. Young and Lieut.-Gov. Fitts were inducted into office here this afternoon before a joint session of the Senate and Assembly in the latter House. The oaths were administered by Chief Justice Waste of the California Supreme Court. Several thousand intensely interested spectators managed to find room in the chamber and in the galleries.

The inauguration consumed more than two hours. The principal features were the biennial message of Gov. Richardson, the outgoing executive, who reviewed thoroughly the work of his administration, and the message of Gov. Young in which he laid down the principles and policies he plans to follow.

HIGHER RATE INTIMATED

While Gov. Young's message was vague as to details of certain proposed legislation, it could be inferred that he has in mind an increase of taxes, both the State taxation system and the gasoline tax. He referred again and again to the mounting cost of fixed charges and to the growth in population. He said flatly that these increases, at regular intervals, pass beyond the State income, and necessitate an elevation of the taxation system.

He mentioned the fact that the incoming administration will inherit a surplus from Gov. Richardson, but credited this surplus "largely" to moneys received by the State following the successful termination of a suit against a number of corporations.

Gov. Richardson, in his message, gave the exact figures. The surplus is $30,430,925. In addition to the tax-suit money, which was won by the Richardson administration after a hard battle, the remaining $6,000,000 was built up from the 1923 surplus of $30,371, as the result of economy by the outgoing administration.

As to highway finance, Gov. Young said he is in favor of completion of the State highway system, but that work should be limited to the present system and no expansions considered. He said it is impossible to finance the work from the general fund, and it is not wise to divert maintenance money to construction purposes. Bond funds, he said, are expensive, and the situation will not permit the two-year delay for a bond election.

He suggested that the Legislators

RAINFALL PROBABLE FOR TODAY

Storm Moves Southward as One of Season's Heaviest Gales Lashes Pacific

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—Light rain fell today in some parts of Northern California, and by tomorrow will be general as far south as the Tehachapi and perhaps farther, according to the Weather Bureau.

The Pacific Ocean is being lashed by one of the severest storms of the season in an area 1000 miles west of San Francisco to a point beyond the Hawaiian Islands. Seas are running unusually high.

Advices from Honolulu report winds there attained a velocity of fifty-two miles an hour.

Eureka reported .12 of an inch rainfall today, Santa Rosa .01 and San Jose a trace. Other communities, however, were visited by unmeasurable showers.

Dougherty Gets New Position as Superior Judge

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Jan. 4.—Judge Dougherty, who has been presiding as a Municipal Court jurist in Department Five here, today began his duties as temporary judge of the Superior Court in the Long Beach department. He was sworn in by Deputy County Clerk Girard, with whom Judge Dougherty served as a companion clerk several years ago.

The first case brought before Superior Judge Dougherty was that of Vernon Grace, accused of burglary on eleven counts—but Judge Dougherty promptly declined to try the case on the ground that he, as a Municipal Court judge, had held Grace to answer two months ago.

Ship Explosion Injures Almost Two Score Men

BALTIMORE, Jan. 4. (AP)—Thirty-seven were injured and three workmen believed killed in an explosion aboard the French barque Richelieu at a Curtis Bay pier of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad late today.

The Richelieu, out of Nantes, was loading pitch for Laurient, France, an unexplained blast turned the cargo into a seething mass of flames which continued to burn fiercely tonight, until six hours after the explosion the vessel turned over and sank. Firemen, warned by cracking of the main mast, which was carried away, fled. Fire captains said all their men had escaped.

Bodies of the missing men were believed to be in the hold, and to have gone down with the boat.

RISQUE STORIES DISCLAIMED

Iowa Teacher Charges Plot to Oust Her Back of Asserted Recital of Gross Tales to Pupils

INDIANOLA (Iowa) Jan. 4. (AP)—Children of the Broadhorn School, ranging in age from 10 to 14 years, may know risque stories, but they did not learn them from her, Miss Florence I. Cochran, the teacher, declared today in a statement denying charges that she had entertained the youngsters during recesses with lurid tales.

Miss Cochran is fighting to regain her position in the little school, which has been closed since the directors obtained an injunction against her continuing as the teacher. Her case is in the hands of Walter M. McGee, County Superintendent, who expects to rule in a few days upon evidence submitted by seven pupils and several friends of the teacher who gave character testimony for her.

Miss Cochran regards the case as a school rumpus in which she declares, the president of the school board, C. C. Crawford, sought to oust her and installed his son, Clee Crawford, as the teacher. A previous attempt had been made to force her retirement, she declared.

Supt. McGee said today he considered that Miss Cochran's reputation bore out her denial of the charges, but did not indicate what his decision would be.

The children who testified at a hearing before the superintendent gave evidence concerning the conversation during a luncheon period, but Miss Cochran declares she did not tell them any stories and asserts that their testimony is conflicting.

One of the boys, she says, related a tale he had heard from his father. Miss Cochran is 19 years of age and has been teaching two years.

Musselmen of Albania in New Insurrection

BELGRADE (Jugo-Slavia) Jan. 4. (AP)—A new revolt of Mossulman tribes in Albania has broken out, reports received here today state.

The insurrection was the result of the condemnation yesterday at Scutari of six insurgents, who took part in a recent outbreak which was put down by government troops. The new insurgents are members of the Puka, Shalja and Strupa tribes, which, with four others, have already raised their standards.

Gov. Ferguson has granted 825 full pardons and 815 conditional pardons, the remaining clemency including paroles, commutations and similar acts.

Among those pardoned today is E. B. Moy of Houston, given five to ninety-nine years for wife murder. The Governor says Moy had served the State four years as a "good blacksmith, doing as much work as an average convict would do in fifteen years," and that his wife's death was an accident.

HANKOW MOBS ON RAMPAGE

Thousands of Coolies Overrun British Concession While Troops Guard Consulate

HANKOW (China) Jan. 4. (AP)—The British concession here, the scene yesterday of a violent antiforeign demonstration, was overrun tonight with thousands of Chinese coolies who swarmed into the concession during the afternoon after demolishing all barricades at the entrances.

The situation has reached a decidedly critical stage and is growing worse hourly. Chinese troops are guarding the home of British Consul-General Herbert Goffee. The consulate and the British police station have been surrounded by mobs of coolies. Foreigners cannot venture into the streets without danger. American forces are being brought from the suburbs toward Hankow as a precautionary measure. They will not be used unless American lives and property are endangered.

A rumor that the concession had been taken over by the Chinese spread to the Chinese section of the city, and brought additional crowds of curious. Finding the report untrue, they shouted, "Let's take it now."

The concession is now being policed by Chinese troops, the British marines, sailors and police have withdrawn to headquarters in compliance with a request by Chinese authorities that they be allowed to maintain order.

Yesterday a handful of British fighting men, without firing a shot, held in check an infuriated mob of several thousand coolies that attempted to charge into the concession. Three of the British were severely wounded.

OIL SEIZURE PRESAGED

Calles Prepares "Black List"

First Action Taken Under New Law That May Bring on Serious Crisis

Denouncement Reported to be Aimed at American Property in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 4. (Exclusive) Reports of the first denouncement today of American-owned oil lands under the new law, which went into effect on the 1st inst., was followed tonight by an order from President Calles to the Department of Commerce, Industry and Labor to furnish the Attorney-General with a list of oil companies and individuals which have failed to comply with the new law, so that he may take action.

President Calles asks for a report on all who have not applied for confirmatory concessions in exchange for their titles, in accordance with the petroleum laws, and his instructions state that "this course is taken in order that the Attorney-General may proceed at once in full accordance with the provisions of the law and the rights of the nation."

What action is contemplated was not vouchsafed, either in the President's order, or by other officials. Under the law, however, the government may declare the titles to oil lands held by foreigners who have failed to obtain confirmatory concessions forfeited and proceed to operate the properties or lease them to Mexican companies.

The Compania Mexicana Cerro Azul, a Mexican corporation, it was reported unofficially, has filed a denouncement on certain sections of the great Cerro Azul oil district owned by the Huasteca Petroleum Company, a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana. This is the first step provided for under the new law for forfeiture of title, and transfer of the property to Mexican interests.

The Huasteca Mexican holdings represent more than half the producing petroleum lands in Mexico.

The Huasteca is one of the companies which did not comply with the law requiring it to apply for confirmatory concessions in lieu of titles. The properties on which the denouncement was filed are both freehold fee holdings and lease holdings acquired prior to 1917.

It was against such action as today's developments indicate is contemplated that Secretary Kellogg in a series of notes warned Mexico, and the first attempt to carry it out is expected to precipitate a crisis between Mexico and the United States.

MARINES ORDERED BACK TO CAPITAL OF NICARAGUA

American Forces Enter Managua Today as Coolidge Discloses Aim to Guard Canal Site

MANAGUA (Nicaragua) Jan. 4. (AP)—United States marines will be returned to Managua tomorrow for the first time since their withdrawal in August, 1925, it was announced tonight. A force of 160 will be landed from the U.S.S. Galveston at Corinto, proceeding to Managua as a guard for the United States Legation here. High officials in the Conservative government of Gen. Diaz stated that the arrival of the marines is timely and will save the country from a state of anarchy. They remarked that Nicaragua had enjoyed its greatest period of prosperity and progress during the thirteen years in which the marines were stationed here before.

PRESIDENT TELLS INTERVENTION REASON

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (Exclusive) Stiffening of the American policy in Nicaragua was foreshadowed today by admission on the part of President Coolidge and Secretary of State Kellogg that protection of the proposed canal route through Nicaragua is one of the important factors prompting continued American intervention in that country.

Abandoning temporarily the reticence which has clouded all our activities in Nicaragua since marines and bluejackets were land i in Liberal strongholds on the east coast, the President and Mr. Kellogg pointed out that the canal route cost this government $3,000,000 and must be protected.

The President also pointed out that the same treaty which gave the United States a canal route gives this country a ninety-nine-year renewable lease for a naval base on the Gulf of Fonseca, one of the finest harbors in Central American waters. This property, which often has been mentioned as a valuable potential defensive factor in protecting the Panama Canal, will be protected, it was said.

PROPERTY IMPERILED

Mr. Kellogg refused to admit that protection of the government concessions provided the paramount causes for landing of marines at three Nicaraguan ports, but he made it clear that revolution and anarchy in Nicaragua jeopardize both government and private property. The inference drawn from his remarks was that American marines and battleships will be kept in Nicaragua until all danger to the canal is removed.

For the first time since the landing of marines at Bluefields a member of Congress today formally defended the Coolidge-Kellogg policy in Mexico and Nicaragua. Representative Fairchild, Republican, New York, in a House resolution urged continued protection of American property rights in Mexico and Nicaragua and active support for the constitutional government set up by President Diaz.

The resolution provides that the House express its full concurrence with the President and pledge its support in protecting the lives and property of American citizens in Mexico and Nicaragua. It specifically includes protection of American treaty rights which authorize the United States to construct an interoceanic canal through Nicaraguan territory.

Mr. Fairchild in his resolution which will be acted on at a later date would pledge the support of the House to a policy of giving active support to President Diaz in his efforts to repel aggression by any foreign power. He provided that this support should be given whether aggression was by direct action or "indirectly through furnishing or permitting to be furnished arms, ammunition or soldiers in aid of attacks on Nicaragua."

MANY INTERESTS

Secretary Kellogg touched on the diversity and importance of private American interests in Nicaragua, pointing out that these include lumber companies, rice growing, sugar cultivation, banana plantations and mining. American commercial interests virtually predominate, he said. The Secretary mentioned the necessity of protecting the interests of creditors of the Nicaraguan government.

The Bryan-Chamorro treaty gives the United States the right to choose any route it may desire across Nic-

UNIONS KILL PEACE AIM

Bay City Session Broken Up

Carpenters Reject Open-Shop Plan and Thereby Cause Failure of Meeting

Industrial Leader Charges Bad Faith on Their Part in Mediation Effort

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—Negotiations for settlement of the union carpenters' strike which has been in effect in the San Francisco Bay region since last April were broken off tonight by the union representatives. The union spokesmen refused to consider any settlement which provided for the open shop in the building industries.

Harry A. Milton, secretary of the joint conference committee representing the international unions, in a statement declared the Builders' Exchange and Industrial Association had set up "an impossible barrier" in asking the unions to concede the open shop.

UNIONS ACCUSED

William H. George, president of the Builders' Exchange, broadly intimated the unions had not acted in good faith in agreeing to mediation conferences under the circumstances as "San Francisco is definitely committed to the open shop and the unions are aware of that fact, regardless of the attitude of industrialists of other cities."

The memorandum on which the peace parley was disrupted was presented by George, and read:

"The American plan open-shop method of employment to be conceded.

"A committee of three known as a wage board to handle wages only, to sit annually—listening to all views and reviews of the wage question in the building industry for mechanics employed on buildings.

"Such committee to be composed of one man selected by the employers, one man selected by the workers and these two to select the third.

"The industrial relations committee of the Builders' Exchange to sit at all times during the year as a grievance committee for the purpose of hearing complaints of the workers and for the purpose of adjusting them."

NEGOTIATIONS ENDED

Acting for the unions, Milton dispatched a letter to Colbert Coldwell, president of the Industrial Association, reading:

"The first paragraph of your ultimatum aims at the destruction of our organization and precludes the right of the worker to deal with his employer relative to wages or working conditions. It precludes the

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—William R. Newman, who gave up the practice of mechanical dentistry after thirty-four years to become an international rum runner, told in court today how American dollars bills were used as code messages by liquor smugglers.

Newman is a government witness in the trial of eighteen of thirty-three men indicted in connection with the operation of a gigantic rum fleet bringing liquor from Canada to the United States. He himself was not indicted, though he admittedly worked for the ring.

The witness said he was hired as a rum ship supercargo at $75 a week by Edward Kelly in 1924, when Kelly told him the syndicate was having considerable trouble because the supercargoes drank so much of their cargoes they could not do their work.

TELLS OF CODE

Kelly and his brother Frank, and Edward and Frank Costello are said by the government to be the "master minds" of a great liquor running organization which had its own fleet of ships and maintained large business offices in New York.

Newman, after a brief period as supercargo of the rum ship Integral, said he was put in charge of the cargo of the Vincent White at rum row. He said he was given a list of serial numbers from dollar bills by his "home office" with instructions concerning what each number stood for.

When one of the ring's fleet of small craft drew alongside, he testified, the man in charge merely would pass him a dollar bill. This he would compare with his list and so know not only the uantity, but the class and quality of the liquor called for.

He cited the serial number K36,-134,901B as calling for fifty pints of Scotch whisky, but did not explain what the code was.

PLANE HELPS OUT

Newman told of adventures while he was supercargo of the Vincent White.

In February, 1924, he said, he was forced to set sail from rum row and return to the Canadian base at St. Miquelon. Unable to raise the anchor,

NEW EXECUTIVE STRESSES TAX AND WATER PLANS

Revised Levies, New Crime Code, Complete Road System and Education Aid Proposed

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4. (AP)—Eight major projects, including tax revision, completion of the State highway system, unification of State functions, reform of the Code of Criminal Procedure, and creation of a co-ordinated State-wide program of water conservation, were recommended to the Forty-seventh California Legislature today by Gov. Young.

In his inaugural address, delivered before the Senate and Assembly in joint session, the new chief executive prefaced his remarks on specific projects with a general statement of administration policy. The new regime in California will be progressive, he assured his hearers, but without menace to legitimate industry or corporate enterprise.

GOVERNOR YOUNG

"We want these to grow and prosper, he said, "for we recognize that their prosperity is linked with the prosperity of all our State. I desire this to be a business administration in the truest sense of that term, which means not only that it shall be conducted along business principles, but also that it shall be an administration for the fair treatment and support and encouragement of every legitimate business."

CHIEF PROJECTS

Legislative reapportionment was not mentioned among the problems discussed in the Governor's prepared address.

The major projects he outlined to the Senators and Assemblymen, with and through whom he hopes to achieve the aims of his administration, are:

(1.) Revision of California's system of taxation, the first step in the project to be creation of a commission to "investigate whether our existing tax system, with periodic justifiable increases in public-utility tax rates, will continue to provide necessary revenues for the State's normally increasing expenditures; and, if not, what modifications should be made in our present system to put it on a safe, permanent and equitable basis."

(2.) Consolidation of various groups of independent boards and commissions into new departments and, in line with this systematization and unification of governmental function, the creation of a Governor's cabinet, or council, comprised of heads of departments who shall meet regularly with the Governor to discuss the various problems confronting the State.

(3.) Speedy completion of the State highway system; the revenue for this purpose to be derived from a modified form of gasoline tax acceptable in all its phases to both northern and southern counties.

WATER CONSERVATION

(4.) Adoption of a co-ordinated program of water conservation; "some comprehensive plan which will meet the needs of both our great central valleys." Organization of a State-Federal advisory commission to consider the co-ordination of present water conservation activities and plans for the future.

(5.) Revision of the Code of Criminal Procedure to speed up justice and bring up to date a body of laws written to meet the needs of California as it was in 1872.

(6.) Extension of the prison road camp system, in order that more convicts may finish their terms of punishment "with strong bodies and such small sums of money as they have honestly earned, thus giving them a fairer chance to break away from crime and criminal association."

(7.) Relief of crowded conditions in the State prisons, and particularly the establishment of a separate penal institution for women offenders.

(8.) Reorganization of the Department of Education so as to define more clearly the functions of the State Board of Education and place on the superintendent of public instruction the "entire responsibility for the educational conduct of the schools, and for the appointment of his professional assistants."

ROAD FINANCING

In connection with the problem of highway financing the Governor offered the Legislature these suggestions:

"First, let the northern and southern sections of the State determine upon a list of roads; such, for instance, as all interstate roads and other roads included in the first bond issue, to be set aside as a charge against the State as a whole.

"Second, let the revenues for remaining bonds, both for construction and reconstruction, be allocated fairly and equally between the two sections of the State.

"Finally, fix upon a gasoline tax, or some equivalent method for the financing of new roads; and thus, by giving this proposition a fair trial, permit the coming administration to show what can be done in highway construction, to the satisfaction and for the benefit of the entire State. It is unnecessary to point out that the problem must not be complicated by any attempt to add to the present State highway mileage at this time."

In discussing water conservation problems the new Governor placed his administration on record as actively for the Colorado River project and the metropolitan water district. He said:

"The prospects are very bright that Congress at its present session will furnish the needed relief for the South by passing the bill for a dam at Boulder Canyon. California will certainly do all she can toward this by showing that her attitude through representatives of this administration in Washington, as well as by legislative action which will fully safeguard the interests of the States comprising the basin of the Upper Colorado River

WATER DISTRICT

"I feel assured that this Legislature also will meet the acute need of the south for an adequate domestic water supply by authorizing the formation of a metropolitan water district such as may permanently solve her difficulties along this line."

In connection with the study of the tax system by a State commission the Governor suggested that "pending this investigation, at least during the present legislative session, no change of any kind be made in our existing provisions for raising general revenues."

Commenting on the $20,000,000 surplus in the State general fund Gov. Young remarked that "thanks largely to the receipt of impounded money from the King tax-bill suit, we shall enter the next biennium with a considerable surplus in the Treasury. But the State Controller, in a recent public statement, has pointed out that we have already reached the period when unescapable fixed charges and normal increases in expenditures will of necessity cut that surplus almost in half; in other words, a period when our expenditures are unavoidably greater than our current revenues."

"Ordinarily, with a settled and adequate tax system, a large surplus is unnecessary and unwise. Under present circumstances, however, it must be protected at all hazards by an insistence that the strictest economy in every direction shall prevail. My work upon the budget has convinced me that the positively fixed and unavoidable increases in governmental expenses will leave no room for a dollar of expenditure which cannot justify itself as absolutely necessary."

In conclusion Gov. Young expressed his conviction that "we are entering upon an era of good feeling in California, with the vast majority of our citizens wishing well for the success of this new administration."

BURON FITTS PLEDGES HIGHEST IDEALS IN INAUGURAL ADDRESS AS NEW LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4. (AP)—With a pledge to "all that is highest and noblest in the ideals of State and government" during his tenure of office, Lieut. - Gov. Buron Fitts addressed the California Legislature today, impressing the necessity at this time of loyalty to the Constitution of the United States.

BURON R. FITTS

The new Lieutenant - Governor's inaugural speech emphasized that people are now undergoing "the most gruelling test to which any people have ever been subjected."

"Out of all the centuries of human struggle," he said, "emerged at last our government with a written constitution. For the first time in human experience guarantees of freedom of worship, freedom of speech, and freedom of the press were enshrined in a written covenant—the Constitution.

"We won our liberties in the hard battle of poverty and adversity, and we must preserve them in the soft bed of wealth and luxury. God grant that we may be equal to the preservation of the virile honesty, loyalty and devotion of our fathers. God grant that we shall not be led into the slough of materialism to worship the Golden Calf."

make a deal between the northern and southern parts of the State, get up a list of roads, and then "fix upon a gasoline tax or some equivalent method," of providing the money for their construction. He admitted that a gasoline-tax measure, No. 4, had been defeated at the last election, but advised the Legislature that this was not a verdict, as there were "reasons" and the margin of defeat was "narrow." Southern California bitterly fought No. 4 and gained the victory.

Gov. Richardson, in his references to the Highway Department, predicted that if any large sums should become available there would follow a general rush for "pork barrel" roads and that county arteries would be slipped into the State system.

Gov. Young had three suggestions for the legislators in respect to the taxation system. He would have them create a commission to investigate the taxation structure, make no changes in the present system and board, and conserve the Richardson surplus until the new tax rate goes into effect.

JUST PRIDE FELT

In his farewell message Gov. Richardson pointed, with no little pride, to the healthy condition of the State government. It was apparent that by the pursued that his regime of economy and efficiency has borne fruit in the vast surplus which was accumulated in spite of the increase of fixed charges and the growth of population and in defiance of severe drains from unexpected sources. In addition there was a building program of more than $5,500,000 and $2,000,000 was expended from the San Francisco Harbor improvement fund.

He reviewed in detail the accomplishments and the present condition of all the State departments. When he reviewed public education he had several suggestions to leave with the legislators.

"The people of California are willing to contribute liberally to educational needs, but they insist that their money be expended wisely and economically," he said. "The trustees elected in the various school districts should have larger powers over the financial affairs of the districts. Educators can be safely trusted with the education of the coming citizens of the State but business men should control expenditures."

Even to the last Gov. Richardson was true to his economy program. He saved on words, reading to the assemblage not more than half of his printed address.

Gov. Young also adverted to school affairs. He said he believed the Legislature should modify the laws so that the duties of the Board of Education would be more clearly defined, while giving the Superintendent of Public Instruction greater latitude in the educational conduct of the schools and the naming of his assistants.

SQUARE DEAL PLEDGED

Gov. Young began his address by referring to the "revolution," as he termed it, in California sixteen years ago and said he planned to continue the political theories and principles of that period. He said he chooses to consider his election as an indorsement of the political philosophy for which he stands. He said his administration will be distinguished by three traits, the first being that it will be progressive in the sense that it will be willing to try anything once if it "looks sane and reasonable;" secondly, that it will be "humanitarian," wherein the "human being will at least be as important as a dollar mark;" and thirdly, that it will have a "square deal" for all.

He promised favorable legislation in connection with the Colorado River bill, now in Congress and for the proposed aqueduct from the river to Southern California cities. He suggested an advisory committee to study the question of conservation of water in all California. He said he is adding to the budget allowance for forest conservation. In his address he defended the direct primary and the initiative. He said he does not favor sentimental pampering for criminals, but suggested full opportunities for rehabilitation. He also suggested a separate prison for women.

He said he had in mind a plan to departmentalize and construct many of the multitudinous State commissions and agencies and suggested the innovation of a "Governor's cabinet" of department heads.

OATH GIVEN YOUNG

The inauguration ceremonies began when Senator Breed, president pro tem and Speaker Levey, called the Senate and Assembly to order. The inaugural committee then presented Gov. Richardson, Gov-elect (at that time) Young; Lieut.-Gov.-elect Fitts and Chief Justice Waste. An orchestra played national airs. The invocation was offered by Rev. A. Watson Brown, chaplain of the Assembly.

Gov. Richardson then was introduced by Senator Breed and he read his message. The oath then was administered to Mr. Young. Officers of the National Guard presented the new executive with the colors and the Governor's salute of nineteen guns was fired by a battery on the lawn. A heavy charge was used and the concussions dangerously rattled the windows. Senator Breed introduced Gov. Young, who delivered his address immediately in a rapid voice. The oath then was administered to Mr. Fitts, who was introduced by Speaker Levey. The orchestra played "The Star Spangled Banner" and Rev. Bryant Wilson, chaplain of the Senate, offered the benediction.

Each of the speakers received a tremendous ovation, which lasted several minutes. The reception tendered Mr. Fitts was, perhaps, the most spirited, for it is the younger men, most of them ex-soldiers, who fought with him in the World War, who have his interests most at heart.

The incoming and retiring executives, arm in arm, led the way out of the Assembly chamber to the porch of the Capitol where the R.O.T.C. cadets were reviewed.

FRIENDLY SPIRIT

There were no enmities displayed by political antagonists.

The last words of Gov. Young's address were devoted to remarks upon the spirit of good fellowship shown here and the courteous treatment he has received from the outgoing administration.

"Life is too short to prolong the echoes of pre-election battles," he said.

After the review, Gov. Young received hundreds of friends and well-wishers in his offices.

Gov. Richardson, who said in his address that he is glad he is "free," will sail from Los Angeles Harbor early in February on the steamship California for a trip around the world.

HERON NAMED AS CONTROL BOARD HEAD

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4. (AP)—Gov. Young late today announced appointment of A. B. Heron of Berkeley as chairman of the State Board of Control, and Irving Martin, publisher of the Stockton Record, as a member of the board. The third place on the board still is to be filled.

The new Governor also announced the appointment of Frank G. Snook, former secretary of the Sacramento Bar Commission, as chief of the State Motor Vehicle Division.

Other appointments announced by the Governor are: Fred B. Wood, San Francisco, chief of the Legislative Counsel Bureau, and Mrs. Leona Holmstrup, San Jose, chief stenographer to the Governor.

Formal appointment of Homer Spencer, San Francisco, as private secretary to the Governor, and Keith Carlin, Los Angeles, as executive secretary to the Governor was made. Both appointments unofficially had been announced.

Gov. Young also announced that he had received the resignation of Judge Langdon from the District Court of Appeal so that he may assume the duties as justice of the Supreme Court of California.

For the sixth consecutive term, Richard E. Collins of Redding, Shasta county, has been named chairman of Board of Equalization. Collins has completed twenty years as a member of the board and at the last election was named to the post for his sixth term of four years. He is the veteran official at the State Capitol. Prior to his election to the Board of Equalization Collins was Assessor in Shasta county for a period of four years.

LONGER DUCK SEASON BACKED BY SENATE

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4. (AP)—A bill to extend the duck season half a month was the first piece of legislation passed by the Senate of the Forty-seventh Legislature when the lawmakers of California met for their second day's work in 1927.

Senator Inman of Sacramento is the author of the duck bill, which is designed to make the duck season in California conform to the Federal season by extending it from January 15 to February 1. The season would open, as under the existing law, on October 15.

The Senator asked that his bill be considered immediately without referring to committee "so that sportsmen may have the benefit of the change this month."

With practically no opposition, the Senate passed the bill as written.

Ray Williamson of San Francisco is expected to sponsor the bill in the Assembly.

LOS ANGELES HAS LEADERS AT CAPITAL

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4. (AP)—Among the city and county of Los Angeles officials here today for the inaugural ceremonies and in interest of various bills that will be introduced during the Forty-seventh Assembly, pertinent to their section, are: Mayor Cryer, Supervisors Graves, Wright, Beatty, State Commander of of the American Legion John R. Quinn and Sheriff Traeger.

RETIRING GOVERNOR GIVES CAUTION ON ROAD FUNDS

Pork Barrel Policy Called Peril; School Business Rule Urged; Work of Appointees Lauded

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4. (AP)—A plea for continued and increasing economy in the use of State money for schools and highways featured the farewell message delivered to the Forty-seventh California Legislature today by retiring Gov. Richardson.

Declaring that "the present rate of increase in the cost of education in California will soon absorb all the revenues of the State and create a burden too heavy for the taxpayers to carry," Gov. Richardson warned the legislators assembled in joint session that "educators can be safely trusted with the education of the coming citizens of the State, but business men should control expenditures."

GOV. RICHARDSON

Concerning highways the Governor voiced the view that the $15,000,000 annually being spent on State roads "is all the money that can be spent wisely and economically" as well as all the taxpayer can stand.

ECONOMY SOUGHT

Less than $15,000,000 a year might have been sufficient, he intimated, but "owing to cheap and faulty construction previous to my administration it has been necessary during the past four years for the State engineer to reconstruct, widen and thicken many of the highways of the State.

"I have stood staunchly against extending the highway system and both after the 1923 and 1925 sessions of the Legislature vetoed a number of bills attempting to put purely local roads into the State system. I have striven to prevent the Legislature from putting the roads on a 'pork barrel' basis. At the present time there are 6500 miles of roads in the State system and of the 1500 miles of these are 'pork barrel' roads pure and simple and should never have been taken into the system."

Resources of State banks under the jurisdiction of the Superintendent of State Banks, he pointed out, "have increased from $1,985,289,586 to $2,662,588,284, and individual deposits have increased from $1,634,064,369 to $2,093,976,613 between January, 1923, and June, 1926.

PRAISE FOR AIDES

"No better commendation of the head of this department (John Franklin Johnson, who was much under fire during the primary campaign,) can be made than the fact that during the past four years not a dollar has been lost by any depositor in any State bank in California. The superintendent has stood staunchly for a fair administration of the banking laws. Recent victories in the courts have shown him to be both legally and morally right."

Of the work of Edwin M. Daugherty (also under fire in the primary campaign) and his successor as corporation commissioner, Clifford MacMillan, the Governor said:

"The two commissioners who have served in this department during my term have been able and honest in their efforts to prevent the sale of fraudulent securities. Naturally this department has incurred the hostility of dishonest men who have been curbed in their plots to rob the public."

Of Will H. Marsh, who last week resigned as chief of the Division of Motor Vehicles, Richardson said the work of his department had been conducted with great efficiency, and "while total registrations have increased 121 per cent, there has been only a 37 per cent increase in expenditures."

MONEY REALIZED

The retiring Governor also pointed with pride to the record made by the State Athletic Commission, establishment of which by an initiative measure he opposed several years ago. "Although I am not personally a follower of the so-called sport of boxing," he explained, "I endeavored to select men for the commission who would see that boxing was handled in an honest manner and at the same time give full effect to the will of the people as expressed through their vote.

"The administration of the Athletic Commission has cost the State only approximately one-half of the limit fixed by law, or in the neighborhood of $22,800 per year. The State has realized in fees approximately $240,000 that can be used toward the erection of buildings at the veterans' home at Yountville as soon as action is taken by the Legislature making the necessary appropriation. The commissioners and the secretary have been faithful, honest and efficient."

As an outstanding achievement of his economy administration Gov. Richardson cited his handling of the State Land Settlement Board.

"Prior to my term of office," he observed, "the State Land Settlement Board was almost a public disgrace. Officials of the State of California had resorted to the worst practices of misrepresentation in connection with the sale of land and the taxpayers were forced to bear the burden of unwarranted administrative costs.

SAVINGS MADE

"During my term, the overhead expenses of the Delhi land settlement were reduced from $38,360 to $11,500 per year, and at the Durham land settlement the administration cost was reduced from $8000 to $3100.

"By the elimination of private automobiles for administration heads a saving of $3600 per year was effected. In all, a reduction of $179,136 was brought about through the application of plain business-like principles to the land-settlement operations."

The Governor devoted several paragraphs to an outline of his attitude on official proclamations and said he thought there ought to be a law against promiscuous proclaiming by public officials.

"To issue proclamations declaring certain days in the interest of animals, fruits and vegetables or for special propaganda, is to bring the law into disrepute and to make the issuers of such proclamations ridiculous," he said. "There have been no proclamations issued by me setting apart 'Onion Day,' 'Horseradish Day,' 'Mollifower Day,' 'Tuberadish Day, or 'Squander-Your-Money Day.'"

Mr. Richardson lauded the sixty-six men he has appointed to judicial positions during the four years of his Governorship and declared that "the appointments of these judges have been part of my program of law and order for the benefit of the whole people and the protection of their lives and property."

In conclusion he extended his best wishes to Gov. Young, remarking that "I appreciate better than any one the heavy load of official responsibility which my successor will in a few minutes assume."

"It is with pleasure that I lay down the heavy burdens of this great office.

"It is good to be free."

He worked for about a month in New York waters, at one time helping to load 1000 cases of liquor at Port Jefferson. On its way back to New York after stocking up in Canada the Vincent White was lost at sea for several days.

Newman said he went to Curtiss Field and hired a seaplane piloted by a Capt. Caperton to search for the Vincent White. Two trips up the coast were made, he testified, and on the second the Vincent White was sighted.

Newman testified he went aboard, gave the seaplane pilot a case of liquor as a present, and then took charge of the ship, bringing her to rum row.

REDISTRICTING OUTLINED

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4. (AP)—What the California Farm Bureau Federation believes would be a fair way to work out the reapportionment plan sent to the Legislature by popular vote last November is outlined in a statement issued by the federation here today containing in detail the line-up of counties in a redistricting "fair to all section of the State."

The so-called Federal plan of reapportionment approved by the people calls upon the Legislature to redistrict the State so that no Senatorial district shall contain more than three rural counties and no county shall contain more than one Senatorial district. Assembly representation would be apportioned on a strict population basis. Los Angeles county would have twenty-two Assemblymen, San Francisco twelve and Alameda eight.

In presenting its detailed plan the federation reminds rural interests to "keep in mind the fact of their protection in the Senatorial apportionment and recognize the necessity of accepting Assembly districts of less satisfactory character.

The proposed new line-up of districts follows:

HUNT ASKS DAM-FIGHT FUND

Message to Legislature Seeks Appropriation to Oppose Congressional Measure

PHOENIX, Jan. 4. (AP)—Gov. Hunt today asked the special session of the Arizona Legislature to appropriate money to protect Arizona's rights in the Colorado River and to carry on work of the State Highway Department.

His special message reviewed the history of the Colorado River controversy as it affects the upper and lower basin States. The Swing-Johnson Boulder Canyon dam bill, the message declared, "contains a provision which proposes to abrogate all the water laws which now exist in the Colorado River basin. It proposes to destroy State rights. It proposes to place the administration and the appropriation of water under control of the Secretary of the Interior.

"It proposes to put the United States government in the power business and by so doing to deny to the States of Arizona and Nevada the right of taxation of valuable natural resources in these States on property which will present an investment of many millions of dollars."

The report of his Colorado River committee appended to the message reviewed its efforts to reach an agreement with California and Nevada and opined that "the eventual solution of this problem will be one of compromise."

Atty.-Gen. Murphy today advised the special committees appointed by both Houses of the Legislature to ask his opinion as to the legality of the special session called by Gov. Hunt, that the call was legal by virtue of the fact that a second call, dated the 1st inst., was issued yesterday. The first call was dated December 24.

GOV. DERN NAMES ADVISORY COMMITTEE

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 4. (AP)—Gov. Dern today named an advisory committee to consider the Swing-Johnson bill and the Colorado River problems, as they affect Utah generally. The date of the initial meeting of the committee will be announced within the next few days.

In his letter notifying each member of the committee of his appointment, Gov. Dern declared that, due to the pressing importance of protecting Utah's interests in the Colorado River, which are affected by the pending Swing-Johnson bill, he deemed it advisable to name a committee of representative citizens to consider the matter thoroughly.

Gov. Dern, George M. Bacon, State Engineer, and W. R. Wallace, Colorado River Commissioner form an ex-officio committee to which the citizens named will act as an advisory committee.

TWO COLORADO RIVER COMMISSIONS PROPOSED

SACRAMENTO, Jan. 4. (Exclusive) Two State commissions to negotiate on Colorado River development questions are to be created at once by the California Legislature if the Assembly and Senate concur in two resolutions to be introduced tomorrow.

One commission will go to Washington, while the other will continue the tri-State conferences with Arizona and Nevada over allocation of the waters of the lower basin of the river. The old commission, which suspended its dealings with the other States last week in Los Angeles died when the California Legislature assembled here yesterday as its term had expired.

One of the resolutions will be introduced by Assemblyman Little, Los Angeles, and the other by Assemblyman Witter, Imperial. Senator Swing will introduce them in the Senate, it is expected.

The resolutions call on Gov. Young to name the commission members. Among those discussed as possible appointees are former Senator James D. Phelan, former Senator Frank P. Flint and former State Senator William J. Carr.

possibility of the worker and employer meeting on even terms.

"Acceptance is impossible, unless modified raises an insurmountable barrier by which you have terminated further negotiations."

George H. Lakey of the Vice-president of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners who was imported to lead the strike, declared:

"The unions of the world are committed to the closed shop. It is ridiculous for us to attempt to decide it."

The strike has been in effect nine months, and has been characterized by more violence than any other local union-labor disturbance. One man has been killed and seven have been beaten and maimed.

Clarence Walton and Andrew Burton, fugitives since their indictment on charges growing out of strife violence, surrendered to police today and posted bonds for a total of $5,000. Walton is charged with complicity in the murder of William Campbell, nonunion carpenter, and with assaults upon Robert Lee Gay and George Wood, Jr., also nonunion carpenters.

All thirteen of the officials and members of the carpenters' union under indictment for murder or assault in connection with the terror of October 21, last, are under arrest and at liberty on bail.

SENATE AND HOUSE FROTH IN DAILY LIQUOR SPASM

Mellon Asked About League Part, if Any, in Poison Alcohol; Drinking Charge Assailed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—Both the Senate and the House indulged today in their daily dozen on prohibition.

The Senate sent along a resolution to Secretary Mellon inquiring among other things what hand, if any, the Anti-Saloon League or Wayne B. Wheeler had in the decision to open industrial alcohol, much of which has found its way into the bootleg trade. The House gave thunderous applause to a defense of its membership against a charge of excessive drinking and received a new crop of bills sponsored by the wets.

The prohibition subject also got into a discussion before the Senate Commerce Committee with President Dalton of the Fleet Corporation and Chairman O'Connor of the Shipping Board at odds as to whether the dryness of American liners constitutes a handicap in their efforts to compete with foreign wet lines. O'Connor took the affirmative and Dalton the negative, but committee members did not undertake to set themselves up as judges of the debate.

The Senate resolution of inquiry regarding poisonous alcohol was acted upon in the absence of its sponsor, Senator Edwards, Democrat, New Jersey, a wet leader. His colleague, Senator Edge, Republican, insisted on action and obtained it after Senator Sheppard, Democrat, Texas, a dry leader, had declared it was "absurd to speak of poisoning poison." He added that he was willing that full information should be given but could not agree to the language of the resolution.

Senator Edge, who is chairman of the wet group of the Senate, appeared jubilant after the resolution had been adopted. He called attention that the wets thus had won two victories at this session, the other having been the elimination of the $500,000 appropriation in the Treasury Department for defraying expenses of "under-cover" dry agents in gathering evidence.

LOUD APPLAUSE

Defense of House members from the charge made yesterday by Representative Celler, Democrat, New York, that members of Congress "drink and drink to excess," was made by Representative Underhill, Republican, Massachusetts, while the membership thundered its approval.

"I have been a member of the House for six years and during that time I have seen but one member under the influence of liquor on the floor of the House," Mr. Underhill said.

When the echoes of the vociferous approval this statement elicited had died, he added:

"He is no longer here.

"During that time I have seen but four members intoxicated in the House Building or corridors," he declared amid more applause. "Two of these are dead and the other two are no longer members.

JUDGES ASSAILED

"Of any group of 450 men which could be gathered together, I do not think you could find one which indulges less in drinking than the members of the House, even including those who advocate modification or repeal of the dry statutes."

After this defense of the House, Representative Cochran, Democrat, Missouri, introduced resolutions proposing repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and to permit the sale of light wines and beers.

Representative Celler introduced a bill to prevent Federal judges from issuing personal or roving padlock injunctions. In a statement accompanying the measure he charged that Federal judges are trying just as hard to take trial by jury out of the Constitution as Jefferson tried to put it in.

USE DEFENDED

The National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association tonight made public a telegram from H. S. Chatfield, chairman of its industrial alcohol committee, to Assistant Secretary Andrews which said that formulas of denatured alcohol now in effect are "protective alike of governmental and lawful business interests and any change whatsoever without consultation with representatives of industries affected would be unwarranted."

"Oil, paint and varnish trades," added Mr. Chatfield, "have used 5 per cent wood alcohol as a denaturant for nearly twenty years, which is one-half of what England prescribes and other nations specify even larger quantities.

"Stand by your guns."

DAY IN CONGRESS

The agricultural supply bill was passed by the Senate.

Veterans' Bureau loans to former service men on their bonus certificates was proposed in the House.

The right of the Senate to exercise unlimited power in passing on the qualifications of members was challenged in connection with the Smith and Gould cases.

The Senate called for information from the Treasury regarding poisoh alcohol; Representative Underhill denied charges that Congress members drank to excess.

NAVAL BILL STORM DUE

Journey Through House Begun

Tendency Displayed Toward Disregarding President's Plea Against Cruisers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—The $324,000,000 naval appropriation bill began its passage through the House today with shoals in view ahead and the barometer hovering at the storm level.

General debate on the measure centered about contentions that the Washington arms conference had proved a "dismal failure" which should no longer be employed as a guide in navy building, and that President Coolidge's foreign policy should not be supported at the cost of a weakened naval defense.

TREND OPPOSES PRESIDENT

As debate progressed a widening tendency appeared among members to disregard the President's advice to forego for the present an appropriation for constructing three cruisers whose authorization will expire next July unless funds are provided meanwhile.

The tendency took definite form in a private announcement by Representative Tilson, the Republican leader, that he was considering an amendment to provide construction funds immediately. He said he had discussed the question with Mr. Coolidge and that the President's attitude that the cruiser construction should be delayed pending possible further international disarmament conferences was unchanged.

Representative French, Republican of Idaho, in charge of the bill, pointed out that the Appropriations Subcommittee had recommended acquiescing to the President's wish, but the recommendation found little support on the floor. Replying to Mr. French's argument that the House should follow the judgment of the "Chief Executive who is responsible for our foreign relationship," Representative Black, Democrat, New York, declared that "we cannot saddle the responsibility on the Chief Executive and escape our own responsibility to provide an adequate defense for the country."

"If other nations are sincere," Mr. Black asserted, "let them cut down their cruisers and submarines until they also are on a 5-5-3 ratio such as capital ships are. The head of the nation has failed in his duty."

GUN ELEVATION PROPOSED

Before the House began consideration of the bill the Naval Committee decided to include in a pending measure to modernize the battleships Oklahoma and Nevada, a provision for elevation of guns to the maximum 30 deg., to give them firing range greater than that of British capital ships.

To accomplish the same change on eleven other capital ships, Representative Britten, Republican of Illinois, reintroduced his bill which was defeated two years ago. It would authorize a $5,500,000 appropriation for the work.

During the debate on the naval bill Chairman Butler of the naval committee criticised the picture of the relative strength of the American, British and Japanese navies presented by Mr French and declared French had included as part of the American Navy ships used in the battle of Manila and others now out of commission. Mr. French replied that similar obsolete vessels had been included in the survey of other navies and that this country had not suffered in the comparison.

Supporting Mr. Butler's view, Representative Vinson, Democrat, Georgia, a member of the Naval Committee, declared Japan, Great Britain, France and Italy all have begun construction of or appropriated for more ships than has the United States since the arms conference.

SUPPLY BILL IN HANDS OF CONFEREES

Senate Adds New Items to $128,598,589 Fund for Agriculture

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP) — The Senate late today passed the annual agricultural supply bill carrying $128,598,589.

The bill, which now goes to conference, carries $219,204 more than when it was passed by the House.

Among amendments adopted was one by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, to provide $15,000 for experimentation to determine why cattle on blue-grass ranges have discolored meat, and another by Senator Howell, Republican, Nebraska, to appropriate $2300 for experimental work in processes for the extraction of sugar from artichokes.

Senator Mayfield, Democrat, Texas, succeeded in getting a provision included that specifically directs the Department of Agriculture to develop new uses for cotton under an appropriation of $571,780 for grading and promoting farm products.

Congress all but wound up work today on the first of the batch of annual supply bills that carry $262,551,000 for the Interior Department for the next fiscal year.

All sections of the bill, including those providing $221,000,000 for Civil and Spanish War pensions and almost $12,000,000 for reclamation projects, were approved with acceptance by the House of amendments agreed to in conference with the Senate. The Senate yesterday accepted the recommendation of the conferees.

The bill must go back to the Senate for that body to act on a proposal by Representative Crampton, Republican, Michigan, that $150,000 be appropriated for a "girls' dormitory for Howard University, negro institution here.

SEAT RIGHTS FIGHT HOT

Senate's Power Challenged

Authority of Upper House to Pass on Qualifications Brings on Storm

Smith Continues Secretive on Plans as Legislators Thrash Out Problem

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—Challenges of the right of the Senate to exercise unlimited power in passing on the qualifications of its members were heard today on the floor and in committee room.

The cases at issue were those of Frank L. Smith of Illinois, appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator McKinley, and Arthur R. Gould of Maine, elected for the remainder of the term of the late Bert M. Fernald.

Senator Bingham, Republican, Connecticut, interrupted a prepared speech by Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, against the seating of Smith to express the view that the constitutional convention had not intended to grant unlimited powers to the Senate in giving it the sole right to pass on the qualifications of its members. This contention drew fire from Senator McKellar as well as from Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana.

RIGHT CHALLENGED

The right of the Senate to inquire into charges that years ago Mr. Gould bribed a Canadian premier in connection with a railroad franchise, was challenged before a Senate elections subcommittee by Frederick W. Hinckley, chief counsel for Senator Gould in the proceedings initiated by Senator Walsh of Montana.

In renewing a discussion of the Smith case on the floor, Senator McKellar said that as a result of contributions to Smith's primary campaign fund by officials of public utilities corporations, the Senator-desig nate came to the Senate with "unclean hands" and should be excluded.

Asserting that there was fraud and corruption in the election of Smith for a six-year term begining March 4 because the contributions came from men whose properties he was called upon to regulate as chairman of the Illinois Utilities Commission, Senator McKellar argued that this should be taken into consideration even though Smith comes with a certificate of appointment by the Governor.

SMITH KEEPS SILENT

The Tennesseean contended that Smith violated the law of Illinois in accepting contributions from such sources and that the expenditure of $250,000 in his primary campaign violated the decision of the Senate in the Newberry case that the expenditure of $195,000 was "contrary to sound public policy, harmful to the honor and dignity of the Senate and dangerous to the perpetuity of a free government."

While the debate on Smith's case continued, the Senator-designate himself maintained silence and still left the Senate in doubt as to when he will come to Washington to present his credentials. There was one rumor around the corridors that he will delay until just before the session ended, but this was without confirmation in any quarter.

In making his challenge of Senate authority at the opening of hearings today by the elections subcommittee, Mr. Hinckley declared that neither the Senate nor the House ever had expelled a member because of any act committed previous to his election, "except where the act carried a status that followed him into the Senate."

"Even if Senator Gould had committed the alleged offense," said his counsel, "he has led an exemplary life since and the Senate has no jurisdiction."

SUCCESS OF SHIP BOARD LINES TOLD

Senate Informed Vessels Best Operated on Routes and Will be Profitable

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—The business ability of the government was declared good enough to make the United States lines the "best operated" of the North Atlantic passenger services by Chairman O'Connor of the Shipping Board today before the Senate commerce subcommittee investigating the proposed sales of the United States and American merchant lines to private interests.

Whereas, handicaps had to be met by the government in its competition with private shipping concerns, he said, the Shipping Board and Fleet Corporation have proved by efficient handling of the passenger service, including the steamer Leviathan, it can by persistent effort make such an enterprise pay.

The Volstead Act was cited by Mr. O'Connor as an obstacle for the lines, because great numbers preferred to travel on the foreign liners where they can "get a drink."

Chairman O'Connor said that primarily the American flag is placed on the seas for "national defense" and secondarily to carry produce.

President Dalton of the Fleet Corporation expressed the view that the United States lines, since they are beginning to show a profit, should not be sold.

Senator Fletcher, Democrat, Florida, a member of the subcommittee, after its session today offered a resolution in the Senate authorizing the government to continue in the shipping business by ownership and operation of vessels and would restrict sale of ships to American citizens "on terms and conditions which will advance the purpose to establish and maintain the American merchant marine."

Japanese Prince Sails to Attend Ruler's Funeral

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4. (AP) Prince Yashuhito Chichibu, brother of the Emperor of Japan, sailed today on the Japanese liner Siberia Maru on what is expected to be a record run across the Pacific to enable the Prince to attend the funeral of his father, the late Emperor Yoshohito.

Mayor Rolph, Army and Navy notables, representatives of the Japanese Embassy and Consulate and approximately 2000 Japanese students and others were present to wish the Prince good-by, together with a large gathering of Americans.

Two United States destroyers met the Siberia Maru off the Golden Gate and escorted her for forty miles as the Navy's final honor to the Prince.

LEGION BACKS BONUS LOANS

Appeal Sent Out to Bankers to Help Veterans by Honoring Certificates as Collateral

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—The American Legion took a hand today in the controversy over loans to war veterans on their bonus certificates and an appeal went out to the bankers of the country to adopt a liberal policy.

At the same time, Mrs. Edith Nourse Rogers, the Massachusetts Representative who has been prominent in welfare activities among former service men, introduced a bill to authorize the Veterans' Bureau director to lend money on the certificates.

APPEAL SENT OUT

The American Legion move was made by John Thomas Taylor, its legislative representative here, who, in a telegram to Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago, president of the American Bankers' Association, said:

"We appeal to you as the head of the American Bankers' Association to remind your members that they should not so soon forget the sacrifices of these men eight short years ago, from which your members, among others, were the beneficiaries."

Traylor, in his message, said that "reports from all parts of the country show that comparatively few loans are being granted by banks on adjusted service certificates and that in many instances banks are refusing these loans altogether."

"Under the law," the telegram continued, "there is more than ample money in the treasury to protect loans on certificates, the Veterans' Bureau now having $320,000,000 reserve for their redemption. This disposes of the question of safety.

REASONS GIVEN

"The Federal Reserve banks are required under the law to rediscount such loans made by the banks so this disposes of the question of tying up bank funds. Therefore, there only remains the question of whether the bank officials of the nation are willing to sacrifice a little time and trouble in behalf of the men who freely gave on the average nearly a year of their time to the colors eight years ago.

"Unlike the making of these loans this sacrifice of time on the part of the veterans was accompanied by great risk, not of money, but of life itself. The type of man who now needs to borrow upon his certificate is the type who has insufficient funds to maintain a bank account and therefore would not previously be a customer of the bank from which he seeks a loan."

PROGRESS ON RADIO BILL

Conferees Near Compromise

Prospective Act Calls for Commission to Give Out Licenses

Many Broadcast Plants Face Elimination by Terms of Measure

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (Exclusive) Conferees representing the two houses of Congress made marked progress today toward an agreement on radio regulation legislation and led to predictions that a complete compromise between the conflicting House and Senate measures will be reached this week.

The prospective legislation will be the most sweeping form of regulation ever imposed by the government upon any private enterprise. The government will be empowered to confiscate individual property rights in accord with a theory of the public interest that is viewed in some quarters as verging upon Communism.

At the meeting of the conference committee today the House members tentatively agreed to accept in principle the provision of the Senate bill for the allocation of wave lengths and the licensing of radio telegraph and broadcasting stations by a commission appointed by the President.

FIVE ON COMMISSION

This commission will be composed of five members compensated on a per diem basis, the assumption being that after the allocation of wave lengths and licensing of stations, which will require several months if not a year, there will be little employment for the commission.

The administration of the act will remain in the Department of Commerce.

The commission will be empowered to determine which broadcasters shall be permitted to continue operation of stations and which shall be required to discontinue operations in the public interest. There are now more than 600 broadcasting stations and there is room for only 350 to broadcast without interference with each other on the eighty-nine available wave lengths. It will be for the commission to designate the 250 stations or more to be put out of business.

The question of confiscation of property rights will be raised when broadcasters who are operating stations representing a considerable investment are denied licenses to continue their enterprise.

This is a question that the courts will decide eventually for the conferees have agreed on a provision that an aggrieved party is privileged to appeal from the decision of the commission to the Federal District Court and either the commission or the individual may then carry the matter to the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia and eventually to the Supreme Court.

Those who detect a Communistic flavor to the prospective legislation characterize it as a deviation from the principles of property rights that have been established and recognized for centuries and which the Marxians have sought to break down.

Defenders of the radio measure concede that it is the most sweeping regulation ever imposed upon private enterprise, but assert that it is necessitated by the peculiarity of the existing conditions in the radio field. Invention eventually is expected to make illimitable broadcasting feasible. But pending such perfection of the art it is necessary, say the defenders of the bill, to limit the number of broadcasters in order to eliminate interference between stations. To limit the number of broadcasters now means putting some 350 stations off the air. The government, therefore, is to be called upon to designate the stations to be eliminated for a sacrifice of their investment in order that millions of listeners may not be deprived of the enjoyment of their receiving sets.

Congress is being inundated with letters demanding legislation to eliminate broadcasting interference. President Coolidge voiced the public demand yesterday by summoning Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, and Representative White, Republican, Maine, of the conference committee and urging a speedy agreement.

CEDAR-MOP SHEBAS FLOORED

Irate Beauty-Shop Owners Raise Loud Voice of Woe and Slap Comic Valentine Bobs, Urging Return to Tresses of Kind That Lady Godiva Wore

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—The American girl has been likened to many wondrous things, but perhaps never before has she been called either a comic valentine or a cedar mop.

Beauty-shop owners dug themselves in at the Waldorf today in preparation for the annual campaign against bobbed hair, and considerable fancy language was passed about the short-haired women.

It was the annual convention and exhibition of the shop (or shoppe) owners, and solemn resolutions solemnly were passed settling the point once and for all that long hair can be dressed more becomingly and with more individuality than short. Bobbing, it was decreed, is neither practical nor necessary to beauty and should be abolished, forthwith and forevermore.

"The worst crime committed in the name of beauty is bobbed hair," Mrs. Ruth J. Maurer, head of the National School of Cosmeticians, said in an address. "For several years now women have been going about, looking worse than comic valentines. Their short hair has not been kept in curl, but constantly straying in wisps about their faces. Then there are those who will be coquettish by frizzing their hair all around until they look like a Fiji Islander or a cedar mop."

RHINELANDER APPEAL LOST

Judges Refuse New Trial to Rich Youth Who Charges Negro Bride With Deception

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—Four judges of the Appellate Division of the New York Supreme Court today ruled that Leonard Kip Rhinelander, son of one of the oldest New York families, should be refused a new trial in an effort to have his marriage to Mrs. Alice Beatrice Jones Rhinelander annulled. He sought annulment on the ground he had been deceived as to his wife's color.

The action of the Appellate Division upheld the decision of Justice Morschauser of White Plains last spring.

One of the justices, Edward Lazansky, dissented. His opinion provides the 26-year-old son of Philip Rhinelander the opportunity to take the case to the Court of Appeals. Whether he will avail himself of another appeal could not be learned through his attorney, Isaac N. Mills, today.

Four of the five justices, who sat in Brooklyn, held that Rhinelander knew his bride was part negro, and that Mrs. Rhinelander did not deceive him in this respect.

This conclusion was similar to the one of the Jury December 8, 1925, which announced that not only had Mrs. Rhinelander not deceived her husband as to her race or color, but it added that its opinion was that Rhinelander would have married her even had he known she was of negro blood.

The Rhinelanders were married October 14, 1924, when Rhinelander was 23. Alice Beatrice Jones of New Rochelle was a servant girl, several years older than Rhinelander, and the daughter of a negro coachman and a white English woman.

Young Rhinelander left his bride on November 20 after counsel for his father, Philip Rhinelander, advised him to and he brought suit for annulment five days later, charging that his wife had deceived him.

CANADA MAY STRENGTHEN BORDER NET

Royal Commission Learns of Laxity in Prevention of Pacific Coast Smuggling

OTTAWA, Jan. 4. (AP)—Further measures looking to material strengthening of the customs preventive service in Canada both by land and sea will result from the royal commission inquiry.

Although the commission has only completed its investigation of the situation on the Pacific Coast, developments so far are considered sufficient to assure recommendations for a stronger border patrol. After hearings January 19 at Vancouver, the inquiry is to be carried east, with the commission sitting at Calgary, Regina, Winnipeg and Ontario.

Many witnesses at the hearings on the Pacific Coast told how liquor in large and small quantities was shipped to the border. On the Pacific Coast very little commercial smuggling in commodities other than liquor was discovered. As the commission moves east, however, it is expected that instances of evasion of the Canadian customs duties will become more numerous.

BROOKLYN WIFE WINS DIVORCE AND RICHES

RENO (Nev.) Jan. 4. (AP)—Mrs. Beatrice J. Elsman was given a decree of divorce today in the District Court here from Ralph Elsman, former Brooklyn (N. Y.) gas magnate, and with the decree went a cash property settlement of $208,000. Custody of a 2-year-old son was awarded to the father.

SOUTHLAND STATIONS SUBJECT OF COMPLAINTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4. (Exclusive) — "Cut - throat" competition among Southern California radio broadcasting stations has grown so unethical and severe that Federal Radio Supervisor J. F. Dillon is besieged with requests for intervention.

The general tenor of the complaints, Dillon said, is that stations of lesser magnitude, supposedly broadcasting on a specified wave length, are ranging all over the dial in an attempt to drown out other broadcasters.

Dillon is sympathetic, but is unable to do anything about it, he declared, because the Department of Commerce, to which he is attached, has no regulatory authority over broadcasters.

EARLY BOOM ON SMITH DECRIED

Supporters Fear Untimely Efforts Harmful

Governor's Power as Vote-Getter Belittled

Coolidge Called Leader of Prosperity Era

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—Presidential politics continued today to create somewhat of a stir.

Reports that some supporters of Al Smith were making an active drive for delegates to the Democratic convention were followed by a Republican spokesman's statement belittling Smith's power as a vote-getter. This statement came from Charles Hilles, Republican State chairman and national vice-chairman.

The New York World, ardent supporter of Gov. Smith, said that the Governor's closest friends were frowning upon efforts to get his boom off to an early start, regarding such steps as ill-advised and likely to hurt his chances.

DISCUSSES COOLIDGE

William Allen White of Emporia, Kan., at a public address, compared Smith and Coolidge.

The Kansas editor was asked during an address before the forum of the Jewish Center in Brooklyn whether if Al Smith went down to Washington, there would have to be a change in the attitude of the government toward big business.

"You have the cart before the horse," Mr. White answered. "There will have to be a change in the attitude toward big business before Al Smith can ever go to Washington. Personally, I consider that Al Smith represents the biggest, best, keenest and cleanest brain in American public life today—and I am a Republican."

Mr. White spoke on "Coolidge and the Changing Times." He declared President Coolidge to be "as much of a mystic as any other New Englander ever has been, even Emerson, and his mysticism is that he believes that, given prosperity, justice will come as a by-product."

LEADER OF NEW ERA

He said that he thought the President to be the typical political leader of the new era, in which prosperity is the chief end of mankind.

"I think Calvin Coolidge represents the very best that can be said of this new commercial era in its political phase," he continued. "He is a typical politician of the better sort under the new order. He is educated as New Englanders and Americans go, but he has nothing of the erudition that Roosevelt or Wilson had and nothing of the broad interests in life that any one of a dozen of the elder statesmen had; he got on the political escalator and went right up; he is thoroughly regular in his party; he has never led a lone cause, never had a political fight in his life in the sense of going out and cleaning up the gang in his ward, his district or his State."

Mr. Hilles, in a statement, said that Gov. Smith carried the State by 150,000 less votes last November than in 1923, the last off-year, and predicted a Republican sweep in New York and the nation in 1928.

"While I appreciate the personal popularity of Gov. Smith," he said, "and while I admit that he has, as head of his ticket, carried two United States Senators with him, it is indisputably true that his majority is less than it was and that he was unable in the last election to carry either branch of the Legislature.

COMPARES SMITH TO HILL

"Everyone seems to have understood that he would not have accepted the Governorship except to utilize it as a stepping-stone."

Asserting that Smith has been an expensive Governor and for that reason alone would not support him for the Presidency, Mr. Hilles drew an analogy between the popularity of Gov. Smith and that of the late Gov. David B. Hill.

"In 1890," he said, "Gov. Hill was hardly less the idol of the Democratic party in the State and scarcely less popular generally than Al Smith. He seemed a Presidential possibility. But two years later Grover Cleveland was nominated instead."

Serious differences within the Democratic party on fundamental problems might cause the nomination of a third candidate even if Gov. Smith were the standard bearer, said Mr. Hilles. He would like to hear the Governor express his stand on the League of Nations and the tariff.

HILLES ENTITLED TO PIPE DREAM, SAYS SMITH

ALBANY (N. Y.) Jan. 4. (AP)—Gov. Smith commented in characteristic Smith fashion today on the statement by Charles D. Hilles, National Republican Committeeman from New York and chairman of the executive committee of the Republican State Committee, regarding the Governor's political future.

"Every new chairman of the executive committee of the Republican State Committee is entitled to a pipe dream as early in January as he can get it," the Governor said.

"Bunk, the same old bunk," was the Governor's comment on Hilles's assertion that Gov. Smith's fourth terms was a stepping-stone for the Presidential nomination.

EDISON'S CAT-NAP JUST MYTH; HE TAKES EIGHT HOURS DAILY

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 4 (AP)—Thomas A. Edison dozes if he doesn't get eight hours' sleep. So says Dr. H. M. Johnson of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, whose experiments on the subject of sleep have convinced him that toxins generated by muscular fatigue act as stimulants to the nervous system, including the brain.

"Mr. Edison sleeps eight hours a night or more," Dr. Johnson said, terming a myth the story that Edison sleeps only four hours each night. "When he doesn't ge' that much he dozes in his chair the next day. That legend has been a standing joke among his associates. Harvey Firestone always gets a good laugh out of it."

Dr. Johnson and C. E. Weigand started their sleep tests last spring with eighteen University of Pittsburgh students as subjects. Dr. Johnson declared today he learned there is no such state as sound slumber, pointing out the eighteen students tossed about enough to make an average restlessness of one movement every thirteen minutes. A graph apparatus attached to their beds recorded the motion of the sleepers.

Jurisdiction of Government in Primaries Issue

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—The Supreme Court was asked today to decide the jurisdiction of the Federal government over State primaries.

L. A. Nixon, a negro of El Paso, who said he was excluded under the State law from voting in a Democratic primary, brought the case, which is expected to throw some light on the jurisdiction of Congress in primaries and bring a ruling which may bear on questions now perplexing the Senate.

DRUSES OF SYRIA LOSE IN BATTLE

French Slay Twenty-five and Almost Succeed in Capturing Chieftain

BEIRUT (Syria) Jan. 4. (AP)—French cavalry has routed a strong contingent of insurrectionists, who left twenty-five dead on the field of battle, 100 horses and much booty.

The dissidents were in command of Ali Attrache, a close relative of the Druse chieftain, Sultan Attrache, who led last year's uprising. Ali Attrache escaped capture only through the marvelous speed of his horse.

The outbreak in Syria led by Sultan Attrache was of serious concern to the French authorities last year, a continuous harassing movement being carried on by the Druses over a period of many months. At one time Damascus itself virtually was in a state of siege, Druse dissidents and outlaws holding the outlying gardens and carrying on sporadic forays.

Last August the French headquarters in Syria reported that the submission of the insurrectionists to French authorities was growing appreciably and that several of the principal leaders in the revolt had made peace with the Damascus authorities. Since then there have been few reports of insurrectionist activity.

SHANGHAI GOAL OF MILITARISTS

Millions in Surtaxes Lure Warring Factions

Nationalists and Northern Troops in Skirmish

American Minister Departs to Advise Kellogg

SHANGHAI, Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—The recent proposal of Great Britain by which the powers would agree to the levying of customs surtaxes by the militarists controlling the various ports as accentuating the bitterness of the forthcoming struggle for the possession of Shanghai, due to Shanghai's control of approximately half of China's foreign trade.

It is estimated that the surtaxes yield here more than $10,000,000 annually, thus making Shanghai's control a prize of the first magnitude.

Preliminary fighting started today between the Nationalist forces and northern troops in the vicinity of Hangchow, capital of Chekiang Province, about 100 miles south of Shanghai with the southern troops invading Chekiang from the adjoining provinces of Kiangsi and Fukien. The first skirmishes were indecisive, but the civilian population is evacuating Hangchow and fleeing to Shanghai in anticipation of a serious struggle.

ARE WELL EQUIPPED

The southern strength is not known, but the northern military strength here is approximately 100,000 troops, well equipped with artillery, machine guns, trench mortars and armored cars, most of which have been supplied by Gen. Chang Tso-Lin from the Mukden arsenal. Chang Chung Chang, the Fengtien tuchun of Shantung Province, is utilizing 3000 white Russian mercenaries for the purpose of offsetting the soviet Russian assistance given the Cantonese forces.

Reports from Hankow tonight state that some Nationalists are hoisting the revolutionary flag over the customs house and beginning the collection of customs surtaxes, as was done in Canton, thus forestalling the recent British proposal for surtax collections through the medium of the British administered customs.

The hurried departure of American Minister John Van MacMurray for Washington is interpreted here to be due to Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg's necessity for the Minister's advice before announcing a decision respecting the recent British proposal for a new China policy.

It is reported here that both the British and Japanese are placing pressure on Washington for a decision respecting the new policy, the Japanese being bitterly opposed to the British scheme, and trying to enlist American and French support against the British. French reports here indicate that the break-up of the solidarity of the powers will be similar to the Turkish experience, enabling China quickly to recover complete autonomy.

KELLOGG UNDECIDED ON CHINA POLICY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—Secretary Kellogg was undecided today whether the forthcoming statement of American policy regarding China would be held up until the arrival in Washington about the middle of February of Minister John MacMurray, who has been called home from Peking for conferences.

The policy statement will be in the form of a memorandum in reply to the recent similar communication received from Great Britain. It was said today that Mr. Kellogg was endeavoring to get a complete picture of conditions in China before his statement is put in final shape.

He may rely on cable exchanges with Mr. MacMurray or may decide to defer forwarding his memorandum to London until he has had an opportunity for personal conferences with the Minister.

President Coolidge would be requested, under a resolution introduced today by Chairman Porter of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, to enter into negotiations independent of other nations, for adjustment of extraterritoriality, tariff, autonomy and "other matters in controversy with China."

Belgium Denies More Money to Prince's Bride

BRUSSELS, Jan. 4. (AP) — Astrid, bride of Crown Prince Leopold, will have to worry along on 1,000,000 Belgian francs (about $140,000) a year for household expenses, milliners' and dressmakers' bills.

Parliament's announced intention of examining the question of raising the King's civil list in order to provide a special indemnity for the recently married couple has been declared unconstitutional. The Belgian constitution, it is pointed out, especially states that civil lists of the reigning family are fixed only at the beginning of its reign. Astrid, therefore, will have to wait until she becomes Queen before receiving more money for expenses.

King Albert's civil list amounts to 3,000,000 francs annually.

ARIZONA OLD-TIMERS RECALL EARLY DAYS

TUCSON (Ariz.) Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—Edwin L. Vail has been elected president of the Arizona Pioneers' Historical Society and Mrs. George F. Kitt, secretary. The annual meeting was attended by about fifty old-timers, including Mrs. Samuel Hughes, who detailed the circumstances of her trip to Tucson from Hermosillo, in the early sixties, and of a wagon journey from Los Angeles to Tucson that consumed thirty days. Mrs. Phebe M. Bogan presented evidence of the quaint naming of some of the streets of the old walled town of Tucson.

SCREEN STAR GOES ON STAGE

Helen Ferguson Lead in Opener at Hollywood Playhouse; May McAvoy Signs Contract to Star With Warners; Jackie Coogan Changes Mind on Story

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Another of our lovely young screen actresses is coming out of the film silence to go on the stage. She is none other than Helen Ferguson, who is to have the leading feminine role in Le Roy Clement's "Alias the Deacon."

Helen Ferguson

And if you don't realize what that means to a little movie girl, just pause to recollect that "Alias the Deacon" is to open the Hollywood Playhouse on the 24th inst., and that appearing in the star role will be no less famous an actor than Burton Churchill, who starred in the play in New York to huge success, and who appeared in it in other large eastern cities.

This will be Miss Ferguson's very first stage part, and naturally she is very thrilled about it all. She has been studying very hard on the role, and is rehearsing, she says, even in her sleep. Her part will be that of a young girl who runs away from home dressed in boys' clothes, travels in a box car, and gets a job as a waitress, having many adventures.

Miss Ferguson is well known to the screen, having played many prominent roles, but she has always had a hankering to go on the stage, and to this end has studied endless roles, taken dancing lessons and voice culture. So that in reality she is now ready for the big part which she has won in this fascinating play.

Ra- Hallor is playing the juvenile role, and Frances Underwood is coming on from New York for a featured part.

May McAvoy Warner Star

If you have been wondering just what beautiful May McAvoy was going to do with her beauty and her talents, your mind may now rest easy.

Mary McAvoy

Miss McAvoy, according to word received yesterday from Jack Warner, has been signed on a long-term contract with the Warner Brothers, to star in their pictures.

The deal was closed yesterday after a conference of Warner executives, including Jack Warner, Raymond Schrock and Darryl Zanuck. Already last night it was reported from the studio that many telegrams of congratulation had reached that center from various exhibitors who were informed of the pending deal.

Miss McAvoy's record reveals her as one of the biggest box-office attractions on the screen. She played lately in "Ben Hur," "Lady Windermere's Fan" and in "The Fire Brigade," in all three plays creating a most favorable impression.

Warner Brothers assure us they will purchase as starring vehicles for Miss McAvoy only those stories which appeal to the public at large.

Jackie Coogan's Next

After all, we aren't to see Jackie Coogan playing a cabin boy yet a while, he having postponed "Buttons" to be his second picture under his new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer contract.

JACKIE COOGAN

Instead Jackie will play a young soldier, or at least a soldiers' mascot, in "The Bugle Call," an original story based on frontier life immediately following the Civil War.

Hunt Stromberg made the announcement yesterday, and stated that a large part of the picture will be filmed on the original locale near Fort Laramie, Wyo. This will require a long location period for young Coogan and company. So far no director has been assigned the job.

Jackie in this picture will play the role of the son of the commandant of an army post and the mascot of a regiment of cavalry in the Indian country.

All of which sounds very much like the very intriguing story which Buster Collier, then a little boy, did for Thomas H. Ince at the beginning of Buster's acting career some ten or eleven years ago. It was such a very good story that I am glad if this is the same one in which little Jackie is to appear.

Jocelyn Lee Gets Role

JOCELYN LEE

However, after various tests of various players in the meantime, Paramount has decided to give Jocelyn Lee the part in the picture, which, as you know, is Florence Vidor's next starring vehicle.

This will be the biggest part Miss Lee has ever essayed and naturally if she is to fill the alluring Miss De Putti's shoes she has her work cut out for her. But B. P. Schulberg announced yesterday that he has every faith in Miss Lee's ability and so we shall watch for her on the screen with great interest.

Universal Star Returns

Conrad Veidt, the very excellent foreign actor who starred in "Michael Strogoff," and who has been promising to come to our shores for the past several weeks, actually is as good as with us right now.

The star, who came to New York, but who went back to Europe again without ever touching base at Universal, where he was under contract, will arrive in New York on the 23rd inst., proceeding at once to Hollywood and arriving here on the 29th inst.

He is bringing with him his wife and child, and expects to build a home here.

Eddie Cantor Cogitates

With the production on "Special Delivery" under way as his second starring comedy for Paramount, Eddie Cantor is already starting plans for his next picture.

"I believe that I have an entirely new idea in human interest comedy plots," Mr. Cantor says, "but the idea is just taking form and hasn't developed far enough to say much more about it than that the basic theme will be expressed in the title, 'Good Service.'

"Not having very much to do between 8:30 in the morning and 6 o'clock at night except work in this picture and think up gags for tomorrow's shooting, keep in touch with my family and hunt for a new house to put them in when they come from the East; and having nothing to do after 6 o'clock except eat, look at rushes, think up more gags, etc., why, I thought maybe I'd work out an idea for my next picture.

"In 'Kid Boots' I played the role of an assistant tailor and showed that he could be a good pal and friend. In 'Special Delivery' I am playing the part of a mail carrier. In 'Good Service' I am planning to hit another angle of public service, and treat it in the same sort of human way."

Arthur Rankin With Universal

Arthur Rankin has been signed by Universal to play a prominent role in a series of two-reel comedies starring Charles Puffy, work on which began last week.

The juvenile is well known and popular in pictures and his work in this series, which is by Octavius Roy Cohen, is expected to heighten that popularity.

Adolphe Menjou Travels

Mrs. Eyton Globe-Trotting

Every once in a while somebody asks me, "What has become of Kathlyn Williams?

So it is with pleasure I tell all you children that I have word from Charles Eyton, Paramount executive, that his wife—of course you known Kathlyn is Mrs. Charles Eyton—has been traveling for the past two months. She has just left Europe for Alexandria, Egypt, from which place she plans to pay a visit to the tomb of King Tut-Ankh-Amen, and thence to Cairo. Following that, Mrs. Eyton plans to enjoy the rest of the winter in Italy.

Now hitting on high! Record-breaking smileage in every ga-hah-hah-hah-alloneverv gallon!

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

A young Italian-American coloratura and Mrs. Edward MacDowell, exponent of the music of America's most famous composer, were the outstanding events of the concerts in Los Angeles last night.

Josephine Lucchese is a winning young opera singer blessed with good looks, a clear voice of high range and an abundance of Latin temperament. She sings well in the style of long, long ago. Trills, roulades, floraturas and all the rest of the ornaments of exhibition singing indulged in by those who have the voice and the musical instinct were displayed lavishly in her concert at the auditorium last evening before a fair-sized and extremely friendly audience.

There is a peculiarly personal note in Signora Lucchese's voice which carries the intimate quality usually heard in a small room over into a large auditorium. In some of her Italian songs, notably a lullaby by Bettinelli and in the ballad type of song which she chose for encores, this attractive quality was apparent.

The program consisted of unusual Italian, Spanish and French arias and she was ably assisted by the pianist, Dorothy Borchers, and the flutist, Harry C. Knox.

Mrs. Edward MacDowell was presented by the Music Teachers' Association in a recital of her husband's works, which was enjoyed by a large audience of musicians and students. Mrs. MacDowell and the colony for artists maintained at Peterborough, N. H., are American institutions of which we should be very proud. The work of unlimited influence for good, which is being done by this cultured, intellectual woman, perpetuates the glory of her husband's name in a peculiarly significant manner.

Mrs. MacDowell's talk last night on the Peterborough "farm" which she operates and turns over to the talented creators of beauty in music, painting, writing and sculpture during the summer, was intensely interesting. It is without doubt, the most productive artist-farm in the country. The aim of MacDowell admirers is to create a permanent fund during Mrs. MacDowell's lifetime so that the work may continue without the tireless efforts of the great composer's wife, thus relieving her.

A program of the well-known favorites such as "The Eagle," largo from the Tragic Sonata, "To a Water Lily," the two pieces and excerpts from the Keltic sonata was played by Mrs. MacDowell.

Greta Nissen Wasted Effort Growing Hair

Greta Nissen, who plays one of the featured roles in "Blonde or Brunette" at the Metropolitan Theater this week, recently saw one year's effort in growing long hair wasted by the barber in five minutes. The sacrifice was necessary for the better sequences in the picture, in which Miss Nissen undergoes a change from a sweet, unsophisticated country girl, to a gay Parisian society belle.

The long tresses were acceptable in the earlier parts of the picture, but after the visit to Paris everything must be changed, and no amount of camouflage would register the kind of bob needed.

Adolphe Menjou is starred in "Blonde or Brunette," and in addition to Miss Nissen, the supporting cast includes Arletta Marchal, Mary Carr, Henri Menjou, Adolphe's younger brother, and others.

Adams Cast in Role of Judge at Vine Street

Fritz Adams has been engaged by A. G. Wilkes to play the judge in the Patrick Kearney dramatization of Theodore Dreiser's dynamic novel, "An American Tragedy," with which the new Wilkes Vine-street Theater will open Wednesday January 12.

It is a part for which he is said to be particularly well suited. Fritz Adams has the white hair and the distinguished mien characteristic of a prominent jurist.

Adams is well known to New York audiences, having been under the management of Sam Harris, the Selwyns and Walter Hast. Last season he appeared in "Paid" at the Booth Theater, New York, and the two previous seasons he appeared in the Selwyn's production of "Johannes Kreisler" and later in "The Fool." The season before that Mr. Adams appeared at the Eltinge Theater in New York in "Martinique," with Josephine Victor.

LIKES BEING BAD 'UN

Villain of "Castles in the Air" Doesn't Mind

Why do people want to go on the stage? David Preston, the machiavellian chancellor in Edward D. Smith's musical comedy success, "Castles in the Air," which closes its run at the Mason on Saturday night, answers the question for himself. When he was 7 years of age, he saw "Uncle Tom's Cabin," and decided to become an actor.

No, Simon Legree wasn't his inspiration, for he never thought of playing a "heavy" till he came to Stage Director Frank Reicher of El Capitan for a part in "Castles."

Great was his surprise when he found he would have to make things tough for Prince Carol and the American heiress. Now he likes skullduggery, for after all, he says, heroes come and go.

"Their engagements are sporadic at best, and are predicated upon youth, but for steady employment give me a villainous part. The villain, like the poor, you have with you always."

WILL TELL OF "THE MIRACLE"

Miss Victoria Powell, former English actress and lecturer of Shakespeare and his plays, the theater as well as an interpreter of current drama, will deliver a lecture on "The Miracle" before the Artland Club dinner guests at the Fine Arts Building tonight. During the past three seasons Miss Powell has been lecturing exclusively on "The Miracle" and is said to give a very comprehensive picture of the beauties of this tremendous production Los Angeles is soon to see. She also gives intimate sketches of Lady Diana Manners, Elinor Patterson, Iris Tree, Fritz Feld, Elizabeth Schirmer, Orville Caldwell, Mikhail Dalmatoff and other international artists who are prominent in the cast.

When War Is a Pleasure

Dolores Del Rio and Edmund Lowe,
Appearing as two of the central figures in the Fox film version of "What Price Glory," now showing at the Carthay Circle Theater.

"Son-Daughter" Will Make Way for "The Dove"

The engagement of "The Son-Daughter" at the Belasco Theater ends Sunday night of this week.

The Belasco management is closing "The Son-Daughter" Sunday in order to prepare for the production which is being utilized for "The Dove," in which Richard Bennett opens the 14th inst. Thus the theater will have no performances for four nights next week while Director Fred Butler is perfecting his company of sixty in the Willard Mack play. "The Dove," one of the most successful plays ever produced by David Belasco, ran for two entire years at the Empire Theater, New York, and a year in Chicago. Its locale is Mexicali and its scenes show a cabaret and gambling house in this resort.

Richard Bennett, will have the role of Don Jose Maria Lopez y Tostado, who repeatedly styles himself "the best damn caballero in all Mexico." It is the sort of part that Bennett does best. Dorothy Mackaye, who has been playing in "The Son-Daughter," will have the role opposite Bennett. Others in the cast are John Junior, John Stokes, Maude Truax, Ary De Leoni, Harry Willard and Rose Burdick. Over fifty extra people will be utilized to supply the atmosphere in the Mexican dives. The original David Belasco settings have been shipped on here for the Los Angeles presentation.

OBER SIGNED BY DE MILLE

Robert Ober, film actor, has returned from a week-end at Arrowhead to undertake an outstanding role in William De Mille's new picture, "The Little Adventuress," starring Vera Reynolds. The story is taken from A. A. Milne's "The Dover Road." Ober will soon be seen in "Held by the Law" and "Butterflies in the Rain."

ARTISTS ENTERTAINED THEM

Jack Laughlin, who stages the prologues for the Carthay Circle and Figueroa theaters, provided an hour of entertainment for the inmates of the Barlow Sanatorium New Year's Day. Artists of the "What Price Glory" prologue entertained.

PANTAGES SHOWS INTERESTING FILM

Reed Howes

"Wings of the Storm," the photoplay feature at Pantages this week, is a story of a dog's mental and physical growth. Thunder, a police dog, is the star, with White Fang his mate. White Fang is said to be one of the few pure white police dogs in the world.

The human members of the cast include Reed Howes, Virginia Brown Faire and William Russell.

Exterior scenes for "Wings of the Storm" were filmed in Rainier National Park, in and about the base of Mt. Rainier, and it is said that the scenic beauty is remarkable.

Milhaud Here to Lecture for Pro-Musica

DARIUS MILHAUD

Before starting on his tour he was soloist with the New York and Philharmonic Symphony orchestras and with the Boston Symphony.

Milhaud is one of "the six" so dubbed by a Parisian newspaper man who discovered six young enthusiasts of musical composition in the modern idiom who were in the habit of dining together in a certain Latin quarter cafe. The name had publicity value and made them famous.

Milhaud came to the United States in 1923, playing in and around New York. During that time he avowed his hatred of Wagner and his love of jazz, his edoration of Mendelssohn and Verdi and his dislike of Schumann; his loathing for sports and his passion for his little motor car and got himself called the "enfant terrible" of contemporary music.

MORDKIN BALLET OPENS ENGAGEMENT

Mikhail Mordkin and his Russian Ballet open a week's engagement at Philharmonic Auditorium this evening.

In bringing the Mordkin company Impresario Behymer has engaged one of the foremost male dancers of the day, but Mordkin also ranks preeminently as a producer.

Among solo dancers are Vera Nemtchinova, Mlle. Hilda Butsova, the associate of Pavlowa; Pierre Bladymiroff, partner of Kasarvina, and Nicolai Zfereff, the solo dancer of the Moscow Opera.

Performances are scheduled for tonight, tomorrow, Friday, Saturday, Tuesday evenings, as well as Friday, Saturday and Tuesday afternoons.

JOAN AND ALBERTA TO DANCE NEW STEP

Something said to be quite different from any novelty entertainment heretofore offered to the Music Box patrons is promised for the special midnight matinee held after the regular 8:30 performance Saturday night.

Joan Crawford, M.-G.-M. contract player, and Alberta Vaughn, F.B.O. star, will vie with each other for supremacy in the art of dancing the Black Bottom. Both young actresses are talented dancers, and each has her own loyal following, so the competition will undoubtedly be fast and furious.

Roy D'Arcy, Armand Kaliz, James Hall, George K. Arthur, and other matinee idols will appear as the guests of Lupino Lane.

SPANISH STARS TO COME HERE

Princess Theater Company of Madrid Will Appear at Mason Theater

Maria Guerrero and Fernando Diaz de Mendoza, with their Princess Theater Company of Madrid, and with two special baggage cars to hold the equipment of more than twenty plays, will appear in Los Angeles at the Mason Theater the week of the 16th inst.

MARIA GUERRERO

Some of the foremost actors and actresses of Spain are said to be members of the Guerrero-Mendoza Company's Princess Theater, of which they are the owners, as well as the Cervantes Theater in Buenos Aires.

Among the plays in their repertoire which will receive production are "Dona Mario la Brava," by Marquina; "La Malquerida," by Benavente; "Locura de Amor," by Tamayo y Baus; "Don Juan Tenorio," by Zorrilla; "Cancioneros," by Quintero; "La Condesa Maria," by De Tena; "El Caudal de los Hijos," by Phillios; "Dona Perfecta," taken from Galdos's novel; "La Propia Estimacion," by Benavente; "Dona Diablo," by Argavin; "La Enemita," by Nicodemi, which was played by Nance O'Neil in the United States as "Stronger Than Love."

The Spanish company has appeared at the Manhattan Operahouse in New York and in New Orleans, San Antonio, Tucson and Phoenix, and will appear in Los Angeles, and in San Francisco at the Columbia Theater.

'Faust' Judged One of Twelve Best Pictures

"Faust," produced by F. W. Murnau, the man who made "The Last Laugh," and now in Hollywood making his first American production, has been accorded the distinction of being classed as one of the twelve greatest pictures of the year by leading critics throughout the country. It was shown at the huge Capitol Theater in New York City for two weeks and literally took the critics of the metropolis by storm.

Emil Jannings, considered one of the world's greatest actors, portrays the role of Mephisto. This actor is also now in Hollywood making his first appearance in American films.

Local interest in the forth-coming engagement at the Figueroa Theater where it is to have its first western showing on Saturday, is intense and many members of the Hollywood film colony are preparing to witness it at its premiere here.

Mr. Miller will also offer the second program by Salvatore Santaella and his twenty-piece orchestra on the stage in a diversified concert program.

NOAH BEERY WILL APPEAR AT FORUM

Noah Beery, the villainous Sergt. Lejaune in Herbert Brenon's production of "Beau Geste," will make a personal appearance at the Forum Theater, where the Famous Players-Lasky road-show picture is now in its seventh week, tomorrow evening. Beery has in "Beau Geste" what is considered to be the greatest character role he has ever interpreted on stage or screen.

It is his favorite part, because while he plays a villain, he is at heart a real soldier of the French Foreign Legion. Other screen stars are expected to be included in the Beery party tomorrow evening.

WHY DO THEY LOOK SO NICE—AFTERWARD?

"Why do girls look so darn nice after you've lost them?" asks the sophisticated philanderer in "The Kiss in a Taxi," which opened last Sunday at the Moroso. Later on, however, he uses every wile to get rid of the girl so that his wife won't find out his little weaknesses in the matter of pretty women.

Lambert, the man-about-town, boasts that he never has to "pay" afterward for any of his affairs with women because he uses an assumed name when visiting a rendezvous. When he tries to sever his relations with Ginette, the owner of a cafe in the Montmartre in Paris, it almost costs him 300,000 francs.

BEBE AT BOULEVARD

Bebe Daniels in the comedy "Stranded in Paris," is the screen attraction at the West Coast Boulevard Theater for four days beginning today with Gene Morgan and Band and Fanchon and Marco "Specialties" entertainment on the stage. Bebe is seen in the role of an American shop girl who arrives in Paris, becomes stranded, wins a job with a modiste, is mistaken for a countess, goes through a lot of escapades endeavoring to escape the real count and countess which is only a part of the situations.

STARRED IN "THE DEVIL"

George Arliss, now in "Old English" at the Biltmore Theater, made his first appearance as a star in Molnar's "The Devil," after which he acted W. J. Locke's "Septimus." Perhaps his greatest early success was "Disraeli," which he played for five years. Then came "Alexander Hamilton" and "Paganini." To escape historical roles, he revived Sir J. M. Barrie's "The Professor's Love Story" with Jeanne Eagels as his leading woman.

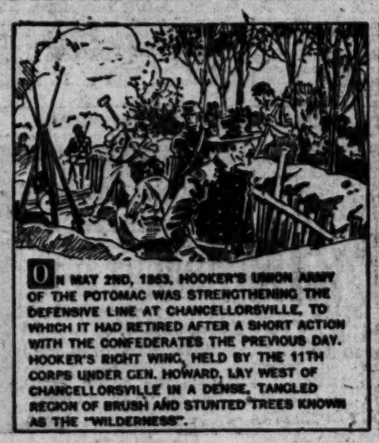
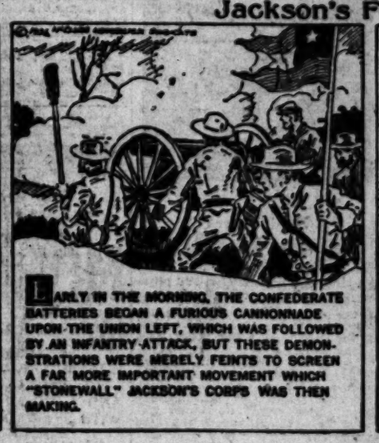
Jackson's Flank March.

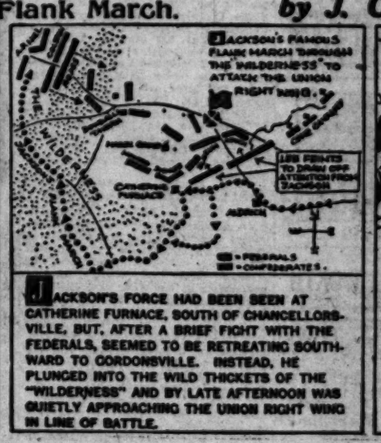
by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD



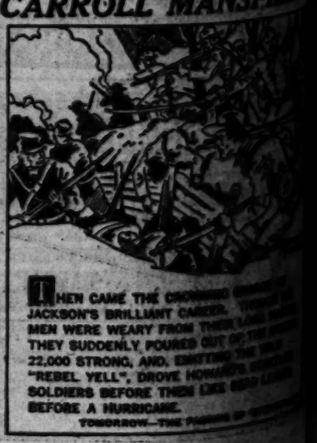
ON MAY 2ND, 1863, HOOKER'S UNION ARMY OF THE POTOMAC WAS STRENGTHENING THE DEFENSIVE LINE AT CHANCELLORSVILLE, TO WHICH IT HAD RETIRED AFTER A SHORT ACTION WITH THE CONFEDERATES THE PREVIOUS DAY. HOOKER'S RIGHT WING, HELD BY THE 11TH CORPS UNDER GEN. HOWARD, LAY WEST OF CHANCELLORSVILLE IN A DENSE, TANGLED REGION OF BRUSH AND STUNTED TREES KNOWN AS THE "WILDERNESS".



EARLY IN THE MORNING, THE CONFEDERATE BATTERIES BEGAN A FURIOUS CANNONNADE UPON THE UNION LEFT, WHICH WAS FOLLOWED BY AN INFANTRY ATTACK, BUT THESE DEMONSTRATIONS WERE MERELY FEINTS TO SCREEN A FAR MORE IMPORTANT MOVEMENT WHICH "STONEWALL" JACKSON'S CORPS WAS THEN MAKING.



JACKSON'S FORCE HAD BEEN SEEN AT CATHERINE FURNACE, SOUTH OF CHANCELLORSVILLE, BUT, AFTER A BRIEF FIGHT WITH THE FEDERALS, SEEMED TO BE RETREATING SOUTHWARD TO GORDONSVILLE. INSTEAD, HE PLUNGED INTO THE WILD THICKETS OF THE "WILDERNESS" AND BY LATE AFTERNOON WAS QUIETLY APPROACHING THE UNION RIGHT WING IN LINE OF BATTLE.



THEN CAME THE CRUSHING BLOW OF JACKSON'S BRILLIANT CAREER. THE UNION MEN WERE WEARY FROM THEIR LABORS AND THEY SUDDENLY POURED OUT OF THE WILD 22,000 STRONG, AND, EMITTING THE WILD "REBEL YELL", DROVE HOWARD'S RETREATING SOLDIERS BEFORE THEM LIKE DRY LEAVES BEFORE A HURRICANE.

MEXICO CITY TEEMS WITH RUMORS OF REVOLUTIONS

Reports of Sporadic Revolts and Bandit Raids Cause Fear of Graver Developments

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 4. (AP)—Mexico City is deluged with revolutionary disturbances in various parts of the country. Within the last three days there has been one murderous hold-up by bandits only a few miles from the capital, one train and six automobiles have been attacked and passengers robbed within forty miles of the city. Newspapers assert that revolutionary risings in towns in different States have been suppressed by Federal soldiers and that leaders executed at Leon, State of Guanajuato.

Whether there is any general revolutionary movement under way, explaining that many such operations are the work of local bandits or groups of so-called revolutionaries, which the Federals are exterminating.

The boldness of the bandits in coming as near as ten miles to Mexico City has caused considerable excitement in the capital. Yesterday bandits kidnaped six Mexican hunters returning to the city and killed one who resisted and severely wounded another. The bandits released the remaining four after robbing them. The same day, presumably, the same band, held up several automobiles near Tlapam, a suburb, robbing the passengers.

Two hundred revolutionists attacked the military garrison at Leon Monday, but were repulsed by the Federals, who killed ten of them and executed eleven of the leaders, who, said to have been prominent citizens of the place. Reports have been current here that they were prominent Catholics, but the episcopate is without such information.

On Sunday afternoon thirty-five or more armed men, described by the authorities as bandits, but who themselves shouted that they were revolutionists needing supplies for their operations, robbed the passengers of six automobiles near the place where Jacob Rosenthal, a retired business man of Woodmere, Long Island, New York, was kidnaped in September and later killed by his captors. This place lies between Mexico City and Cuernavaca. Not long afterward a railroad train near the town of Ajusco, thirty miles from Mexico City, was boarded by bandits and robbed.

Late dispatches say the Federals put down rebel risings at Concepcion Del Oro, State of Zacatecas, executing several of the leaders. The specials also report, but without confirmation, that there was a rising of Catholics at Perras De La Fuente, State of Coahuila, and that they "seized the Municipal authorities."

THEFT OF SHOES BAD BARGAIN

One Hundred Stolen From Salesman all for Left Foot

CHICAGO, Jan. 4. (AP)—Somewhere in Chicago two thieves probably are looking for 100 cripples who have lost a right leg each. The thieves stole ten cases of shoes, worth $400, from Hyman Miller, a salesman, yesterday.

"They will have quite a job disposing of them," Miller told the police. "You see, they were all lefts."

MONEY BAGS BURSTING

First Half of Fiscal Year in United States Produces $218,279,937 Excess

Income and Customs Funds Increase as Public Debt Total Takes Drop

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—The Treasury ended the first half of its fiscal year with a surplus of $218,279,937, compared with $125,568,500 for the same period a year ago.

Although calculations based on figures for the first six months show a surplus of almost $500,000,000 for the year, Undersecretary Winston declared the surplus will be about $380,000,000. He said the margin for the first six months was cut yesterday by appropriation of $123,000,000 to the fund of war veterans' adjusted service certificates.

Income tax and customs receipts flowing in during the last quarter increasing amounts accounted for most of the excess.

During the year ending December 31, 1926, the Treasury reduced the public debt by $1,173,504,301 to a total of $19,074,665,337. Of the reduction $314,333,900 was accomplished during the last month.

Customs receipts for the first six months of the present fiscal year amounted to $318,817,857, compared with $292,621,815 a year ago. A total of $48,431,263 was collected from customs in December, or $2,000,000 more than last December.

Income tax collections for the six months were $1,046,840,969, compared with $855,739,015 a year ago. In December these receipts totaled $329,238,919.

Miscellaneous taxes, many of which were repealed by the new revenue law, yielded only $354,456,346 for the first six months of this fiscal year, compared with $437,800,572 a year ago.

Washington Boasts Policeman Who Brought in $16,500 in Fines for 1926

WASHINGTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—The national capital boasts the world's champion advocate of law and order. He is Patrolman Raymond V. Sinclair, special traffic law expert of the first precinct, whose record for 1926 shows 3842 arrests with only thirteen dismissals in court.

GOODYEAR SUES SEIBERLING ON FUND MISUSE CHARGE

Sherwin Accusation That Former President Misappropriated Million Basis of Suit

AKRON (O.) Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—Charges that Frank A. Seiberling, former president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, misappropriated $1,311,416 of the company's funds were voiced in a suit filed in the Summit county Common Pleas Court here today by the Goodyear company. Picking up the ammunition turned out by John Sherwin, Cleveland banker, yesterday in his reply to a stockholders suit, the Goodyear company turned the volley upon Seiberling, reiterating the charges of fraud made in Sherwin's statement.

The petition charges that during the period from November, 1911, to October 31, 1920, the defendant and agents authorized by him illegally withdrew large amounts of money belonging to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company which, it says, were misappropriated to the defendant's own use.

An aggregate amount of $11,631,417 was thus drawn, according to the petition, which states that a portion was subsequently repaid. Seiberling is charged with concealing the amount he is asserted to have owed the company at the close of each year by repaying the principal amount said to have been misappropriated during the various years in time for preparation of the annual balance sheets.

The petition continues with the assertion that, each time Seiberling intended immediately to misappropriate again the funds repaid and charged that he did so to fraudulently conceal the amount he owed the Goodyear company for interest and deceiving it into believing that there was no such interest due.

Other funds which the petition charges were owed by Seiberling to the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company December 6, 1920, amounted to $3,774,729.06 "being the unpaid balance of other funds of the plaintiff, misappropriated by the defendant to his own use during the year ending October 31, 1920, with interest thereon."

This indebtedness was, according to the petition, discovered by independent auditors and subsequently recognized by Seiberling "to deceive the plaintiff into believing there were no other amounts of claims owing by the defendant to the plaintiff."

Charges that he "wrongfully represented to the plaintiff and its board of directors that the only amounts owing by the plaintiff to the defendant was the said sum of $3,774,729.06" follow.

By reason of the concealments, the petition says, the plaintiff was deceived into failing to bring action against the defendant until after the time limit for such action had expired.

Reference to the Goodyear Heights No. 2 allotment is made in the petition, which charges fraudulent conversion of $1,030,362.57 by the defendant's failure to pay for certain improvements to be placed upon said property as agreed upon in the oral contract incident to the sale of the property.

Seiberling, the petition charges, purchased the subdivision for $70,000 and, by concealing the facts of its actual value, induced the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company to enter into an oral contract, by the terms of which the Goodyear company was to purchase the real estate from the defendant for the sum of $899,400, the defendant agreeing to make and pay the cost of certain improvements. Pursuant of the contract the plaintiffs charge they paid Seiberling $899,400 and that during the years 1917 to 1919, inclusive, Seiberling caused the rubber company to allot the property and had improvements put in, causing the plaintiff to pay for same.

Seiberling has refused to comment on Sherwin's reply and the suits filed today, other than to say he would answer them through the courts.

The assertions made in today's suit are contained in two petitions filed on behalf of the company by Beckwell and Grant, Akron attorneys. The petitions are identical except that one sets forth the reason the suit was not started prior to the expiration of the time limit set by law for the collection of such debts. The company expects, however, to collect upon but one if it wins its case.

President F. W. Litchfield of Goodyear issued a statement explaining why his company had refused permission to Mrs. Gertrude A. Bentz of Cleveland, a preferred stockholder, to have he. attorneys examine the Goodyear books relative to its sales since 1921 to Dodge Brothers, Inc., an automobile manufacturing company which is sponsored by Dillon, Read & Co., New York bankers, as is Goodyear.

"A stockholder of Goodyear has started suit to get the right to inspect the records of sales of tires from Goodyear to Dodge Brothers," Litchfield said.

"The reason that inspection was refused by Goodyear was that the plaintiff's lawyers are connected with and acting for interests competitive with Goodyear.

"There has been no change in the relations between Dodge Brothers and Goodyear, since the Dodge reorganization, and Goodyear has no larger percentage of Dodge business than it had for many years before.

"Of my own personal knowledge I assert, without fear of contradiction, that there has not been the slightest impropriety in the relations between Dodge and Goodyear. Anyone who states or implies that there has been such impropriety is either a willful mischief maker or is badly misinformed."

TREE TEA ORANGE PEKOE ---is a blend containing the finest mountain growths of INDIA TEA

How to make TEA correctly

Firstly

Be sure you use India Tea, or a blend containing India Tea.

Secondly

Use an earthenware teapot, and put into it one good teaspoonful of India Tea for each cup of tea required.

Thirdly

Be sure you pour the water into the teapot the moment it boils. Only fresh boiling water can bring out the true flavour of the tea. Hot water is no use. Water that has been boiling for some time does not give the best results This is important if you want a really good cup of tea.

Fourthly

Allow the tea to stand 5 minutes to infuse. Put a little cream or milk into each cup before pouring out the tea. It greatly improves the flavour. Then add sugar to taste.

Any retailer or store can supply you with India Tea or blends containing India Tea. He has no difficulty in getting it, as practically every wholesale distributor of tea in this district supplies India Tea. He will gladly get it for you—but—

Foster Son to Share in Porterville Estate

Find Paper Hidden in Wall of Bedroom

Discovery Ends Long Search for Missing Will

PORTERVILLE, Jan. 4—Porterville is all thrilled over another "mystery" estate, only this time the "missing papers" are believed to have been found.

Attorney Guy Knupp is expected to file in the Superior Court of Tulare county in Visalia today what is believed to be the last will and testament of Mrs. Anna E. Anderson, widow of the late Luther Anderson, pioneer cattleman of this district and former Indian agent at the Tule River Indian reservation east of here.

This will was found in the bedroom where Mrs. Anderson, known for her eccentricities, died last April. William Garfield, a Tule Indian, taken into the childless home of the Andersons about thirty years ago when they lived on the reservation following his own mother's death, and known throughout this section as the Anderson's foster son, found the will. It names Garfield as one of the heirs to the estate, valued at about $50,000.

Legally, Garfield has no claims upon the estate, which consists of a homeplace in the heart of Porterville, valuable town lots and a cattle ranch of about 3280 acres. While he had practically known no other parents and had served the aged couple faithfully through the years upon their cattle ranch, Garfield had never been adopted.

Even though no papers were found indicating to whom Mrs. Anderson wished the property to go, Garfield held steadfast to his belief in her. A slip of paper pinned to the sleeve of a night dress she wore during her last illness had instructions, according to Garfield, which told where the will would be found.

"Behind the mopboard," it said, and there it was found. The document, also names Ewell Norris and Rolo Norris, sons of Mrs. Anna Norris of this city, whose husband was a nephew of Mrs. Anderson, as the other heirs.

It undoubtedly was written by the old lady, declare those familiar with her handwriting, and was signed by her. It was dated "March, 1926," the month before her death.

There are about eight nephews and nieces in various sections of the country, it is said, and it is believed they will contest the will. George Harwood of Seattle, a nephew, spent considerable time here in the spring seeking a will but his efforts were fruitless.

Mrs. Norris, who knew Mrs. Anderson intimately, declared the old lady had told her of making a will, but gave no hint of its nature. Other friends were also told of a will.

Mrs. Norris was named administratrix of the estate and with attorneys sought diligently for a will to no avail.

Those who knew Mrs. Anderson intimately, declare it typical that she should have made a will and secreted it. They state that one time she had holes bored in the legs of her dining-room table and hid gold coins in the cavities. Liberty bonds were found beneath the carpet and a considerable amount in gold money in one of her trunks.

Thus, while discovery of the will is a surprise, there is a general chorus of "I told you so." Locally, there is also much sentiment in favor of the Norris brothers and Garfield, owing to the years of relationship.

This incident also calls to mind the good fortune of Miss Blanche Weeds of Porterville, Indian, who fell heir to the large estate of her foster mother, Mrs. Rachel Jackson Woods, being given preference over blood heirs in spite of the contest.

Rachel Jackson Woods was the wife of a former prominent California politician, her father was an intimate friend of Stonewall Jackson and she was named for his wife. While coming to California as a bride in the early days, members of her party found an Indian baby whose mother had been slain by a marauding band. This baby was taken to Mrs. Woods who reared her as her daughter.

HEADS SUPERVISORS

Buena Park Representative Presides in Orange County

SANTA ANA, Jan. 4.—William Schumacher of Buena Park, senior member of the County Board of Supervisors, was elected chairman today by an unanimous vote to succeed T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach, retiring chairman.

Schumacher's election followed a previously understood program. When he took the chair he found a huge floral basket at his place, the gift of his fellow Supervisors. A committee representing the Placentia Chamber of Commerce, presented him with an ebony gavel, having his name inscribed on a silver plate. Sheriff Sam Jernigan presented a box of cigars.

Secretary Thomas Pickerill of the Placentia body, presented the gavel as a "token of service" rendered by Schumacher, "not only for the Third District, but for the entire county."

IRRIGATION QUESTIONS IN COURTS

Large Ranch Interests Take Issue With Directors of Water Storage District

HANFORD, Jan. 4.—Miller and Lux yesterday brought another suit against the Tulare Lake basin water storage district, this one in Kings county, where the big lake is located. They filed an application last week for an injunction in the Fresno courts.

This is a legal battle between giants as the Miller and Lux agricultural land holdings are probably the largest of any single company in the State, while the water storage district embraces all the immense tract of land in the Tulare Lake bed now dry for many years and which the district seeks to reclaim from floods and furnish water for irrigation.

The litigation in Fresno county concerns flood waters of Kings River, which the Tulare Lake people wish to utilize and which Miller and Lux say under riparian rights must continue to flow through their lands. The suit started here yesterday is to enjoin the water storage district from disbursing two assessments amounting to 60 cents an acre on all the land in the lake bed, some of which is owned by Miller and Lux. Plaintiffs seek to enjoin five of the directors of the storage district, all prominent capitalists of San Francisco, Los Angeles and Fresno, from paying for the construction of water drains dredging and other work, portion of which work is still in progress. The directors named are A. W. Schindler, W. G. Wright, J. A. Weston, H. L. Martin, A. W. Goodfellow and L. A. Nares.

TIRED OF LIFE

Two Attempts at Suicide Fail at Fresno

FRESNO, Jan. 4.—Tired of living, they said, Kenneth Peterson, a sailor attached to the U.S.S. Farragut at San Diego, and Peter Bensler, Fresno laborer, sought death by asphyxiation and hanging, respectively, last night, but their attempts were frustrated by the timely arrival of first aid.

Peterson, who married a Fresno girl here several months ago, and who was here on a furlough, was discovered in an unconscious condition in a hotel room where an unlighted gas heater had filled the room with gas. He was brought back to consciousness by the rescue squad of the fire department after half an hour's work. While he said he was tired of living, police said they attributed his act to marital difficulties.

Bensler was found hanging in the attic by his wife a few minutes after he had attempted to take his own life, and when he was cut down by a neighbor who was called by Mrs. Bensler, his only remark was, "Why didn't you leave me alone, I was just beginning to sleep well." Both will recover.

The Appling boy, son of G. J. Appling, principal of a Biola school, died at a Fresno hospital today from injuries received when he was struck by a car driven by Jack Saunders as he stepped from the platform of the Biola Postoffice directly into the path of the car.

GROWERS PLAN ACTION

Hold Adjourned Session in Fresno to Determine Future of Olive Marketing Organization

FRESNO, Jan. 4.—Directors of the California Olive Growers, Inc., Statewide co-operative association, will meet here in adjourned session tomorrow morning to plan a course of action which is to be pursued in connection with the order of State Corporation Commissioner MacMillan that the association's corporate permit be revoked.

The revocation order was issued following a hearing in which it developed that the association had accepted stock subscriptions prior to receiving a permit from the Corporation Department.

Charges by Corporation Department accountants that the association's books did not account for the disposition of more than 4,000,000 pounds of olives delivered by growers, were answered by the company with figures showing asserted disposal of the "missing" olives as waste and culls, and in storage. The company answered the mismaccounting charge, with the statement that the crops had not been disposed of and records completed to the extent that such an accounting could be given. The accounting data were being compiled prior to the calling of the hearing, company officials testified, and will be ready to go to the growers soon, it was said today.

Pending the directors' meeting, C. E. Welkert, general manager, declined today to forecast the steps that may be taken, confining his remarks to a denial that the association may be dissolved. Several steps are possible through which dissolution may be obviated, he said.

B. A. Harbour of Hemet is president of the association.

PRISONER ESCAPES FROM CHAIN GANG

SANTA ANA, Jan. 4.—Charles Dupont, county prisoner, working on the chain gang in the Orange County Park, escaped, according to a report at the Sheriff's office today. Dupont was sent to jail on December 21, last, on a reckless-driving charge and was serving 250 days in lieu of paying a fine of $250.

He was sentenced in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court and his term would have expired August 27, 1927. Dupont came to jail one day after E. G. Cammell, Huntington Beach man, who escaped the 1st inst. Both were serving 250-day terms for the same offense. Cammell, however, was a trusty. According to jail records, Dupont is a peddler, his home address being 4171 Brunswick street, Los Angeles. He was arrested by Officers Yoder and Sawyer of the State police.

SURVEY MADE OF LOSS BY FROST TO FRUITS

GIRARD, Jan. 4.—Following a survey just made of citrus groves in the foothills west and north of here, it was found that the lower-lying groves suffered a loss of 30 per cent through the recent cool weather, while in better-favored localities the damage was about 10 per cent. The lowest temperature recorded was 24 deg. and lasted for a very short period. Smudge pots operated on the coolest nights kept damage down. It is estimated that about $2000 in oil was used in keeping the smudge pots in operation in the groves. The west end of San Fernando Valley is usually free from cold snaps and frosts. The recent chilly spell was out of the ordinary and in some groves the smudge pots were used for the first time.

DEMANDS HEAVY BAIL

San Diego Justice Sets Amount at $100,000 in Case of New Yorker Accused of Forgery

SAN DIEGO, Jan. 4.—Bail in amount of $100,000 was the record demand set here this afternoon in the case of C. J. Dryden, arrested here New Year's Day as a fugitive from justice in New York, Justice Lloyd E. Griffin fixing the amount after hearing arguments of Dep. Dist.-Atty. Earl Lovett in favor of $150,000 to $200,000 and Attorney Adam Thompson, for Dryden, claiming constitutional rights for "reasonable" bail.

Lovett based his high figure on the amount of money Dryden was reported to have obtained by forged checks in New York. He had some information that the amount was about $175,000 and a Burns detective took the stand, producing photographs said to be of the original checks, or some of them, aggregating $153,000. Attorney Thompson argued that there was no evidence that Dryden had signed or passed the checks, that no date of the asserted offense was given, the reported indictment charging second-degree forgery some time before December 8.

Thompson also declared that he has wired Gov. Young to set a date for extradition hearing and is awaiting reply. Thompson also had brought habeas corpus proceedings in Superior Court to get a fixing of bail for his client, who has been held in jail since last Saturday, but said he would dismiss that action at once if Justice Griffin would fix the amount. In naming $100,000 as the amount the court stated that was to serve until the Governor's hearing on extradition, or until further documents were received from New York that would better indicate the nature of the crime alleged against Dryden.

Citrus Men to Celebrate End of Fine Season

ORANGE, Jan. 4.—Annual meetings of the citrus associations in and near Orange are being scheduled now that the biggest citrus year in the history of the district has closed. The annual meeting is usually held in March, however, and when it is held there will be a refund to make to growers.

Holiday Death Toll Increased at Bakersfield

BAKERSFIELD, Jan. 4.—The holiday accident death toll grew to seven today with the death of Claft Gaston, 40 years of age, of San Francisco, who Sunday was brought to a local hospital with both legs broken following an automobile accident thirty miles north of Bakersfield, near Delano.

According to attending physicians, the man's legs were fractured in a number of places, but his state of severe shock prevented surgical treatment. Gaston's condition was so extreme physicians said that it would have proven fatal to attempt to give an anaesthetic necessary for an operation. Shortly before death the man complained of internal pains, also.

A. Hall, also of San Francisco, who was injured in the same crash, is confined at a Tulare hospital, according to reports received here. The man was given first-aid treatment at Delano following the accident.

According to the version of the accident given by Gaston when he first was brought to the hospital here, he and Hall were en route north from San Bernardino, and near Delano stopped to repair a punctured tire. He said his machine was parked far off the highway, but he and his companion were knocked down by another automobile.

The dead man was affiliated with the Pig 'n' Whistle of San Francisco, according to information obtained here. His mother, who also resides in the northern city, is en route to Bakersfield.

HIGH TIDE COMES TO BOAT'S AID

Oil Tanker Aground Near Huntington Beach Saved from Destruction

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Jan. 4.—Death and disaster hovered over the Orange county coast line this morning when the 3684-ton oil tanker San Ubaldo, bound for Los Angeles Harbor, from London, Eng., went aground at Newport Beach near the mouth of the Santa Ana River.

The boat stuck fast on the beach at 2 o'clock this morning but steamed off undamaged at 9:25 at high tide. Bilge water which was carried as ballast was pumped out and the boat floated off, according to Antar Deraga, lifeguard at Newport Beach.

A dense fog caused the skipper of the big oil tanker to lose his course.

The San Ubaldo is owned by the Anglo Mexican Petroleum Company of England, according to a report at the Marine Exchange in San Pedro. The San Ubaldo is scheduled to pick up a cargo of oil and return to London.

It was the second boat to go on the beach in the fog here during the last week. The $65,000 yacht Louise, owned by E. D. Burge of Santa Ana was destroyed when it ran on to the beach in the fog Sunday night.

GOLD NUGGETS COVER GROUND

Aged Prospector Returns With Startling Story

Said to Have Staked Claim in Rich "Diggings"

Strike in Mountain Region of Mono County

VENTURA, Jan. 4.—Somewhere in the upper reaches of the high Sierras above Mono lake a new gold field has been discovered which is so copious that it may even eclipse the placers of the storied days of '49. Lugging a heavy canvas bag filled with glittering nuggets, Henry Miller, octogenarian, Indian war hero and exiled member of the German Reichstag, staggered into Ventura, County Hospital today.

The old man was overcome by exposure and after he had been revived told hospital attendants of a fabulous gold field which he says was overlooked in the gold stampede over California in 1849.

Miller declared that the ground in the wilderness region where he had staked claims is virtually covered with pieces of gold. He says that the metal glitters through the rock and sand. The field which I found after ten years of prospecting was passed up by the mad prospectors who combed the Sierras fifty years ago," he declared.

"Two Piute Indians who have worked for me for five years have staked claims in this virgin gold field and we will all be millionaires." Miller says his discovery is nestled in the mountains fifty miles from any civilized community, and is 8000 feet in elevation above Mono Lake. The nearest town is Woodford.

Miller told a rambling story of strange adventure dating back to his exile from the Reichstag in Berlin, where he fled to London in 1888, and the next year was employed as a war correspondent by William Randolph Hearst to "cover" the Boer War. "After the Boer mix-up was settled I came to California," said Miller. "I got into the Modoc War in Northern California and I now draw $20 a month from the government for my services."

Miller is under treatment at the hospital for an injury to one of his feet. He will be unable to return to his "diggings" for three weeks.

MURDERER FIGHTS TO SAVE LIFE

Gov. Young to Hear First Plea to Save Man from Gallows

SAN BERNARDINO, Jan. 4.—The fight to save Jack Slater, the slayer of City Marshal Jim West at Needles in July, 1924, from the hangman's rope will be placed squarely before Gov. Young tomorrow. It will be the first request to the Governor to invoke executive clemency since he took the oath of office. Slater is under sentence to hang Friday.

Attorney Fred Duffy of San Bernardino, representing the doomed youth, arrived in Sacramento today and announced that he had been granted an audience with the Governor tomorrow. The attorney will ask that the Governor grant a stay of execution, review the case and commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

Slater, whose appeal to the California Supreme Court was rejected three months ago with the terse comment that "the defendant ought to be hanged for his crime," is in death row at San Quentin.

Slater 2[illegible] years old, shot West, one of the picturesque old peace officers of the desert, at Needles when the officer attempted to arrest Slater and his companion, James R. Brown of Chicago, for a service-station robbery in Arizona.

Slater shot the officer and jumped on Brown's car, the youths fleeing across the desert before an angry posse of Needles citizens. The boys were captured in a boat attempting to cross the Colorado River north of Needles. West, shot through the head, died at a San Bernardino hospital five days later. Slater's only defense was, "I didn't mean to shoot." He was sentenced to death and his companion, Brown, to life imprisonment. Slater's home is in Buffalo.

Art Collector Has Busy Day at Alhambra

ALHAMBRA, Jan. 4.—There are art collectors and art collectors. One of the latter kind is being sought by polite and especially by Andrew Bjurman, noted sculptor, whose work has been on exhibition in many cities.

Bjurman lives at 834 South Garfield avenue, this city. He has installed several of his pieces of statuary on the grounds of his home, making it one of the show places of Alhambra. Henceforth he is determined to give more privacy to his work and to confine his exhibitions to the regular channels.

On New Year's Day Bjurman discovered that a large piece of sculpture, "The Garden Queen," was missing, pedestal and all, from the yard. The statue is six feet high and very heavy. It would have required two or three men to lift it. Not a trace of it remained. The piece was valued at several hundred dollars.

This morning another of Bjurman's prized works, a bust of Abraham Lincoln, was missing. This time the pedestal was left. The bust is considered one of Bjurman's best works and is very valuable.

So the sculptor is hoping that a particular kind of art collector will fall into his hands. Or those of the police.

CALEXICO WILL PLAY SAFE

Hiring of Los Angeles Contractor as Condemnation Expert Authorized by Trustees

CALEXICO, Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—Arrangements for a committee to pass on condemnation of buildings damaged in the earthquake that visited this city and Mexicali last Saturday morning were made at a meeting of the City Trustees tonight. A resolution was passed authorizing the employment of Edward L. Mayberry, Los Angeles contractor, as a construction expert to remain indefinitely to act with the city building inspector and a third member not yet named.

Mayberry spent several months in reconstruction work at Santa Barbara. It is believed the condemnation inspections will take about a week. There are fifty to sixty buildings in the business district to be examined.

The board also passed a resolution forbidding the lighting of fires in houses with damaged chimneys.

WATER SUPPLY GOOD

City Health Officer Heck reported sanitary conditions are up to normal. He quoted State Health officers as saying conditions are virtually perfect. The water supply is excellent.

Los Angeles banking interests have given assurance that money will be available at low rates of interest for complete reconstruction of damaged buildings, according to the statement of Mayor T. J. West, this morning.

These funds, together with earthquake insurance that will cover approximately 50 per cent of the damage to buildings in the business district, will make it possible to complete the restoration program within sixty days, West said. Many owners have already started tearing down shattered walls in preparation to rebuilding. Others are waiting for the insurance adjusters to complete their surveys and a number have announced that they will not start work until the committee named to night is functioning.

Calexico school trustees met this morning and decided to postpone the opening of classes until next Monday. Repair work on the grammar schools, they stated, is not completed and the temporary building being erected to replace the shattered high-school structure will not be finished before that time. A big crew of volunteer workers began work on the emergency building this morning.

SCHOOL ABANDONED

Mexicali officials decided today to abandon the Cuauhtemoc boys' school owing to its shattered condition. Streets were practically cleared of debris today, broken windows have been boarded up and business is proceeding along normal lines in most of the business districts.

Governor Rodriguez of the Northern District of Lower California has named officers of the Mexicali Chamber of Commerce as members of a special committee to survey the damage in that city and make recommendations as to what action the territorial government should take in aiding reconstruction.

Minor tremors were felt today but were so slight as to pass unnoticed by a majority of local people. Ranch employees working in the Black Butte district reported today that the rumors of volcanic eruptions at Black Butte were unfounded. Burning brush on newly cleared land was responsible for the smoke seen in that direction early this week, they said.

BETTER DAYS FOR MEXICO

Official of Republic Visits in Pasadena

Here to Study Roads and Public Schools

Days of Revolution Have Passed, He Says

PASADENA, Jan. 4.—Dawn of the most substantial, intelligent and efficient administration Mexico has ever had, the southern republic is now launching a great era of construction, which includes new schools, irrigation projects and harbor facilities, and unprecedented prosperity looms ahead, says Don Roberto J. Alexander, State Engineer of the State of Vera Cruz, who is in Pasadena.

Engineer Alexander is in California to study highways and college buildings and to act as special representative of his State in awarding contracts for their construction in Vera Cruz. He came at the direction of Citizen General Heriberto Jara, constitutional Governor of Vera Cruz.

Alexander is extremely optimistic over the economic and political outlook of Mexico. "The year 1927 will be one of the greatest in the economic history of Mexico," he said. "Both Federal and State governments have embarked upon the largest program of educational, agricultural and building projects ever undertaken.

"The days of revolution are past, he declared. "The administration of President Calles is the staunchest and best that has ever been in power in the country is loyal to Presidente Calles and is in sympathy with the administration's progressive program. The standing army of 60,000 is well equipped and loyal. Huerta's rebellion hints are relinquished.

"The State of Vera Cruz intends to expend $4,500,000 on improvements at once. About $1,000,000 of this will go into the construction of a new State University and balance will be spent for new buildings.

Alexander has been studying plans for the new buildings of the University of California in Los Angeles and plans to recommend that the Vera Cruz institution be patterned after them. Likewise, he declared, has gained much valuable information on California highways, which he will take back to Mexico.

Construction contracts for the State of Vera Cruz work have already been awarded to numerous American companies, and the office is now in the similar construction progress, which are being carried forward simultaneously in other States. Alexander is under the government's comprehensive program.

"Stable government is assured in Mexico," Alexander stated. "There is great opportunity exists for American and other foreign capital in my country. We welcome outside capital and I believe the next few years will witness important private developments in Mexico by American capital."

The Mexican engineer expects to remain in Pasadena ten days longer. He has his headquarters at 68 South Dowey & Raymond, 84 South Robles avenue.

He spoke of his personal interest especially as relating to the welfare of employees of the stock exchange, directing that a high standard of conservation for the growing boy manifest in workers of the future.

Deposits in the national banks increased substantially, while those in State institutions were lower, because of the consolidation of the Security National and the Heilman National Trust and Savings banks, which transferred the latter institution from the State bank group into the national section.

SIXTEEN SHOW DROP

Of the thirty-four banks in Los Angeles all but seven reported an increase in deposits as of December 31, last, as against the last previous call, and of these were State banks and seven national banks. The following showed higher deposits: Security Trust and Savings, Pacific-...ern Trust and Savings, Bank of Italy, California, Citizens' Trust and Savings, Bank of America, Union Trust Company, Bank of Commerce, Central Commercial and Savings, Alabama Specie Bank, Ltd., Liberty State, West Adams State, Broadway Commercial and Savings, Hollywood State, Arroyo Seco, Commercial State, Merchants' National, Citizens' National, Commercial National, United States National, Pacific National, Seaboard National, People's National, Farmers and Merchants National and Wilshire National.

Among the State institutions only minor changes were made in ranking. The Italian Bank moved up from fourth to third place, the Bank of Italy from tenth to ninth, the Hollywood State from seventh to seventh, and the Second-Pacific from twenty-first to twenty-second. The Pan American Bank, organized for business December 1, reported nearly $4,000,000 deposits at the end of the second month, places it in eighth place among the State banks of the city.

BANK DEBITS AT NEW HIGH LEVEL

Clearinghouse Data Show Gain of $9,281,046 Over Old Mark

Bank debits in Los Angeles on Monday, as reported by the Los Angeles Clearinghouse Association yesterday, totaled $59,042,018, a new record, which eclipses the previous high mark of $49,760,972, established February 16, last, by $9,281,046.

This new high record in debits, established on the same day as the new record of $44,123,914.58 in bank clearings, reflects the improvement of business conditions here generally, and indicates that business in the early part of 1927 will at least come up to the high 1926 level.

ACCUMULATION IN EDISON

Favorable Earnings and Possibility of Extra Account for Activity; New Plan May Come up

BY EARLE E. CROWE

After looking over the list for likely investment opportunities with possibilities for appreciation in market price, it appears that Southern California Edison common has attracted more than passing attention from investment buyers. With the turn of the new year the stock has sold up in the neighborhood of 32, and acts as if accumulation is under way.

Several plausible explanations can be advanced, any of which might be correct. The trend of monthly earnings, as reported regularly by the company to the Railroad Commission, has indicated that the 1926 statement will show a comfortable increase in profits, probably running around $12 a share. Last year the company earned $9.98 after depreciation, including the additional allocation out of earnings to satisfy the deficiency in 1924 depreciation reserves.

EXTRA HINTED

While the indicated improvement in earnings is probably sufficient alone to account for the stock market activity, the hint of an extra dividend for the common may prove to be the real power behind the accumulation of the shares. Nothing in the way of comment has ever come from the company on this point, except that John B. Miller, at the last annual meeting, answered an inquiring stockholder with a cryptic: "It is possible."

The possibilities, of course, depend on a number of influences. Earnings must be favorable, the business prospects must be satisfactory, and the attitude of the Railroad Commission must be favorable. On the last point, it may be of significance to note that the members of the Railroad Commission are all Richardson appointees, the retiring Governor having reappointed the two members whose terms expired last year.

If the Edison Company should ever undertake a program of extra dividends, the possibilities are that the "service dividend" plan, formulated by R. H. Ballard, executive vice-president, will be favored. This plan is predicated on the belief that efficiency as exemplified in the surplus earnings over the rate of return allowed by the Railroad Commission, should be rewarded.

REWARD FOR EFFICIENCY

Assuming that the commission fixes 7½ per cent as a fair return on the property investment, the plan provides that if the company, in any one year, should earn 9 per cent, for example, the excess would be distributed among the people contributing to the result. Divided into groups these people are the consumers, the workers, the management, and the stockholders.

For its part in contributing to efficiency, each group would receive its share of the excess earnings in the form of "service dividend" checks. The consumers, according to the plan, would receive one-half of the excess, and the management-labor group and the stockholders the other half.

To the consumers, the "service dividend" might mean the operation of a washing machine without cost during the year. To the workers and employees it would represent extra compensation for efficient work, and to the stockholders it would amount to an extra dividend.

Details of this plan have been published before, and it is possible that the stock market believes that the company is considering the submission soon of the proposal to the Railroad Commission for its consideration. The approval of such a plan unquestionably would benefit the stock materially.

BANCITALY WILL ISSUE NEW STOCK

Stockholders of the Bancitaly Corporation will receive the right to subscribe to 125,000 shares of the recently authorized increase in capitalization at a price of $85 a share, according to an announcement received from the San Francisco office of the corporation late yesterday afternoon. The new stock will be offered in the proportion of one new share for each sixteen now owned.

"We propose issuing 125,000 shares at $85 a share," the announcement, signed by A. P. Giannini, president, said, "offering our present stockholders the right to subscribe to one share of the new issue for each sixteen shares now owned. At the same time there will be issued 125,000 shares of treasury stock to be held for subsequent sale at a price of $95 or more per share."

Stockholders of the Bancitaly Corporation at a special meeting last December voted an increase in the authorized capital from $50,000,000 to $100,000,000, represented by 2,000,000 additional shares. The stock now to be issued is the first distribution under this authorization.

On the basis of the closing price yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange of 90 1-4, the rights to subscribe to the new stock have a theoretical value of about 75 cents.

Government of Mexico Adds to Shipping Service

To more adequately handle the growing volume of trade between the Pacific Coast of the United States and the west coast of Mexico, the Mexican Navigation Lines, owned by the Mexican government, has increased the number of vessels in this service to four, having an aggregate tonnage of 12,000. The announcement was made here yesterday by Baldomero A. Almada, assistant commercial attache to the Mexican Embassy in Washington.

Mr. Almada, who is in Los Angeles to call on exporters and importers, said that the government, in response to his request, recently transferred the Jalisco from the Gulf Coast to the West Coast service. The Jalisco has just made its first trip, carrying 2800 tons of cargo from San Francisco and Los Angeles. The other ships in this service are the Washington, Bolivar and the Moctezuma.

In 1926, Mr. Almada said, exports from Los Angeles and San Francisco reached a total of approximately $12,000,000, one-half going by water. The volume is constantly increasing and the Mexican government, he added, intends to promote in every way the interchange of goods. The ships of the Mexican Navigation Lines are now calling on all of the twenty-two ports on the west coast of Mexico.

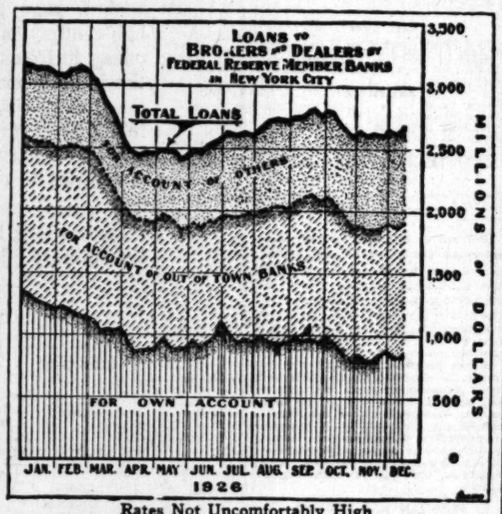
International Paper Applies for New Leases

JUNEAU (Alaska) Jan. 4. (AP)—The International Paper Corporation today filed application with the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D. C., for all water-power rights and timber leases on Revilla-Gigedo Island, the application covering the same lakes and streams included in an application filed several weeks ago by the Zellerbach Paper Company.

The International Paper Corporation plans to construct a paper mill with a 250-ton daily capacity at Thorne Arm, near Ketchikan, if the application is granted. Ketchikan is on Revilla-Gigedo Island.

Officials of the company are on their way to confer with the Forestry Department regarding contract terms.

Trend of Collateral Loans Charted



Rates Not Uncomfortably High

It is almost a year now since the procedure of publishing weekly the statements of loans to brokers and dealers by New York Federal Reserve Bank member institutions was inaugurated. That the innovation has been helpful in many ways is beyond question.

As the foregoing chart reveals, such loans are not now excessive, standing far below the January peak and less than half way between that level and the low-point of late May. Summer stock market activity caused temporary expansion, but that fall setback eliminated this largely.

SANTA FE ANNOUNCES MELON CUT

Extra Cash Dividend of 75 Cents a Share to be Paid on Common

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—Directors of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway today declared an extra cash dividend of 75 cents on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1.75. The dividends are payable March 1 to stock of record the 28th inst.

Recent accumulation of Atchison, which touched a record high at $172 a share last month, was based on prospect of substantial stock or cash dividend at the January meeting. Despite frequent official denials of dividend rumors, Wall street persisted in belief that Atchison's directors would follow lead of United States Steel common in sharing part of its huge surplus with stockholders, the fact that both corporations have the same banking affiliations probably influencing this belief.

Net operating income of the road in the first ten months of 1926 totaled $52,664,742, as compared with $40,395,472 in the corresponding period of 1925. This indicated earnings for the year at the rate of over $20 a share on the common stock.

W. B. Storey, president, declined to say whether the extra dividend of 75 cents would be continued in future quarterly payments.

London Daily Radio

BY ARTHUR W. KIDDY

Copyright, 1926, by New York Evening Post, Inc.

LONDON, Jan. 4. (By wireless)—Year-end optimism has already given place to some soberness, partly because investors are awaiting the results of the new government loan, and partly because the big new issues threaten indigestion.

Mexican issues were lower in sympathy with those in America, but industrials were inclined to improve, more especially the iron and steel securities. Trade is showing quiet improvement.

The Westminster Gazette asserts that American automobile companies are silently reorganizing for a consolidation of their hold on the British and other foreign markets.

We are now anxiously awaiting indications of monetary developments in the United States.

The feature of the market in the afternoon was a further rise in German exchange to 20.42½. The Bank of England obtained £246,000 of bar gold out of £295,000 available, the balance going to the Continent trade.

India investments closed good, but other markets were idle and everything was rather waiting the result of the government loan. Tobacco stocks were weaker on the idea that recent enormous profits may prompt some special taxation in the next budget. Oil shares were lower, especially the Mexican group. Kaffirs showed a steady increase in favor.

CHEAPER MONEY PREDICTED

Bankers, Economists and Statisticians, in Annual Forecasts, Agree on Currency Situation

BY PAUL WILLARD GARRETT

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—Opinions on the 1927 trend in business as expressed in the annual forecasts were strikingly in agreement on at least one point. Most bankers, economists and statisticians hold that the fundamental position of money is not only sound, but that the prospect for cheaper money soon is good. There is real encouragement in the fact that business has continued in large volume without absorbing an excessive amount of surplus credit. It means that the machinery is well oiled. It also means to the dealer in bonds that a market for gilt edged descriptions is virtually assured for the months immediately ahead. The moderate advance in call rates to 3½ per cent and 6 per cent late in the old year reflected simply preparations for the year-end payments and demands incident to the season.

With the inauguration of January, however, the usual seasonal easing in rates is expected. In its current bulletin on business conditions the National City Bank points out that currency requirements, which during the summer were running $80,000,000 to $100,000,000 above a year ago, "have recently dropped down to where they are about equal to or below last year, and this change, together with the lower level of net demand deposits, has meant during recent months a lessened demand upon the country's banking reserves. At the same time the volume of these reserves has been increased by net imports of gold of approximately $90,000,000 since last year. So long as these conditions persist it is pretty certain that nothing in the nature of tight money is in the offing."

The bank also expresses a general sentiment when it says that the expansion in commercial demands incident to increased industrial activity has brought no evidence of excess borrowing. For the most part business concerns have financed themselves without recourse to bank credits such as usually fallows a growth of a similar character.

And as the bank says, "Inasmuch as the increase in commercial loans has been unaccompanied by an increase in other types of loans and investments, the year ends with but a moderate increase in total bank credit outstanding over the levels prevailing at the close of last year."

In years gone by business depression usually has been invoked, in part at least, by a tightening in money rates. It is scarcely conceivable how the present period of prosperity could be turned into serious depression so long as the country's money and banking position rests on a solid rock. That is why market authorities lay stress upon the movement of money rates in efforts to follow business trends and why they may, with good reason, look forward to continued activity during the months immediately ahead.

That bankers should continue to maintain a position of liquidity is plain enough, but nothing on the horizon now indicates any desire on their part to depart from this prudent policy.

Downward Drift at Opening Suddenly Reversed

Brisk Rally Led by Motors, and Sugar Shares

Moderate Gain in Volume of Trading Recorded

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—Stock prices displayed a complete reversal of form today, selling off sharply in the morning and early afternoon and then rallying vigorously under the leadership of the motor, sugar and baking shares. There was nothing in the day's news to explain this sudden change of sentiment, but the fact that speculator for the decline apparently had been unable to force a shakeout of long stock in the face of recent bearish market developments, encouraged a resumption of operations for the advance in many issues. Trading showed a moderate increase in volume, running above 1,000,000 shares.

From a market standpoint, one of the most interesting developments of the day was the action of the Atchison directors in declaring an extra dividend of 75 cents on the common stock in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1.75. Wall street, which had been anticipating a stock dividend up until a few days ago, apparently had an inkling of what was coming, as the stock opened 4 1-4 points lower at 164, rallied above 165, when the financial news tickers erroneously reported an extra cash dividend of $3, sold down to 162 1-2 on the corrected announcement and then rebounded about a point.

DEPENDABILITY

"DEPENDABILITY" sums up in one word two essential features of every good investment...security of principal and certainty of income, regardless of fluctuating economic conditions.

The bonds and stocks of established power, light and gas companies...supplying necessities of life under careful State regulation... constitute a class of securities of unsurpassed dependability. They occupy a vital and important place among the investment holdings of banks, insurance companies, and conservative private investors.

32.—YOU CAN'T GET SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

The authorship of the saying, "You can't get something for nothing," may be shrouded in mystery, but its truth is undeniable although there are countless new ways in which people continually try to disprove it. Here is one incident of such an attempt:

A man bought a certain new textile company stock at $30 a share in 1924. He reasoned it out this way: The stock was paying 10 per cent in dividends. He could borrow from his broker at 6 per cent. If he bought the stock on a 50 per cent margin; that is, pay down half of the purchase price, he would net 14 per cent on his money. Also, the stock might possibly advance. He never thought that no one's money is worth 14 per cent. If it were the broker would not have lent at 6 per cent.

The company was paying $3 a share in dividends and selling at $30. It had sold as high as 62½ in the previous year and our amateur investor expected it to repeat, but earnings slipped to about $2.50 a share in 1924. As a result, the dividend was passed soon after the man bought the stock. He was then in the position of paying 6 per cent on money which was not paying him anything in return, instead of the 14 per cent which he expected.

Things grew worse. The company lost money. The market price of the stock declined from $30 to less than $1. The company was new. It had been incorporated only since 1919. It had been paying dividends only since 1922. It was carrying on an extravagant program of expansion. Perhaps the man did not know these factors. He could have learned them by inquiring from any reliable investment banker. Or, just plain common sense should have told him that the broker would not lend him money at 6 per cent if it could be employed safely at 14 per cent.

There is plenty of money available for safe, legitimate enterprises at low rates. No company or no individual needs to offer 10 or 100 per cent, except in payment for dangerous risk.

THE INVESTOR

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Bonds and notes carrying stock purchase warrants have come into great popularity in recent years with a certain type of investor, despite the fact that they oftentimes appear somewhat complicated to the average layman. Their principal attraction is that they provide greater possibilities for profit through price appreciation than do ordinary bonds and yet surrender none of the safeguards which are generally placed around senior obligations.

Such securities are usually issued by corporations desiring to obtain new capital on a low-interest basis at a time when future prospects are somewhat clouded.

In the latter part of 1925 the Rand Kardex Bureau, Inc., was organized to take over the businesses of the Rand Company, the American Kardex Company, the Library Bureau of New Jersey and the Index Visible. Inasmuch as each of these companies was engaged in the same line of business—that of producing and selling office index and visible filing equipment—it was reasonable to assume that large savings could be effected through their consolidation. Realizing that it was impossible to sell the ordinary type of bond or note on the desired interest basis under the changed circumstances, even though the prospects for future business were good, it was decided to attach stock purchase warrants to its 5½ per cent note issue.

As had been expected, earnings immediately began to climb. Net for the first full year of operations was about double that of the combined companies for the previous twelve months. The price of the notes, each of which carried the right to purchase 22½ shares of Class A stock of the company at $40 a share during 1926, reflected this improvement by advancing from the offering price of 99 to around 130.

Beginning today, the price at which holders of these notes may purchase Class A stock in the company is advanced $2.50 a share to $42.50 a share. A similar advance will take place at the beginning of each calendar year until the notes expire in 1931. As a result, the price of the notes may show a slight falling off today, although it is possible that this may be offset by the fact that the warrants become detachable on January 1. That is to say, it is now possible to exercise the rights to purchase stock without surrendering the note itself.

Deducting the value of the warrants, based on the current market price of the Class A stock of about $54 a share, the notes stand to yield better than 5.43 per cent. This would seem to be an attractive return in view of the strong working capital position of the company and the fact that in the twelve months ended September 30, 1926, the interest requirements on the issue were covered more than twenty times after deducting prior charges, including Federal taxes, but before depreciation. Cash on hand as of September 30, 1926, was equal to nearly the total amount of notes outstanding, while the excess of current assets over current liabilities amounted to nearly four times the note issue.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—The cotton market was inclined to weakness early today, following the lower Liverpool markets and the better weather for picking and ginning throughout the cotton belt. Little new outside business was in sight, and the recent good demand for spot cotton on the southern markets had subsided with the filling of contracts for the end of December clearances for export.

The market went off 4 to 8 points from yesterday's closing in the early trading, with January selling at 12.45 cents; March, 12.22 cents; May, 12.85 cents; July, 13.01 cents and October, 13.20 cents. Early weakness in the stock market had also brought in some moderate further liquidation for Wall street operators after yesterday's decline of 15 to 20 points at the close for the general contract list from last Friday's final quotations.

A sudden bringing up of the selling pressure resulted when the stock market began to rally and the closing Liverpool cables were in showing futures had finished with a net change of only 1 to 2 points, or just the amount to have met our closing prices of yesterday.

These more favorable technical market conditions resulted in turning up suddenly 10 to 12 points from the early low levels in the second and third hours, when some covering of shorts resulted from the moderate new trade buying.

On the rally January advanced to 12.55 cents; March, 12.76 cents; May, 12.95 cents; July, 13.11 cents and October, 13.32 cents, or about 4 to 8 points over yesterday's closing before enough new local liquidation and southern selling came in to check the advance.

A HALF CENTURY of INVESTMENT SERVICE

FOR SOME TIME we have emphasized the fact in our advertising that E. H. Rollins & Sons was the first nationally established bond house to open an office on the Pacific Coast. That was thirty-two years ago.

We are glad to have investors know that this bond house has been intimately associated with the major financing on the Pacific Coast for thirty years, because we believe this experience is a benefit to the investor who becomes a Rollins client.

The stability and permanence of the national organization of E. H. Rollins & Sons is also an advantage to our clients. In dealing with a bond house now celebrating a half-century anniversary, and having offices in 37 cities in the United States, the investor may reasonably expect that the Rollins organization will continue in business for the life of the bond he buys, and that we will take every proper precaution to protect his investment.

The record of service of our thirteen directors tells better than anything else the stability of the Rollins organization.

The thirteen directors and their years of service in the organization are as follows:

EDWARD W. ROLLINS, Chairman of the Board, Boston, 50 Years
George W. Treat, President, Boston, 25 Years
John W. Esmond, Chicago, 34 Years
Benjamin H. Dibblee, San Francisco, 23 Years
Herbert W. Briggs, New York, 19 Years
Edgar C. Rust, Boston, 12 Years
Christopher B. Wyatt, New York, 16 Years
Thomas J. Walsh, New York, 15 Years
Donald O'Melveny, Los Angeles, 7 Years
George deB. Greene, New York, 20 Years
Logan A. Gridley, Chicago, 16 Years
Willard S. Boothby, Philadelphia, 17 years
William H. Wildes, Chicago, 10 Years

Mr. Edward W. Rollins, Chairman of the Board of Directors, was one of the organizers of this firm in 1876.

This continuity in management has helped to maintain the standards that have made E. H. Rollins & Sons one of the respected investment bond houses in the United States since 1876.

Most of these Rollins directors began their connection with this firm in subordinate positions. Stability and permanence throughout the entire organization is a Rollins tradition, so that the investor who buys bonds from us may be reasonably sure that he will continue to deal with men he knows—men who are familiar with his requirements and who will offer him only bonds that they themselves believe are suitable for his particular investment.

It has always been a Rollins tradition to consider the business of an investment bond house as a profession rather than a merchandising enterprise. The relation between the investor and the bond salesman we hold to be a personal relationship.

WOOL MARKETS

BOSTON, Jan. 4. (AP)—Inquiries for wool hardly offer a basis for a more cheerful tone. In trade opinion, fundamental conditions in the wool textile industry are sound and the continued inquiry serves to confirm their conclusions arrived at from other angles. While the volume of business closed this week is still very small, there are a number of sales pending which involve a fair weight of wool. Interest is noticeably broader and includes all grades of worsted and woolen types.

About Your Present Investments

and re-investments

Are they all satisfactory? Do any of them show you a loss? Did others bring you the appreciation in principle you hoped for? Do you know which of your holdings should be sold now and what you should replace them with in order to make of yourself a real investor and not just a money lender?

These and many other questions will be answered for you if you employ the Advisory Board Service of the Richard D. Wyckoff Analytical Staff, Inc. This nation-wide investment counselor service is under the personal supervision of Richard D. Wyckoff, who founded the Magazine of Wall Street and edited it for 19 years. It comprises a large group of investment analysts and statisticians who know the whole field of investment as no individual can possibly know it. It operates on the principle of serving thousands of investors at moderate fees instead of the more common practice of having fewer clients at very large fees. This is a service the AVERAGE investor can afford.

We never sell securities, only advice. We never hold the securities. The client always makes the final decision; we merely advise such action as our judgment indicates. The client follows it or not as he pleases, but almost without exception Wyckoff Advisory Board Service has proven that it pays to follow it exactly.

While the annual fees vary with the amount of the investor's holdings, they are by far the most reasonable fees ever placed on so comprehensive a service. Isn't this just the type of advice you have been seeking? Call, telephone or write for details as applied to your special case. No obligation.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—A strong undertone was apparent in today's bond market. The ready absorption of new offerings and the increase in the investment demand, combined with indications of easier credit conditions, had a cheerful effect on sentiment. Early irregularity was attributed to the concurrent weakness of the stock market, but prices stiffened as the session progressed, and there was a marked increase in the volume of business.

Activity and strength of the French issues again featured the foreign group. The highest prices in a year or longer were recorded by French 7½s of 1941 and French 7s of 1949. Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s and 7s and the 6 per cent issues of Lyons, Marseilles and Soissons, the net gains ranging from factions to 2 points. Other foreign liens were mixed, with a drop of 2½ points in Rhinelbe Union 7s as the only change of consequence.

Railroad liens moved irregularly higher, Lehigh Valley 4s touching a new peak at 87½ and Philadelphia, Baltimore and Westerp 4s at 96 1-4. Delaware and Hudson convertible 5s reacted 2 points. A falling-off in the car loadings of some of the western railroads probably explained the heaviness of the mortgages of some of tho.e roads.

Active industrial liens moved within rather narrow and irregular limits. Weakness of Park Lexington Building 6½s coincided with the announcement by the committee on securities of the New York Stock Exchange that the interest due on the 1st inst. is not being paid, but that coupons representing said interest are being purchased. Public-utility liens were inclined to heaviness.

Prompt oversubscription was reported of the $8,000,000 Porto Rican American Tobacco Company fifteen-year 6 per cent convertible bonds. Negotiations also were reported under way for a $10,000,000 issue of the State of Rio Grande Du Sul and another of $10,000,000 to the Montecticnl—Company, one of the largest producers of fertilizers in Italy.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in the order given. To expedite matters, interest is omitted when same as low, and both low and close when same as high.

PRICES TURN UP ON STOCK MART

...was again quoted at 5 per ...ent day, but concessions were ...reported in the "outside market" ...ere loans ruled at 4 1-2 to ...4 per cent instead of on a flat ...4 per cent basis. The Mexican ...ollar continued to be a source ...of weakness, although oil men ...gained confidence on their properties and, falling off in car loadings, and a slump in the Pittsburgh ...district, following the unfavorable ...city inspired some of the ...early selling.

...Reasons for the rise hid up a ...number of specialties on the theory ...that the January reinvestment demand, which has been slow to make ...its appearance, would be bound ...to exert an influence on the price ...level within the next fortnight. ...Higher commodity prices furnished ...a background for another advance ...in sugar shares, South Porto Rican ...of which soared 3 points to a new ...record high at 173 3-4, while American Sugar Refining, Cuba Cane preferred and Great Western moved up ...1 point or more.

...With the opening of the New York ...Stock Exchange only four days away, ...speculative interest in the motors ...showed signs of increasing. General ...Motors, which had dipped below 150 ...in the early trading, later snapped ...back to 151 3-4, up 3 points net, ...and established a new record high for ...the motor stock at 72, and Hudson ...followed 2 points to ...among the standard industrials, ...Allied Chemical moved ahead 7 points to a new ...record from 147 3-4 to ...154, closing just below the top ...with a net gain of 3 points, while ...United States Steel common, Allied ...Chemical, American Smelting, Consolidated Gas, International Harvester, ...Texas Gulf Sulphur, Warner Pictures A and Woolworth converted ...fractions into net gains of a point ...or more.

...Corn Products and Bethlehem Steel preferred touched their ...highest prices in over a year. Eureka ...Vacuum approached to within a fraction of the record high for the preferred, just prior to the announcement of an extra cash dividend of ...$1, and a stock dividend of 10 ...per cent, in addition to the regular ...quarterly payment of $1. Gimbel ...Brothers touched a new record ...high for admission to the "big ...board."

...Trading drifted within rather narrow ...and irregular limits, although a brisk ...demand developed for New York Central, which rallied from a low of ...140 to 141 1-2.

...Foreign exchanges held fairly ...steady, demand sterling crossed ...$4.85, and French francs ruling ...around 3.93 cents. Spanish pesetas ...moved 20 points, selling above 15 1-2 ...cents.

...Increased weakness of wheat prices, ...which declined a cent or more a bushel, ...prevented any rally in cotton, which ...lost 10 points higher, were the controlling features of the commodity ...markets. Raw sugar was unchanged, ...while prices were slightly low-

ODDY CONSERVATIVE

...Voicing of Optimism on ...Markets Not Unusual

...today's weekly review of financial ...affairs in its current issue says ...that

...there seems to be some slight, but ...definite diminution of optimism ...in stock and bond markets. Industrial experience shows that ...general sentiment is subject to ...sudden variations, just as are money ...and bond prices, commodity prices, ...etc.

...In our bond prices, notwithstanding their general upward trend, ...there continues in the regular ordinary course of heaviness. They ...have been only slightly weak in ...recent sessions, but unusually ...weak in the strong seasons. Perhaps we shall witness a repetition of ...this during the coming year. ...Recent advancements have been ...in a remarkable record. However ...the merits of the matter is ...that in the past whenever dividend ...rates were carried too far it de...veloped on the top of the rise. Not all of ...the contributions have been entirely received; and possibly ...a more illuminating study of values ...will soon be in order.

DIVIDENDS PAID

...regular monthly dividend of ...$1 has been declared on the ...stock of the Standard Engineering, payable on the 15th ...to stockholders of record the ...20th. The company is engaged ...in the manufacture of gasoline from ...natural gas.

OIL NEWS

BY HOWARD C. KEGLEY

Oil-drilling restrictions within 250 feet of public-school buildings in Huntington Beach are to be removed. City Trustees yesterday inaugurated a new ordinance providing for lifting drilling restrictions and placing safety measures in the area which will protect the school children and property.

Oil derricks set near schools must be guyed with double wires on the side away from the school buildings. All boilers within the 250-foot area must be equipped with safety valves and must be kept constantly under the care of a competent boiler man. All exhaust pipes from engines at wells within the 250-foot area must be equipped with mufflers.

Derricks erected on Palm avenue will be required to furnish additional protection by the erection of a solid corrugated-iron fence between the rig and the sidewalk on Palm avenue.

Considerable controversy has occurred over the matter of raising restrictions near public schools. The Grammar School Board recently entered an official protest against raising oil-drilling restrictions within the 250 feet.

Property owners in the area will be afforded an opportunity to lease or sell their property after the ordinance finally adopted.

Gets New Well

The Huntington Signal Oil Company's No. 3 well in the west end of the Huntington Beach city field, is making about 600 barrels a day, according to unofficial reports. The well came in at a depth of about 4300 feet, making about 750 barrels a day.

Well Shows Gas

The Robinson wildcat well at San Juan Capistrano, formerly operated by the Robinette, Myers & Bostick syndicate is bailing for a water test, and is showing heavy gas, according to drillers. The well is bailed down to 800 feet, bottom being 2141 feet. The well has six-inch casing landed at 1200 feet, with a four-inch liner on bottom.

Stabler Deepens Well

W. W. Stabler, well-known California wildcatter, is deepening his wildcat well near Sagus after a production test at 3131 feet, according to field reports. Stabler's well is reported to have passed through several favorable showings, and although the late test was not indicative of commercial production geologists believe there is a good chance for production at lower depths. Stabler is using cable tools in the well.

Gets New Well

The Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company has brought in another of the series of wells which it has been completing almost weekly for the past two years on its big Del Amo and Torrance leases at Torrance. The new well was brought in at a depth of about 3600 feet, producing at the rate of about 650 barrels a day.

Down 1608 Feet

The Standard Oil Company has drilled its deep test well near Montalvo in Ventura county down to 1608 feet, according to officials of the company. No showings have been found, but none are expected as yet, in view of the fact that the Standard drilled half a dozen shallow wells to depths ranging from 1600 to 2000 feet to prospect structural conditions.

Quits Inglewood Well

The Standard Oil Company has suspended work on its Stocker, No. 9 well in the southeast part of the Inglewood field, and the well will be abandoned, according to unofficial reports. The well is down about 3000 feet, without productive showings, it is said, although the producing wells on the Stocker property have been finding the zone at about 1900 feet.

Gets New Well

The Union Oil Company of California yesterday completed its Stearns No. 65-A on the Stearns lease at 3900 feet as a 900-barrels-a-day producer, according to official announcement. This gives the Union twenty-nine producing wells from this lease. Two more Stearns wells will shortly be spudded in, No. 69 being rigged up and the rig foundation being laid for No. 70.

The Union is also expected to make a number of completions in the Richfield district within the next week or ten days. Chapman No. 3 is drilling ahead in oil sand at 4252 feet. Morse No. 7 is down at 3152 feet, where it is standing cemented. J. W. Newell No. 5 and No. 6 are drilling ahead at 4320 feet and 4583 feet, respectively. T (P) G No. 4 is standing cemented with bottom of hole at 4280 feet. Two more wells are drilling on this lease and the rig for a fourth has been completed. Stern No. 3 is in brown shale and oil sand formation at 4141 feet, with six and one-quarter-inch casing set at 3956 feet. YLG No. 12 is standing cemented at 3850 feet.

Spindle Top Resumes

Recent reports issued by the Spindle Top Oil Association, which is drilling a well to test the oil and gas possibilities of the region north of the Salton Sea, are to the effect that drilling was resumed on the 1st inst.

The bore is now at the depth of 2590 feet, carrying eight and one-quarter-inch casing, and penetrating a formation of hard brown shell which directly underlies an eighteen-foot stratum of sticky brown shale. It is proposed to lower the eight and one-quarter-inch string of pipe to the greatest depth practical with safety, then to cement for water exclusion and proceed with use of six and one-quarter-inch appliances and casing.

BOND AND SHARE IDEA CARRIED INTO JAPAN

AMERICAN AND ENGLISH JOIN JAPANESE IN FORMING ORGANIZATION

Formation under Japanese laws of a company to be known as the Japanese Electric Bond and Share Company represents, according to New York reports, a co-operative undertaking among important Japanese, American and English interests and to some extent is an outgrowth of the close association during recent years of American and English interests in connection with the financing of Japanese power companies in this market.

It is intended that the new company shall operate in Japan along the lines of the Electric Bond and Share Company in the United States with such modifications as local conditions may make necessary. The initial capital of the company will be 10,000,000 yen, of which 25 per cent will be paid in at this time.

Japanese interests officially represented in the company are the Tokyo Marine and Fire Insurance Company, which is closely allied with the Mitsubishi interests, the Yasuda Holding Company, Inc., the Mitsui interests, the Tokio Electric Light Company, Ltd., and the Toho Electric Power Company, Ltd. The American and English interests are the Guaranty Company of New York, the International General Electric Company, the Electric Bond and Share Company, Lazard Brothers & Co., Ltd., London; Lazard Freres, New York; Sale & Co., London, and Sale & Co., Tokio.

BANK SUSPENSION LIABILITIES GAIN

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—Unlike the record of commercial failures, the statistics of banking suspensions in the United States for the year 1926 show sharp increases in both number and liabilities. Totaling 608, the banking suspensions compare with 464 in 1925, an increase of more than 30 per cent, and last year's indebtedness, at $212,074,999, is nearly 29 per cent above the $164,696,510 reported to R. G. Dun & Co. for 1925.

NEW YORKERS WILL MEET

Eyes Barometer of Health, Says Visiting Doctor

The eyes are the barometer of health as well as the "windows of the soul."

This was expressed yesterday by Dr. J. Haskel Kritzer, former dean of Lindlahr College, Chicago, now stopping at the Trinity Hotel.

When you gaze into the eyes of a maiden do you see "spots?" If so, maybe her health isn't just what you'd hope it to be. Science is now tracing all difficulties through the orbs, just as a few seasons ago the appendix had its fling; then the tonsils and teeth, Dr. Kritzer declares.

He isn't rabid on the subject. He has written textbooks about the eyes and plans four lectures at the Friday Morning Club soon.

The following are the dates and the lectures which take place each evening at 8:15 p.m.: On the 9th inst., "Premature Old Age, its Preventable Causes;" 10th, "Do Nerves Break Down?" 11th, "Internal Secretions Influencing External Behavior;" 12th, "Disease, the Savior of Mankind."

Empty Theater Smoke-Flooded by Small Blaze

Smoke from a wastepaper blaze in a backstage lavatory at the Mason Theater shortly before last night's performance partly filled the playhouse.

The small blaze was extinguished with no damage done. It was discovered by E. J. Broussard, property man. No patrons were in the theater at the time.

SUIT ECHOES DROWNING

Father of Boy Who Lost Life in Ditch Asks $50,000 Damages

James Docherty, a rug merchant, yesterday was in Judge Bishop's court seeking $50,000 damages from the Standifer Ditch Company and Belle F. Bell as a result of the drowning May 27, 1925, of James Docherty, Jr., 6-year-old son of Docherty, in an irrigation ditch near Whittier.

The child was said to have been playing near the ditch when his foot slipped and he fell into the water, drowning before aid could reach him. Docherty held the defendants were negligent in that they were asserted to have failed to place boards or screen over the ditch to prevent accidents. Docherty was represented in court by Attorney Newton J. Kendall.

The case is scheduled to go to the jury this morning.

WALL STREET PARAGRAPHS

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—Speculative attention naturally was focused mainly on Atchison today inasmuch as the long-awaited January meeting was set for noon. Without any inkling of what was to come, Wall street was in a quandary and the widespread belief that whatever was coming had been discounted, was indicated in the heavy selling which marked operations in that stock prior to the announcement of the extra dividend. Opening down more than 4 points net, the stock backed and filled nervously over a wide range. Just before the news came it was moving around 165. Correction of the ticker's error in broadcasting the extra, was so quick as to have been almost instantaneous. Therefore, the effect of the erroneous $3 extra was not fully reflected. The corrected report of 75 cents extra was followed by a sharp slump to new low levels for the day, with slight improvement in subsequent dealings.

Pending Steel Developments

Steel's action was not particularly inspiring from a constructive standpoint, though it was plainly apparent that staunch support was being extended to that recognized industrial leader. Support was on a scale down however, and incidentally both the present shares and the dividend stock were at new low levels for the movement. The street is now awaiting two matters which are close at hand and which may shed fresh light on the corporation's prospects. One, of course, is the statement of unfilled tonnage at the end of December which will be available next Monday at noon. The other is the amount of stock to be offered to employees and the subscription price. Last year 100,000 shares were offered at $136 a share, with the stock moving around that figure in the open market.

Nash Heads Motor Rally

The appearance of the general market was improved for a time around midway by the development of a brisk rally in the motor stocks. The leaders in that group snapped back quickly from the early low levels, as impressive demand for Nash Motors reasserted itself, lifting that stock to new record high levels where it was selling at the equivalent of $720 a share for the old stock prior to the 900 per cent stock dividend paid last spring. Directors are scheduled to meet next Tuesday for dividend action and something special is anticipated. General Motors, Hudson, Mack Trucks and others moved forward at a lively pace, but failed to hold their improvement when news of the Overland cut on its new Whippet models came out.

Time Money Easier

Bulls found a grain of comfort in the relaxation in time money for six months to 4½ per cent, the lowest rate quoted for that distant maturity in several months. This served to alleviate what little apprehension might have been created by the marked increase in brokers' loans revealed late yesterday. The easier tone in time Monday is usual during January, as money brokers today pointed out, and reflects largely the return to normal channels of funds paid out at the turn of the year in interest and dividends. Call money was in ample supply, but held at 5 per cent.

Expect Further Adjustment

Consensus of opinion seemed to be that further adjustment downward was likely before the market would again be in position to resume the advance. The generally accepted theory was that more liquidation and the building up of a large short interest were necessary to correct the evident overbought condition in many stocks resulting from the Christmas demonstration. In view of the plentitude of cheap money available, however, the setback is not expected to attain serious proportions.

Frances Harmer, 'Little Mother of Movies' Dies

Word of the death in New York City of Frances Harmer, known as "The Little Mother of the Movies," because of her interest in the girls of the Studio Club, was received here yesterday.

Miss Harmer, who was 68 years of age, entered the films more than twelve years ago as a scenario writer for Famous Players-Lasky. Before coming to Hollywood she was a secretary to the late Mrs. Henry De Mille, mother of Cecil B. De Mille and William De Mille.

Three years ago she was pensioned by the De Mille brothers and went to Europe to spend her declining days. She died in New York while preparing to visit friends in Hollywood.

In addition to her motion-picture work, Miss Harmer was a writer of fiction. She leaves a brother and sister who live in Tacoma, Wash.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—Price movements in today's curb market lacked uniformity with few fluctuations of importance, except in the high-priced issues. Bear traders succeeded in uncovering a few weak spots but they were unable to force liquidation of much long stocks. Pools, encouraged by softening of money rates, resumed operations in a few issues in which special developments are believed to be pending.

Confused price movements characterized the oil group. Trading in the South American issues was enlivened by the heavy accumulation of Carib Syndicate which closed 2 points higher. Most of the other tropical oils improved fractionally. Standard Oil shares showed only small fractional changes.

Profit-taking checked the advance in the sugar shares after an early display of strength. Warner Pictures B moved up over a point in sympathy with a bullish demonstration in the A stock on the "big board." Baking issues showed moderate improvement. Motors failed to follow the rally in that group on the New York Stock Exchange, although a better demand was noted for Reo.

An extreme gain of 7 points in Procter & Gamble, which touched a new high record at 191 and then reacted to 186, was the outstanding development among the high-priced specialties. Bucyrus advanced 3 points on a few odd-lot sales and Pillsbury Flour climbed over 4 to a new high record at 57 1-4.

Public utilities were irregular. Electric Bond and Share made only a feeble response to the announcement of a plan for doubling the capital stock.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

We summarize as follows from a letter from Mr. Joe Toplitzky, President of the Corporation issuing these bonds;

SECURITY UNDER MORTGAGE

These bonds constitute a direct closed first mortgage on the land in fee, building, furniture and furnishings of a completed and operating apartment house. They are further protected by STRAUS PLAN provisions for monthly deposits to meet principal and interest payments promptly when due.

THE LAND

This property fronts approximately 140 feet on Wilshire Boulevard and 162½ feet on Carondelet Street at the southeast corner.

THE BUILDING

The structure is an 8-story and basement full fireproof apartment house of reinforced concrete with exterior in tapestry brick and cast stone trim, erected in 1924. It contains 388 rentable rooms comprised in 134 single apartment suites, 36 double apartment suites and 2 five-room suites. The interior appointments, decoration and floor arrangements, and the furniture, furnishings, hangings and equipment throughout the building are of superior character in keeping with the requirements of its very desirable clientele.

LOCATION AND DEMAND

This building is located at the beginning of Wilshire Boulevard nearest to the downtown district. It is within a block of Westlake Park and within three blocks of Lafayette Park. In this immediate vicinity and in the Wilshire District between this property and the Ambassador Hotel are many of the city's most noted apartment houses. It is within fifteen minutes drive of the Broadway business area and is excellently served by both street car and motor bus transportation. Apartment houses of the better class in this part of the city have enjoyed a dependable and satisfactory patronage. The Wilshire Boulevard district is acknowledged the most desirable residence area in Los Angeles and in this district the demand for apartment accommodations of exceptional character is strong and constantly increasing.

VALUATION AND EARNINGS

The value of the land and building and the furniture, furnishings and equipment, the property mortgaged as security for this bond issue, is appraised by Mr. John P. Kennedy, of Los Angeles, appraisals engineer, at $1,532,255.18. This bond issue, therefore, represents less than 60% of the value of the mortgaged property.

BORROWING CORPORATION

These bonds are the direct obligation of 2424 Wilshire Boulevard Corporation, which has lately purchased the property. The capital stock of the corporation is owned by a group of well known and substantial capitalists of Los Angeles and San Francisco and the present ownership is such as to give ample assurance of strong and capable management.

We are thoroughly familiar with the local demand for apartment house accommodations of the type offered by this establishment. We have made a very careful analysis of this property and of all phases of this bond issue. We are well assured of the responsibility of the interests issuing these bonds and of the ample value and earnings of this property as security therefor. We offer these bonds as a sound and amply secured investment at prices to yield from 6.35% to 6.50%. For full particulars ask for

LOS ANGELES MARKET

CATTLE—The larger part of yesterday's run was late in arriving; however, demand was rather broad and a good part of it was cleaned up, there being only a few loads left at a late hour. Prices generally on all classes were called steady to strong. Three cars of California fed steers averaging 1009 to 1037 pounds went over for 8.75@9.00. Odd lots sold from 8.00@8.50, while a load of common steers turned for 7.50, with very thin kinds lower, including a few light steers for feeding purposes at 6.00.

Outstanding in the she stock division was a load of choice 751-pound "baby beef" heifers out of a Southern California feed lot at 8.85. Small lots and part loads of cows and heifers cashed from 7.00@7.25, while a load of 1131-pound northern cows made 6.85, with 622-pound Arizona heifers at 6.80. Other she stock sales included mostly common and medium kinds from 5.00@6.50. Cutters were most numerous from 3.75@4.50, with low cutters down to 2.50. Bulls generally ruled firm, good kinds selling from 6.00@6.25, with medium kinds down to 5.00, including two loads of 1025 and 1031-pound range bulls at 5.35.

CALVES—The demand narrowed considerably after Monday's early market and trading was slow at barely steady prices. Several small lots of both calves and vealers cashed from 10.50@12.00, while odd lots of common kinds sold down to 8.50, with culls and throwouts from 6.00@7.50.

HOGS—Active demand developed for yesterday's moderate supply and a ready clearance was made at mostly 10@25 cents higher prices. The top again reached 14.00 on a lead and a half of choice butchers, while the bulk, 165- to 200-pound weights, went over from 13.75@14.00. A load of local fed trucked in butchers averaging 180 pounds made 13.10, while a load of 216-pound weights realized 13.00. Packing sows were scarce, the general run being quoted from 10.00@11.00.

SHEEP—Nothing was offered and with fair inquiry for good and choice light weight lambs and ewes, the general undertone was quotable firm. Medium to choice lambs were quoted from 10.50@12.35, with medium to choice wooled ewes from 6.00@7.50.

METAL MARKETS

CLEVELAND, Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—The Daily Metal Trade today says: "Spot beehive coke under $4 a ton is disappearing. Occasional offerings of single carloads are reported at $3.75. Quotations on sheets for immediate shipment are sagging in the Youngstown district, although a better volume of incoming orders is enabling a number of independent mills to resume operations. Competition is particularly keen on common black and galvanized sheets. Some Pittsburgh producers report a better demand for semifinished steel. Wire mills in the Chicago district are operating at 50 to 60 per cent of capacity. Demand is light, but users' stocks are low.

"The copper market is easy at 13.25c, delivered Connecticut Valley. Lead is firm at 7.40c, St. Louis, and 7.30c, New York. Tin is weak at 67.25c. Zinc holds steady at 6.90@7.00c, St. Louis."

MANY MISHAPS IN HARBOR FOG

Four Casualties Recorded in Thirty-six Hours

Tug Tanker Slightly Damaged in Hitting Beach

Navy Oil Ship, Freighter and Tug in Near Crash

Blinding fog was credited with half a dozen mishaps to vessels in the harbor the past thirty-six hours, ranging from the beaching of the tug Boscoe Tanker Company tanker San Pablo near Huntington Beach, to the narrow collision, beachings and towing of small boats.

The San Ubaldo went ashore near the mouth of the Santa Ana River early yesterday morning, in ballast and proceeded to port about noon for a survey of damages before repairs.

Simultaneously with the San Ubaldo mishap, the Swedish steamer Boren, maneuvering in the outer harbor, was brushed by the Navy tanker Kanawha, outbound for Cuba. The tug Milton S. Patrick, alongside the Boren, had to cut her lines to keep from being crushed between the ships, but the Boren escaped with only a paint scraping. The Kanawha proceeded to sea.

Fog also rode with Matt Vlahovich, steering his pursuer Florida up the channel in the outer harbor, and outbound for Cuba. The tanker oil barge No. 24, outbound, went out of the fog directly ahead. To reverse his engines to avoid the channel rocks, so Vlahovich feared the lesser evil, sent his craft directly ahead, and suffered a glancing blow. The Florida suffered no damage and the navy barge was unscathed.

Two yachtsmen and motorboats with their crushed bows and a motorboat from the Catalina sank off Deadman's Island but later was raised, while a third of staff's barges from the Long Beach Virginia went ashore on the Long Beach jetty.

The tug was pulled off.

MEASURE CRAFT BOAT CHRISTENED

A boat 450 feet in length, smashed over the bow of the new Matson liner Malolo as she was launched into the water yesterday at the yards of the Newport Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Company, formerly the U. S. Navy yard at Newport, Rhode Island. The Malolo is the largest passenger liner ever launched in that yard, and the christening was in keeping with the size of the vessel, for a bottle of champagne was broken against the bow of the 20,000-ton vessel by Miss Helen Matson, daughter of William Matson, founder of the Matson Navigation Company, which will operate the Malolo between San Francisco and Honolulu. Miss Matson is shown standing on the platform at the left of the bow of the vessel, with the bottle of champagne in her hand. The Malolo will be ready for her maiden voyage in May.

LIENS ON DRAIN BRING PREMIUM

Delinquent Claims Bought by Bond Company

Right to Collect Attorney's Fee Calculated

Benefit to Property Owners Asserted by Buyer

An admission that the Los Angeles Bond and Securities Company is purchasing the delinquent assessment roll of Arroyo de la Sacatela storm drain No. 1, paid what amounted to a premium for the right to file liens and collect attorneys' fees was obtained yesterday from an official of the company. This bonus amounted to 3½ per cent above the face of the assessments, but the official declared it was not in reality that, as three months' interest at 7 per cent had accrued, and in reality the company had only paid par.

The assessments were bought from the Municipal Bond Company. Another assessment roll bought from the Elliott-Horne Company a short time before was purchased at a discount, he admitted. In explaining why one assessment roll was worth more than the other, he said the roll purchased from the Municipal Bond Company was "fresh" while the other had been "picked over."

ACTION DEFENDED

"The reason this company has come in for some unfavorable publicity in this matter is that we went after some rich people out in the Hollywood district, who were able to pay, and did not pick on some poor woman and take his property away from her. They kicked and made all kinds of noise," he declared, with some heat. "These assessments are in some cases bad debts, they are 100 per cent collectable as fast as we can locate the owners of the property. Sometimes we have to hold bear 10 per cent interest, and they have to be paid some time."

In defending the practices of the Los Angeles Bond and Securities Company, which, he said, was organized to collect assessments on a "reasonable basis," avoiding the excessive fees which he admitted were charged by some companies.

"We started out on a basis of nothing more than $10 for collecting," he said, "a reasonable fee in view of the trouble and expense we have in locating some of the property owners. In many cases we have handled the charge altogether without the face of the claim, as paying the extra fees would be a real hardship. The real sharks in these matters are the men who buy up bonds on some property where the owner is unknown, and use that as a lever to get hold of the property."

OWNERS BENEFIT

The organization of the companies that make a business of street assessment bonds, he said, had been of great benefit to property owners generally. A few years ago, he declared, when no other assessment district bonds sold at a heavy discount, as much as 35 per cent, and competition had to bid correspondingly low.

"Now these bonds sell at 97 or 98 instead of 65 or 70," he said, "and the interest rate has correspondingly less, thereby making assessments easier to collect will automatically increase the cost of improvements."

The changes in the law which would give property owners a little more time to pay, he said, might be made without being excessive in its

Bride-to-Have-Been Returns

Mary Astaire and Bobby O'Brien

No charivari party greeted the return of Miss Astaire at the Southern Pacific depot last night when she arrived from Santa Barbara with the intended best man, but without her fiance.

MICHAEL CUDAHY JAILED

Scion of Packer Family Held at Santa Barbara on Mother's Order After Efforts to Wed Actress

Sheriff Ross of Santa Barbara county was quicker on the draw than Cupid last night, and Michael Cudahy, 19-year-old scion of the famous meat-packing house, went to the Santa Barbara County Jail instead of to Hymen's bower. Marie Astaire, his actress bride-to-have-been, took a plain, ordinary train, not a honeymoon express, back to Los Angeles, accompanied by the best man-to-have-been, Bobby O'Brien.

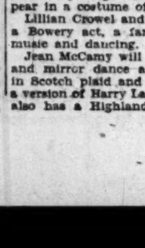
Victory of the law over romance was attributed to Mrs. Jack Cudahy, Michael's mother. She enlisted the aid of the Sheriff's office to restore her brideless, to the family circle, and notified marriage license clerks for miles around to refuse a license to her son.

ONLY A CHILD

"He's only a child, just 19," Mrs. Cudahy explained.

One such message exploded in the office of the marriage license clerk at Ventura just when young Cudahy was about to obtain the necessary document, the thwarted lover explained at Santa Barbara last night. That ruined the there, and the party of three went on to Santa Barbara.

There, in an apartment at Victoria Vue and Salsipuedes Place, the end came, in the person of Sheriff Ross. Santa Barbara report had it that Cudahy's whereabouts were tipped off by a faithless friend.



MICHAEL CUDAHY

Cudahy, it was stated, was in a rather nervous condition. He and his big Cadillac car were detained at the request of Los Angeles authorities. Nothing being said about the disposition of the bride and best man - to - have-been, the two took a train for Los Angeles.

There were no tears shed by the auburn-haired girl as she trekked back to Los Angeles last night aboard

Judge Lays Off to Sleep After Stork Arrives

Questions of law, a crowded calendar and all business of Municipal Judge Blake yesterday were relegated to the scrap heap for the time to allow hizzoner to catch up with his sleep.

As his last case was transferred to another court for trial, Judge Blake rushed from his bench bearing in triumph a double-handful of richly foiled cigars.

"Got to go to bed, Doc," he said to Clerk John Herron. "See that the boys get these. And make a note of this for them, please: Seven and one-half-pound girl. Four o'clock this morning at the Methodist Hospital. Name, Barbara Blake. Baby and mother doing fine. The doctors were Lyle G. McNelle and John Vruwink. Honorable mention to me."

Barbara Blake is the second daughter to be born to Judge Blake and Mrs. Beatrice Blake. The elder daughter, Beatrice Blake, now is 3½ years of age. The family lives at 1137 Burnside avenue.

REPORT HITS TAX SHARKS

City Clerk Offers Suggestions to Improve System of Assessment Notification

Definite, constructive suggestions to protect property owners from delinquent assessment sharks, particularly as to improvements in the present system of the city government, were made yesterday by City Attorney Stephens, in a report to the City Council as to changes in the delinquent-assessment procedure necessary for the protection of property owners.

It was pointed out that much of the delinquency in which property owners find themselves involved after assessments are levied delinquent is due to the failure of the property owner to receive notice from the City Hall of the levying of the assessment and of the time when the assessment is to become delinquent. The City Attorney suggested that City assistance the Council and the City Clerk to improve and modernize the notification system would help in winning the war against assessment sharks.

CLUB FROLIC FOR VETERANS

"Times" Players Will Present Vaudeville Show at Sawtelle With Child Headliners

Juvenile stars will hold sway this evening when The Times Players' Club presents an all-around show for the benefit of disabled veterans at Sawtelle. It will be the largest program sponsored by Aunt Dolly, which means that former troupes will be totally eclipsed.

Heading the bill will be Leroy Parry's ten-piece jazz band, followed by the Petite Revue, five youngsters with a medley of songs and dances. Frances Barto's voice reminds one of Patti and Eleanor Bourgeotte adds humor and many pleasing songs. Mae Pickett in white buckskin and gay headgear executes a difficult acrobatic dance. William Shipley and Vincent Smith do a lot of tumbling and fancy stepping in collegiate costumes.

Baby Mae Mabry is as beautiful as she is talented, a curly-haired youngster, who executes difficult acrobatic tricks with ease. She also sings an amusing ditty.

JAMES OSBORNE TO SING

Master James Osborne is remaking his debut. For two years, his golden tenor has been denied the public but today he will appear once more before the veterans at Sawtelle.

The Hanna twins comedians, will offer a group of snappy songs. Dorothy Bartosh and Eleanor Burke have something new in the way of toe work, along with sea-green ballet gowns with bands of brilliants and creamy white tights.

The tricky, sentimental melodies Hawaii offers will be played by Isabelle Bibck and her artists.

Patty Murphy, a slip of a child in rose satin, has a toe dance, an old-fashioned number bound to please the soldiers. Gwendolyn Blunk, a curly-haired dancer, adds a touch of Old Erin, an Irish jig, and also some toe and clog dancing. She will be followed by Stella and Ray Essex with the Argentine tango, plus variations, waltzes and soft shoe dancing.

ROPE THROWING ACT

The Garvin sisters, three youngsters with a line of collegiate stuff, also have a lot of monkey business. Next on the list are the four Wonder Kiddies, performers in cerise and silver at acrobatic work.

Little Phillip Finis Cooper has an assortment of songs and dances.

R. D. Blatherwick and Mary, his sister, will offer their professional rope-throwing act. The pair, known from coast to coast, have been dubbed the Arizona whiz-bangs.

"ROSE OF NO MAN'S LAND"

Mary Shisler is a tiny little miss who was born in the midst of a shell-shocked world. In memory of her daddy who failed to return from the front she sings "The Rose of No Man's Land" in a Red Cross uniform. She also dances.

Some Russian dancing will be presented by Virgie Best, who will appear in a costume of red and gold.

Lillian Crowel and Ty Pawnst have a Bowery act, a farce, with some music and dancing.

Jean McCamy will offer her balloon and mirror dance and Peggy Aimes in Scotch plaid and kilts will render a version of Harry Lauder's songs. She also has a Highland fling.

M'REYNOLDS TO SUCCEED FRITH

Appointment Announced at Washington

Andrews Praises Major's Work With Drys

Will Take Up Duties on Return from East

Frank R. McReynolds, supervisor of Internal Revenue for Southern California, has been named Federal prohibition administrator for the Southern District of California and for Arizona, succeeding Robert E. Frith, it was announced yesterday in Washington, D. C.

When the announcement was issued, Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement, warmly praised the work of McReynolds during the supervisor's seventeen years of service in the Internal Revenue Department.

FRANK R. McREYNOLDS

WILL RETURN SOON

McReynolds will remain in Washington until tomorrow or Friday and then will return to Los Angeles to take up at once on arrival next week the duties of his new office, it was announced. He is quoted in a dispatch to The Times as saying that his administrative plans will be determined by the conditions encountered in the discharge of his new duties.

"I expect to give the best I have to the job," he said and indicated that he did not care to comment further at the time.

Andrews regarded the appointment as a promotion for McReynolds and said:

"McReynolds entered the internal revenue service in 1910 as a deputy collector in California and has served as chief field deputy in that district. He was appointed supervisor of the Internal revenue collector's office in Los Angeles in November, 1922, and made a splendid record for himself in that position."

McReynolds has been a resident of California forty-four years. He served in the California infantry during the Spanish-American War and was in the Coast Artillery service in the World War, with the rank of Major. He lives in Willowbrook, two miles north of Compton, at 2343 Burton Way.

SUMMONED WEEK AGO

Gen. Andrews summoned Maj. McReynolds to Washington about a week ago, Mrs. McReynolds said, and he arrived there Monday, last, for a conference on the subject scheduled for yesterday.

Col. Frith, whom Maj. McReynolds succeeds, retired Army officer and a Monrovia orchardist, made known November, last, that he had resigned effective December 31. Frith's first assistant, Maj. Blaine Dixon, submitted a resignation simultaneously. Col. Frith said he was resigning because he did not have time sufficient to care for his private interests. He become the dry administrator in September, 1925.

Maj. McReynolds's appointment was predicted in The Times yesterday morning.

FRITH GIVES GOOD WISHES

Col. Frith, in commenting on the appointment of McReynolds, stated that he had nothing but good wishes for his successor and that the would make no recommendations concerning a successor to Maj. Dixon, his chief aide, indicating that the new dry administrator will be given free rein in the selection of his assistants.

Col. Frith added that a great deal remains to be done before he steps out of the Federal service, but declared that this work will be pushed as rapidly as possible. Among the matters which he must attend to before leaving are the payment of salaries in the Northern California and Nevada districts, duties entrusted to him a few days ago by Gen. Andrews, checking of evidence to be taken over by the new dry head and the checking of cases now pending in court.

FIRE! POLICE! THRILLS FOR FANS

Spectacular Stunts to Feature Game

SOMETHING different in the way of bleacher stunts at a football game is being perfected this week by the fire and police departments for their gridiron classic at the Coliseum on Saturday. The stunts will start promptly at 1 o'clock with the grand entry of 1500 firemen and policemen in uniform, who, after a series of drills, will take their places as rooters for their respective teams.

The police will then have the field for a thirty-minute period during which there will be a motorcycle officers drill, an illustration of what it is like to run down bootleggers and then a sample of how they are driven from ambush by the use of tear bombs.

Next, for the same length of time, the firemen will enter the arena to do their stunts. Yesterday morning the performers were at the Coliseum timing themselves on a truck drill, sliding down a life-line from the top of the peristyle at the entrance and rehearsing a high-dive from the top of an eighty-five-foot ladder.

Roy St. George of Truck Company No. 2, had the ladder moved up several notches until it was about ninety-five feet high. He then proceeded to tip leisurely off his platform and hurtle head first toward the net below. At just about the moment the unwary spectator looked away in order to avoid seeing a man have his neck broken, St. George did a neat turn and landed in good style on his shoulders. The next moment he bobbed up smiling and ready to do it all over again.

Capt. F. R. Hendriks, who, with Capt. Calderwood, is in charge of inaneuvers for the fire department, said yesterday the stunts are to be instructive so that people can see what their public servants are doing in the way of training for any and every emergency. At the same time there will be a few extra thrills added for everybody. The football game, he said, is to take the place of the annual ball. It is felt that it will interest more people. The proceeds will go into the policemen's and firemen's fund for the care of widows of former law and fire officers who are not provided for by pensions.

CITY TO CREATE NEW RESERVOIR

Dam on Owens River Will Store Huge Supply

Project to Make Artificial Lake Near Big Pine

Wastage Eliminated Forever, Says Mulholland

With detailed survey work now under way, plans are being completed by the Municipal Water Bureau for construction of a dam across the Owens River that will create a reservoir capable of holding 15,000 acre feet of water, according to an announcement made yesterday by Chief Engineer William Mulholland.

The new water storage basin is to be known as the Tinemaha Reservoir and is to be situated in Owens Valley, 260 miles north of Los Angeles and six miles north of the intake of the city's Owens River Aqueduct. Tinemaha Reservoir will be the third largest reservoir and most northerly on the Aqueduct system, being sixty-six miles north of Haiwee Reservoir, which is the largest storage basin operated by the Water Bureau.

It was explained by Engineer Mulholland yesterday that Tnemaha Reservoir will be created by the building of an earth-fill dam across the channel of Owens River, six miles above the point where water from this stream is diverted into the intake of the city's Aqueduct. Aproximately 350,000 cubic yards of material will be used in the construction of the dam, it was stated.

WILL CREATE LAKE

Construction of the dam across the river will create an artificial lake four miles long, five miles south of the town of Big Pine in Owens Valley. This lake will be visible from the State highway passing through Owens Valley and will add materially to the scenic beauty of this country, it was stated.

Mr. Mulholland pointed out that the building of the Tinemaha Reservoir has been contemplated by the Water Bureau since the inception of the Owens River Aqueduct project in 1905. The city originally filed on government land in the reservoir basin and purchased other privately owned land in the same region as far back as 1907.

The purpose of the new reservoir, as explained by Mr. Mulholland, will be to act as an available storage basin for Owens River water during those periods when Haiwee Reservoir has been filled. Tinemaha Reservoir will also be valuable as a storage basin whenever it is necessary, for any reason, to close that section of the Aqueduct between the intake and Haiwee.

TO FOLLOW CHANNEL

Water stored in Tinemaha, when released from this reservoir will follow the natural channel of Owens River for a distance of six miles down to the intake of the Aqueduct where it will be diverted into this giant artificial waterway and started on its journey to Los Angeles.

With the new reservoir completed wastage of Owens River water into the salt encrusted Owens Lake will be eliminated forever, it was pointed out. At the present time, whenever it is necessary to close the intake of the Aqueduct, the water in the river passes on downstream to the lake, and, because of the saline nature of this lake, which has no outlet, is lost for all agricultural and domestic use.

CLOTHING CONCERN EXPANDS

Harris & Frank Company Reorganizes and Plans for Wider Activities

The reorganization of one of the oldest mercantile firms in Los Angeles under the corporate name of Harris & Frank Company was completed yesterday with H. W. Frank as president, according to an announcement by its officials.

Harry Dine, the vice-president, who heretofore has been identified with large high-grade clothing establishments, will have charge of the young men's and men's clothing departments; C. W. Hendrickson, formerly with the Marshall Field establishment, will be general manager of the store, and Alfred Wright, former president of the National Retail Credit Men's Association, will be actively connected with the company.

The new officers of the organization, besides adding long experience and strong capitalization, bring connections that are expected to result in a much wider scope in the business activities of the new company. Larger stocks and improved buying facilities will be some of the advantages obtained by the new organization.

Extension Plan for Allesandro Street Adopted

The final map of the district to be assessed for the opening, widening and extending of Allesandro street from Glendale Boulevard to the Los Angeles River was approved by the City Council's street opening and widening committee yesterday afternoon. The Council is expected to adopt the committee's report on this improvement, which was recommended in the Major Traffic Street Plan.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

A CRY for help . . .

It is from a woman struggling with an unreasoning fear of old age and death.

A CHILD'S HORROR

She says that when she was a child of 8 years her mother died and was buried in a cemetery near a lake. She knew the damp ground was the habitat of loathsome worms. And was thereafter haunted by the vision of these earth creatures crawling over her mother's pretty hands; "carrying her away, bit by bit, until only a bleak skeleton was left.

MESSENGER OF DEATH

Now, at 30, her friends tell her that she has come to the age where she will begin to go backward—old age, the messenger of death.

"The reality of my contact with this earth and the earth people; the hurting pain of sorrow, the thrill of love and the beauty and magnificence of the elements have impressed themselves indelibly upon my consciousness.

"Who wants to be a spirit and never feel the warmth and caress of a human body? Nor hear a baby gurgle and coo after the bliss of a satisfying meal?"

THE FIRST TRAGEDY

My reply would be this:

There comes a definite moment in every life when it really dawns upon you that, like other people, you will eventually die; until then you know that other people die; but it never is borne in upon your consciousness that you also will be snuffed out.

The same is true the first time you are caught in a bad disaster. One time I was in a runaway going down a perilous mountain trail. My one impression was incredulity. I kept thinking: "Why, no; this can't be true. These things happen to other people, but they don't happen to me."

A SLANT-EYE PHILOSOPHER

The only remedy is acceptance.

Stop struggling and stop wanting material things.

From no other source have I personally gained so much peace and philosophy as from the old Chinese philosopher, Lao Tse. He was one of the illumined souls.

His three rules were inactivity, humility and frugality.

D. W. Griffith put the same philosophy in another way in his picture play, "Hearts of the World," in a subtitle: "If you can't get what you want, want what you get."

TAKE WHAT COMES

In other words, take what comes along and you will find that it is pretty darn good. Most of us miss all the good things because we are straining after something else and refusing to look at the package in our hands.

NOTHING MATTERS

After all, fame doesn't matter, and wealth matters even less.

Not even "the warmth and caress of a human body or the bliss of a satisfying meal" matter.

All that fame and wealth can bring are peace and freedom from worry; and you can get the same in much richer quantity simply by sitting down and being peaceful.

FISHING IT OUT

In this life you can either wildly and frantically struggle up the tide in a furious frenzy of trying to find something; or you can sit by the bank of the river and

Father Gives Up Wounded Bandit Suspect

YOUTH SHOT BY HIDDEN POLICE

Asserted Hold-up Attempt Reveals Stratagem

Picked Marksmen Detailed to Protection Work

Scheme Part of Campaign Against Criminals

Surrendered to the authorities by his aged father, Harry Brookshire Dill, 26 years of age, lay dying in the prison ward of the General Hospital last evening, the victim of a police stratagem launched by Chief of Detectives Cline as a holiday surprise for the undesirables.

Dill has five bullet wounds in his body, received, it is declared, when he and a companion attempted to hold up a filling station on West Washington Boulevard and ran into a fusillade of shots from the guns of two police officers "planted" there as a reception committee.

BRIDE RETAINS FAITH

Dill, who has been married about a month, lived with his wife, Nora, at 414 North Coronado street. Last night her husband did not come home for supper, the wife told the police. About 10:30 he knocked at the door of his apartment and fell across the threshhold as his wife answered the summons.

Before losing consciousness Dill is said to have told an incoherent story about several oil-station robberies in which he had taken part.

Mrs. Dill is confined to her bed as a result of shock over the shooting. She maintains faith in her husband's innocence and declares "that it's all a horrible mistake."

Dill's father surrendered him the Sheriff's office and a confession is said to have followed.

The shooting revealed for the first time that Cline twenty-four hours earlier had transferred 300 police officers, chosen marksmen, from routine duty to protection work at isolated cafes, roadhouses and filling stations where hold-ups might be expected. The men were "staked out," with orders to keep out of sight, and to shoot to kill if gunmen appeared.

Officers Lovell and Friend were members of the special detail on duty guarding the filling station at 2115 West Washington Boulevard, when two men drove into the station, trained pistols on the attendant and ordered him to "stick 'em up." The answer was a roar of gunfire from the concealed officers that sent one of the bandits reeling back against the car. His companion dragged the wounded man half into the seat, threw the car into gear and raced away.

IDENTIFIED BY OFFICERS

The wounded man is said to have confessed to Deputy Sheriffs Lamkin and Kinsey, and to have been identified by Officers Lovell and Friend as the man at whom they fired.

According to Lamkin and Kinsey, Dill declared that he and his companion stole an automobile belonging to C. F. Glazebrook, 201 North Rampart Boulevard, and held up three Wilshire district filling stations before encountering the two police officers.

Cline declared last evening that the special guard of 300 men will be maintained "until banditry becomes unpopular."

That his son is the innocent victim of criminal associates who used him for a tool, was the belief of the father, J. A. Dill. His son had never been in trouble of any kind before, the father said, and was a model youth in every particular. He was good natured and easily influenced, and as a result, proved an ideal victim for the criminals to foist their guilt upon, the elder Dill contends.

"If my son is guilty of robbery he did not commit it on his own accord," the father said. "His associates compelled him to do so, probably by threats."

LIGHTS RECOMMENDED

The Board of Public Works yesterday recommended that the City Council order the installation of ornamental lighting posts on Beverly Boulevard from La Brea avenue to Fairfax avenue, and in Hi-Point street from Pico street to Airdrome street.

BURGLAR LEAVES CANINE CLEW

On the Trail

A FRIENDLY whine or the gleeful wagging of a lonesome dog's stubby tail is expected to reveal the identity of the burglar who raided the home of Henry Bruton, 212 Flower street, Walnut Park, according to Deputy Sheriffs Freer and McDarmott.

The dog, a large Airedale, was found by Bruton scratching at the inside of the door to his home where he had been forgotten by the burglar who ransacked the house and escaped with jewels valued at more than $100 Monday night.

The deputy sheriffs plan to attach a long leash to the dog's collar and follow it to the home of its master and, whoever the dog seeks out will be required to give an account of his actions on the night of the burglary.

Numerous other burglaries were reported to the Sheriff's office yesterday. C. M. Sohweitker, 328 California street, reported that a burglar entered his home through a rear window and took jewelry valued at $75.

E. E. Hyten, 237 Live Oak street, Walnut Park, complained that a passkey burglar had entered his residence and stolen a quantity of woman's hosiery.

SOUTH LACKING HOSPITALS

Los Angeles County Bearing State Expense and Short Hundreds of Beds for Insane, Says Bean

Southern California is being discriminated against in the matter of hospital accommodations for the insane, and Los Angeles county is bearing expenses which should be borne by the State, Supervisor Bean declared yesterday. His assertion followed notification that the county grand jury had passed a resolution recommending that he and Superintendent of Charities Holland and other representatives of the county department of charities appear before the Legislature to urge construction of another State hospital for the insane in Southern California.

"Los Angeles county pays more than 40 per cent of the State taxes," Bean said. "For the entire State there are, in hospitals for the insane, 274 beds per 100,000 population. In Southern California there are only 214 beds per 100,000, while in Northern California there are 310 beds per 100,000. To equalize the situation there should be 1600 more beds in Southern California.

"At Norwalk on a recent day there were only ten vacant beds. Meanwhile we have 130 insane persons at the County Farm. These are properly State charges.

"The county also is being done an injustice in the matter of feebleminded children. Such children, it has been held, are the wards of the State. Southern California has a home for such children at Whittier, but we are compelled to maintain from thirty to forty feeble-minded children in Juvenile Hall at county expense because of lack of accommodations at Whittier."

Los Angeles county has been accepting the situation meekly, Bean said, but declared that unless the State acts to furnish needed accommodations the county will change its attitude. Instead of maintaining insane persons at county expense when notified there is no place for them in State institutions, he said, the county will do as it does with prisoners sentenced to San Quentin—deliver the charges to the institution and let it deal with the situation.

Jury will be placed before the Board of Supervisors for consideration.

WAY POINTED TO CURB TAX SHARK

Clerk has appealed to property owners to call at Room 6 in the City Hall and make certain that the addresses of property owners on file are correct, so that all public-improvement notices will be delivered to them.

SUGGESTIONS LISTED

The suggestions of Domingues for improving the city's notification system are as follows:

"(1.) Subdividers be requested to list with the City Clerk the names and addresses of all purchasers of real estate under contract of sale.

"(2.) Request of all property owners to list with the City Clerk their names and their own addresses, instead of care of some bank.

"(3.) Request the realty board and branch realty boards to notify their members to see that clients list their property with the City Clerk giving their correct name and address.

"(4.) Request of the various title companies to write the name and address of the purchaser and stamp on the back of each deed to be recorded with the County Recorder (or otherwise attach a sticker,) the following notice to th property owner:

"Important: List your property with the City Clerk, Room 6, City Hall, North Annex, 226 South Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal., then you will be notified when special assessments for street improvements, storm drains, sewers, ornamental lighting, etc., become due and to whom payable. Don't delay. Do it now.

"(5.) That the Bureau of Assessments (with which department the assessment is filed after confirmation by the Council) go through warrant and send notices to owners of property where the assessment is less than $25 advising them of the date it becomes delinquent. However, in my opinion this will be duplication of work as the contractor or his assignee is presumed to do this.

PACKER FAMILY SCION ARRESTED

a Southern Pacific train from Santa Barbara, accompanied by Mr. O'Brien, who was to have been Cudahy's best man.

She was dry-eyed, grieving at first because "newspapers never seem to get things right," referring to the day's accounts of Cupid's frustrated expedition, destined for the altar, later agreeing with Mr. O'Brien that the interruption of the proposed marriage was "a mean trick" on the part of someone.

"When Mr. Cudahy returns from Santa Barbara are you going to try it again with him?" she was asked.

"You'll have to speak to Mr. Cudahy about that," she replied.

"But you still love him, don't you?"

"I never told him I did"—later on, however, she looked thoughtfully out the train window and murmured, "he's just a dear, sweet boy."

"Mr. O'Brien, will you resume your part as best man-to-be, if another elopement is planned?"

"I certainly will," he declared.

When the planning of an elopement was mentioned, both the weary travelers replied emphatically that yesterday's affair was not planned. "Jus. spontaneous?" someone suggested. "I guess so"—both speaking.

Another denial burst forth from Miss Astaire and Mr. O'Brien regarding the hotel incident at Santa Ana earlier in the day, when the groups sought a wedding license at that city for the young heir to the Cudahy millions, and the auburn-haired actress of Hollywood.

"There was no 'incident' at the Santa Ana hotel," Mr. O'Brien explained. "I simply went in there to inquire the way to the wedding-license bureau—and further than that"—he went on—"there's no 'incident' at Santa Barbara, either. We went to a friend's house to clean up a bit."

The pair got a chuckle, however, over a near-successful attempt to gain a license at Ventura.

"We almost had the paper," the actress smiled, "when the marriage-license man got a message—a telegram I think—from Los Angeles, and they took it away from Mr. Cudahy. It's a mean trick." Mr. O'Brien nodded agreement.

Miss Astaire was told if she wished to make a formal statement on the day's events it would be glady accepted.

"I only wish I knew what to say," she replied, rather wistfully, as the train pulled in at the Arcade station.

The bride-to-have-been and the best-man to-have-been, successfully eluded a flock of interviewers and a battery of camera men at the station and escaped toward Hollywood in a taxi-cab.

Cudahy said that he and O'Brien, who comes of a wealthy Beverly Hills family, had been "on a tear" since New Year's Eve. They had picked up the girl day before yesterday with matrimonial intentions on young Cudahy's part.

HAVE TO BE 108 YEARS

"The next time we get married, dear, we'll wait until we get old and take a couple of cops along with us," Young Cudahy told Miss Astaire at Santa Barbara after the arrest. "It seems as though you have to be 108 years of age in order to get married nowadays."

"You've been a good best man, but I couldn't use you," he said to O'Brien. "You surely have stuck to the parade."

Cudahy was given a chicken sandwich and some milk in lieu of a wedding supper before he was taken to jail. He escaped the ignominy of landing in a tank, being escorted to a private cell.

QUESTIONED ON AGE

Young Cudahy and the actress appeared at the license bureau at Los Angeles early today. Mrs. Margaret Furlong, clerk, said she noticed that he gave his age as 22 years and recalled that a few weeks ago she issued a license to his sister, age 22 years.

"Are you twins?" Mrs. Furlong inquired, and was informed to the contrary. So she called the youth's mother who told her he is under age and a license was refused.

Mrs. Cudahy in calling surrounding counties learned that her son had been refused a license early in the morning at Santa Ana.

It was said at Santa Ana that about 4 a.m. Cudahy, a woman and a young man appeared at the Santa Ana Hotel and excitedly requested immediate assistance in procuring a marriage license. The party left the hotel for a cafe across the street, where a waitress was importuned for similar assistance.

County Clerk Backs, before he was out of bed, was importuned to give speedy aid to Cupid, but in no uncertain terms advised the party to wait until the marriage bureau opened at 8 a.m. When the bureau was opened, the clerk said, O'Brien procured a marriage application blank, but when the clerk observed that Cudahy was going to fill it out he advised Cudahy that no license would be issued to him.

GIRL MISSING BEFORE

It was then that the party went to the Los Angeles license bureau.

Miss Astaire, known also as Esther Broseberg, lives at the Hollywood Plaza Hotel. Once before she was missing, her mother, Mrs. May Broeberg, reported at the time, and a motion-picture promoter was questioned concerning her disappearance, but later she returned.

Cudahy was claimed last fall by Lucille Le Seuer, now known in pictures as Joan Crawford, for a fiance, and it was reported widely that they were married. Mrs. Cudahy objected emphatically to that affair, also, and warned that if a marriage resulted she would have it annulled.

Parent Asked Daughter to Return Property

Mrs. Lillie Barnes May be Adjudged Owner

Death has once again assumed the role of supreme arbiter and capriciously robbed the courts of their mantle of authority before they had time to settle a lawsuit, it was announced yesterday when the case of Mrs. Mattie Shorb, now dead, against her daughter, Mrs. Lillie Barnes, was called for hearing in the Second District Court of Appeal.

When the case was read on the calendar, Attorney J. L. Murphey rose and stated that Mrs. Shorb, who filed the original suit, had passed away shortly before Christmas. Presiding Justice Conrey immediately postponed the hearing until steps are taken toward the settlement of her estate and it is determined whether Mrs. Shorb's death removed the possible cause of action.

It is held possible that the death of Mrs. Shorb will give to her daughter that which the mother, through the court, sought to keep from Mrs. Barnes during her lifetime, according to those who are in touch with the case.

STORY FROM RECORDS

The story, as it is gleaned from the dry legal records, started back in 1926, when Mrs. Shorb deeded her home and other property valued at $50,000 to her daughter. She signed the deed and gave it to a third party with an understanding that she would retain a life interest in the estate, that after her death the daughter would have a life interest in the property, which would ultimately come into the possession of her grand-daughter, Miss Andrea Barnes, according to her complaint.

However, so the story goes, a deed giving full title to Mrs. Barnes was recorded and her daughter borrowed money on one of the lots and assumed control of the house. Mrs.

Mother's Death Halts Clash in Courts

Parent Asked Daughter to Return Property

Mrs. Lillie Barnes May be Adjudged Owner

Death has once again assumed the role of supreme arbiter and capriciously robbed the courts of their right of authority before they had time to settle a lawsuit, it was announced yesterday when the case of Ida Mattie Shorb, now dead, against her daughter, Mrs. Lillie Barnes, was called for hearing in the Second District Court of Appeal.

When the case was read on the calendar, Attorney J. L. Murphey rose and stated that Mrs. Shorb, who filed the original suit, had passed away quietly before Christmas. Presiding Justice Conrey immediately postponed the hearing until steps are taken toward the settlement of her estate and it is determined whether Mrs. Shorb's death removed the possible cause of action.

It is held possible that the death of Mrs. Shorb will give to her daughter that which the mother, through the court, sought to keep from Mrs. Barnes during her lifetime, according to those who are in touch with the case.

STORY FROM RECORDS

The story, as it is gleaned from the city legal records, started back in 1918, when Mrs. Shorb deeded her home and other property valued at $25,000 to her daughter. She signed the deed and gave it to a third party with an understanding that she should retain a life interest in the property, that after her death the daughter would have a life interest in the property, which would ultimately come into the possession of her grand-daughter, Miss Andrea Barnes, according to her complaint.

However, so the story goes, a deed giving full title to Mrs. Barnes was executed and her daughter borrowed money on one of the lots and assumed control of the house. Mrs. Shorb stated in her complaint that her daughter then treated her in an unnatural manner and conditions at home were unpleasant on several occasions.

Mrs. Shorb filed suit in Superior Court asking that the deed be set aside and Judge McLucas ruled in her favor and ordered the daughter to return the property free of incumbrances. An appeal was taken from this judgment and the case was set for hearing on its merits yesterday.

Mrs. Shorb was the widow of the late Dr. Andrew S. Shorb, wealthy pioneer physician. She was a resident of Los Angeles for the last twenty-five ears and resided at 2833 Francis avenue.

FIRST OF ITS KIND

The case of John M. Thille against the Board of Public Works, a suit testing the right of any municipality to require property owners to set their buildings back a given distance from the street line, was submitted on briefs. The case is the first of its kind to come before high State courts anywhere in the United States. The plaintiff contends that such ordinances are unreasonable and therefore void. City Attorney Stephens stated in his brief that setback laws further general public welfare and are valid because they come within the police power already delegated to cities.

The ashes of her husband, dead since 1918, were reported stolen yesterday by Mrs. Margie Fawkes of 238 West First street. It was all that the thief took, she told police.

The ashes were contained in an oaken box lined with copper which she had set on a chiffonier in the hallway between pictures of herself and her late husband.

ARSON SUSPECT DETAINED

Police Hold for Georgia Officers Mar. Accused of "Planting" Bones in House to Get Insurance

Harry K. Sligh, arrested here yesterday morning, is charged with "planting" human bones in his home near Fitzgerald, Ga., and then burning the house down as evidence that he had perished in the flames so that his wife could collect insurance, according to information contained in a wire from Sheriff Tyler of Ossila, Ga., in which he states he holds a warrant charging Sligh with arson.

Sheriff Tyler was notified immediately, according to Chief of Detectives Cline, that Sligh has waived extradition and will accompany authorities to Ossila, Ga., to fight the charge against him.

Sligh was arrested here yesterday morning by Detective Lieutenants Shannon and Dryden of the police homicide detail, after Clinton H. Wolcott of the New York Life Insurance Company reported he had trailed the suspect across the country.

According to the detectives, Wolcott learned that Sligh had attempted to defraud the insurance company by the asserted fake firing of his Georgia home. Sligh had moved his wife and children out of the house, he stated, and then one evening returned as if to sleep there during the night. Several negroes working near by saw him enter the house, according to Wolcott. That night the house burned down and the next day a collection of charred human bones was found in what was left of the bed.

Later, according to Wolcott, Mrs. Sligh collected $7500 insurance. In checking up on the claim, Wolcott stated that he learned that Sligh had communicated with an attorney in San Bernardino after the fire.

Sligh will be held in the City Jail pending the arrival of authorities from Ossila, Ga.

VALUABLE WRAP LOST

A valuable ermine coat belonging to Mrs. Nancy C. Taft was taken from a Playa Del Rey beach club while its owner had stepped from the room for a moment. Mrs. Taft told officers she left the coat on her chair in the dining-room while she went to the lobby and when she returned the cloak was missing.

MAN OILING GUN KILLED IN ACCIDENT

Murder Theory Discarded as Authorities Delve Into Tragedy at Arcadia

Morris Trumbull, 50 years of age, of 2800 Live Oak street, Arcadia, who was found shot to death in his real-estate office at 2315 Baldwin avenue, Arcadia, yesterday morning, was killed by an accidental shot from a gun he was cleaning, according to a report made last night by Deputy Sheriffs Stensland and Mendoza.

When the body was first discovered officers believed that Trumbull had been attacked as the office was in great disorder with chairs and tables overturned. It was found, however, that Trumbull had thrown the furniture about in his struggles trying to leave the room to summon aid.

Beneath the body the deputies found a can of gun oil and a small wire brush which Trumbull had been using to clean a small automatic pistol. He had removed the magazine from the gun, but neglected to eject one cartridge from the chamber.

Trumbull leaves his widow and two children.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA LAUDED BY VISITOR

Los Angeles will see a larger number of winter tourists from New York and other eastern centers this season than for many years, in the opinion of Dr. S. G. Gant, noted New York surgeon, who arrived at the Biltmore.

"Last winter and the year before that, New Yorkers talked only of going to Florida," said Dr. Gant. "This winter not a word is heard of Florida but there is much conversation about California.

"When coming through Chicago I was informed that the Santa Fe is preparing to put on six or seven sections of The Chief, the new sixty-three-hour train of that road. I was told that to judge by the number of inquiries in regard to California accommodations reaching the Chicago offices, such expansion of the service of this train would undoubtedly be found necessary."

Dr. Gant expressed great satisfaction at the conveniences resulting from traveling on the new fast train from Chicago to Los Angeles.

"When I was here last winter I reached Los Angeles on this same train in the middle of the afternoon," he said. "This time I got in early in the forenoon, got settled in my rooms, took an automobile drive and was out playing golf at the hour in the afternoon that I landed here last year. I like the new system."

MODESTY IN CHURCH

A couple of young worshipers in sleeveless gowns were turned away from a church service at which ex-King Manuel of Portugal was present. The royal vein of modesty must have developed since Manuel quit kinging.

THE HEART OF GOLD

The scientific opinion that the center of the earth may be a mass of almost pure gold perhaps inspires the passion a lot of people have for turning everything upside down, ripping things wide open and taking the world apart.

WIDER BRIDGES

There seems to be a general understanding that under modern traffic conditions it is foolish to build a bridge narrower than the street it represents. The inadequate bridge creates the jam that is the overmastering nuisance to the day's highway movement.

NO CAUSE FOR QUARREL

Folks who wrangle over whether the women who swim from Catalina to Long Beach should wear trunks or grease would quarrel if they were married. If a girl is embarked upon a thirty-mile swim she should surely be permitted to journey au naturel if she chooses.

RACE OF SMOKERS

Great Britain nearly doubled its importation of tobacco in a single year. At last accounts the Englishmen were doing more smoking and less drinking, which is, perhaps, as it should be. Anyhow, the Britons are among the world's greatest consumers of the smoky weed.

DEALS AND IDEALS

New York has a tremendous building program on the cards for the present year—lofty business and apartment structures and big real estate deals in which much valuable property will change hands. The deals are all right, but what about the ideals of a city which has to be padlocked to keep it sober?

THE FRENCH FLASH

This Lenglen meteor may not play according to Hoyle, but Hoyle never did know much about tennis, anyhow, and Suzanne doesn't pretend to know anything else. The French girl has a nine-gallon dynamo in her bosom and her action makes all other net performers seem slothful by comparison. The tennis theorists may be unable to glorify her style, but she can make monkeys out of them just the same.

BACK TO THE FARM

The head of the national Association of Commissioners of Agriculture is strongly urging the buying of farm and suburban property. He insists that it will never be cheaper and that it is bound to come back into its own. Farmers have plowed through the embers and fumes of a world laid waste by war and established the only business in this country that built food factories without cost-plus or other guaranty against the aftermaths of peace. Country life is sure to have restored its former measure of remuneration and increased values of rural holdings are certain. It isn't only the real estate men who hold these opinions.

CLEANING NEW YORK

Mayor Jimmy Walker of New York, in connection with his campaign for purer shows in the big city, says that producers are dumping shows in New York that could not get a single booking on the road. He also says that there are a few genuinely artistic productions that are starving to death while a mass of putrid and salacious offerings are crowded to the limit nightly. If this new Tammany Mayor, who used to be a song-plugger in his juvenile days, can now shine up and purify the drama of the great city he will have almost achieved the miraculous. Mayor Walker doesn't want a censorship. The idea is abhorrent to him. But he is seeking to get the producers themselves into a competition in decency. He wishes them to do their own house-cleaning and thinks it can be made worth their while.

ONE WIFE ENOUGH

It seems that it is for economic and not moral reasons that polygamy is dying out among the Moslem race. In Turkey they concluded after the war that to keep one woman was all the average man could afford, so they passed a law in 1925 prohibiting plural marriages. In Turkestan there is now reported to be "a famine of women" and the price of a wife is so high that only men of means can afford to buy an extra one, while many have to get along with one or none at all. Howells held that "man is imperfectly monogamous," but in Turkestan he soon will become perfectly so, unless there should be a wholesale importation of women from the outside. It never will be from the United States, where, according to the last census, the females outnumber the males by over 2,000,000. Almost any of those 2,000,000 would rather enjoy single blessedness forever than to be yoked with a man who, if he happens to come in for a bit of money, would not scruple to go and buy himself an extra spouse or two.

BRAINS AND PLOWS

Things are looking up for the farmer, for agriculture. Nature promises her periodic cure of this political and economic ill. William M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture, looks to the harvests of 1927 "with confidence." "This year," says L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, "gives every indication of being the most satisfactory agricultural year since 1920." Other authorities have spoken in like vein. It is the consensus of opinion.

Yet, when a voice arises above individual babble and declares under display headlines the farmer's good or bad fortune, as the case may be, many other voices ask at once: "What's that man's politics?" There is a vitiating factor usually which associates a political motive with discussions of the farms and farmers. With that discounted there then remains the huge diversity of agriculture in this country, which creates one set of conditions here, another there and so on almost without end. It is a hard matter for anyone at any time to speak convincingly for agriculture in any single State, let alone the whole country. Californians especially know well that only the expert in his line, his crop, may speak with any degree of finality, and he only for his one branch of the subject.

Nevertheless, the question of whether in the nation's organization the farmer is receiving his just recognition and reward continues to be an open and a vital one. It is engaging; not only the politicians of high degree and low, but also the best minds of business and industry. In this connection the recent appointment of the Business Men's Commission on Agriculture possesses both interest and significance.

This commission does not represent a tax upon the national or any State or county government. It is the joint creation of the National Industrial Conference Board and the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Charles Nagel, a lawyer, Secretary of Commerce under President Taft, is the chairman; and the membership includes Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal; E. N. Brown of New York, chairman of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway; E. M. Herr of New York, president of the Westinghouse Company; J. G. Lonsdale, president of the National Bank of Commerce at St. Louis; John Stuart, president of the Quaker Oats Company, Chicago; Alfred H. Swayne, vice-president of the General Motors Company, and Paul M. Warburg, chairman of the International Acceptance Company. The object is to obtain an unbiased, independent and thorough report on the agricultural problem and its relation to the economic life of the country.

It is an application on a high plane of the nation's brains to the nation's plows. If nothing more is accomplished, the extremists in Congress who are proposing government price-fixing, subsidies for this crop and that doubtless will be held in check. In the meantime, while the President and the national administration are doing their utmost to meet the immediate situation, the individual farmer who applies to his plow his brains as well as his brawn or his gasoline will be all right. Things are looking up.

JAPAN'S NEW RULER

It is not in the least likely that the amity existing between Japan and the United States will be disturbed by the acts or policies of the new Emperor, Hirohito, who succeeded his father, Yoshihito, to the throne of Japan after the death of that monarch on Christmas Day. Hirohito was made regent of Japan five years ago because of the illness of his father, and his conduct of affairs has been such as to show that he is an amiable ruler, whose great desire is to be at peace with all nations.

The new Emperor is 26 years old and is said to look even younger. He shows no evidence of high living, having been brought up under an austere regime adopted centuries ago by the imperial family and closely adhered to in the case of the young man as prince and regent. In his demeanor there is an absence of the pomp or conscious pride that has been noted in some western monarchs, and he is said to impress the observer as almost shy. However, his glance is fearless.

His uniforms are not gaudy and he wears few decorations. He has a democratic dislike of ceremony, though, of course, as Emperor his appearance on state occasions must be more or less of an impressive and ceremonial nature. Unlike European monarchs of the last century, many of them the product of international marriages, Hirohito is thoroughly representative of his race. For twenty-five centuries his ancestors in direct line have been Japanese only.

If the austerity of an imperial home life of almost Spartan simplicity is calculated to improve the morals of royal youth, which are likely to grow lax with indulgence, then Hirohito must be, as they say he is, an exemplary young man. He is by no means a mollycoddle, however, as he is an ardent lover of sport and fond of outdoor occupation, in which he engages whenever he can find time from his rather strenuous official duties. As regent he was a hard worker, sparing himself no task that he considered necessary for the welfare of his people, for whom he has great love and who return that love with interest. As Emperor it is unlikely that he will prove a shirker. The job is no sinecure, as Cabinet after Cabinet goes by the board in Japan in the amazingly swift political vicissitudes of government.

The popularity of Hirohito was shown three years ago when an attempt was made on his life by a revolutionist. This assault caused the downfall of the Cabinet of Admiral Count Yamamoto and also of his successor, Viscount Kiyoura, who was beaten at a general election in which it is said that he and his colleagues spent more than $17,000,000. This caused great scandal, and Hirohito set his foot down quite firmly on excessive election expenditure. In many other ways he has stood for reform.

It is rather an anomalous position for an Emperor to be as stanch a supporter of democracy as is Hirohito, but doubtless he reconciles that position with the fact that democracy is very popular in Japan and that it is expanding from year to year. The time may come when the people will have no use for hereditary rulers, but that does not seem to worry Hirohito, who is reasonably sure of a lifetime job.

There are two sides to every domestic question: The winning side and the one the husband takes.

SOWING DOLLARS

Tuition fees in the school of experience have a wide range. Pretty generally the student gets out just what he puts in. California, to speak figuratively, ranks as the star pupil so far as education goes. This and other States have experimented extensively on what to teach, how to teach it and the money to be expended on teaching in their public schools. To judge from the results in matters of the finished product and the financial angle the Golden State well deserves its name. It has done well by its sons and daughters—thousands of them adopted—and spent lavishly to obtain the best educational system possible. It will reap its reward.

It is a matter of some wonder and speculation in the East that California is able and willing to spend such prodigious sums on its public schools. Recent figures disclosed that during the school year 1924 more money was spent per child on the pupils of California than in any other State of the Union. Such a statement becomes doubly remarkable when it is recalled that the school establishments in the East have been in operation many years longer than any in this region. In addition, wealth is supposed to be concentrated in the eastern centers of population. It may be, but it remains concentrated; it is not spent on education.

California even has been criticised by outsiders for its vast expenditures on school buildings, teachers' salaries and other necessities. The argument has been advanced that the State's budget is top-heavy and that "just as good" results might be obtained at a much smaller cost. While the need of efficiency and the outlawing of waste are apparent in all governmental processes, there is also the danger of being niggardly, with bad results. California never has been content to follow abjectly the lead of any other section of the nation in her educational policies. Furthermore, she has a specific problem in her constantly expanding population. A forward-looking policy must be maintained to cope with the ever-growing demands on the school facilities.

There is also the element of a sunshine-climate curriculum. The State includes in its schools many branches of learning and outdoor activities which would be impossible in the rigorous winters of the East. Education is considered to embrace the problem of training healthy bodies as well as healthy minds. The ever-increasing supremacy of California youth in all branches of athletic endeavor bears testimony that the idea is one to be followed religiously.

The same figures which show this State's expenditure of $159.35 for each child during 1924 reveal also that expenditures throughout the nation have increased sevenfold for education since 1900, while the population has grown only about half. For California to lead all the States on that basis is a testimonial to the light in which a trained man or a trained woman is considered here.

It certainly can be no ill-considered policy which permits the Golden State to plant its dollars in thousands of far-flung schools where they may grow under the alchemy of learning into a sturdy, clear-eyed race of keen-brained boys and girls.

HAIR AND MUSIC

When you look over the orchestra you may have noticed that the guy behind the trombone or the artist with the cornet at his lips is perhaps as bald as a prune, while the musicians playing the violin or piano have a mass of hair that would fill a fireplace. A Jewish doctor says there is a reason for this. He thinks that the performers on the violin and piano, for instance, are receiving the benefits of the vibrations of their instruments. This virtually amounts to a scalp massage and is the finest tonic for the hair that can be imagined. That quivery motion would stimulate hair on a billiard ball. But the unfortunates who are condemned to torture such instruments as the saxophone, the tuba or the trombone are virtually blowing their hair out by the roots. This is what the Jewish doctor says and people who do not like to believe him do not have to. They can take it or leave it.

CAUSES OF WAR

Paul Harvey of the International Chamber of Commerce, in a recent address before the Woman's City Club of Los Angeles, declared that it is impossible to "outlaw" war and establish permanent international peace without abolishing the causes of conflict, among which he mentioned the economic plight of "the common man in Europe and Asia."

Declaring that nations are interdependent and that the American farm problem, British unemployment, inflated currencies in Europe and the chaos in China are all related, Mr. Harvey said that these problems and the peace of the world await a new international technique to bring about an increase in the world's production and consumption. Back of militarism and national greed are the fear of scarcity and the pressure of numbers upon supply in European and Asiatic countries, he said.

The causes of war are many, but, while there is no question that national and international strife are largely inspired by human selfishness, there is little doubt that the natural fear of poverty on the part of the masses of people is also a cause of much of the world's unrest which has its climax in war.

Many leading thinkers of the world today are emphasizing America's opportunity for taking the lead in creating the new technique stressed by Mr. Harvey. With our abundant capital, raw material and labor, there is no reason why America should not "bring the factors of production over the world into better working agreement." Intelligent international readjustment must remove the artificial barriers that have too long prevented the legitimate and mutual exploitation of the world's rich resources.

HIGH FINANCE

One New York financial institution—now become the biggest bank in the world—is at last in a position to legally loan as much as $15,000,000 to a single business firm or individual. But a man will have to have something more than an extra pair of suspenders before the cashier will let him walk off with this accommodation.

THE HEARTH AND THE RADIATOR

By James J. Montague

The best laid logs will fall apart,
The flame, with intermittent flashes,
Will in a little time lose heart
And dwindle down to coals and ashes.
The hearth-fire's glow has little zest
When winter's chilling blast has drowned it,
It's but a feeble thing at best,
Yet how we love to gather 'round it!

When overhead the wild wind wails
Like ice gales from St. Elias,
The radiator never fails
To do its honest duty by us.
With now a clank! and now a clang!
It sets the blizzard at defiance,
And yet what poet ever sang
About this excellent appliance?

The hearth-log's beauties they rehearse,
They speak of how the flame-tongues quiver
In flowing sentimental verse,
Though in their glow they sit and shiver.
The radiator warms their toes,
They dry their dripping arctics on it,
Yet all it gets is simple prose
And never any lilting sonnet.

'Twas ever thus; the poet breed,
Which juggles smooth but empty phrases,
To patient merit pays no heed,
But sings the flashy show-off's praises.
Grand, swinging lyrics they accord
To everything of light and beauty,
All else must seek a scant reward
As virtue must—in simple duty.

A SERIOUS MARTIAN

By The Foothill Philosopher

I dreamed I was conducting a man from Mars on a sight-seeing trip through a large eastern city.

"We earth folk are great builders," I told my guest. "For instance, here is a theater that cost $1,000,000."

"I suppose you have wonderful entertainments there," he said.

"I don't know," I replied, "but it's a $1,000,000 show house. And here," I went on, as we sped past the "stop" signals, "is one of our $1,000,000 churches."

"Glorious!" he returned. "This, I take it, is the place in which the poor and distressed gather to hear of heavenly things and to cultivate their sense of moral responsibility?"

"That is beside the point," I answered. "I'm showing you a $1,000,000 temple. See that string of machines coming toward us? That's a rich bootlegger's funeral."

"I don't quite gather you," said the Martian.

I explained.

"Ah, I see!" he brightened. "And where are the bootlegger's patrons?"

"Some are in the potter's field and some in mausoleums," I said. "Here is one of our art galleries. Notice the sign, 'Colors guaranteed not to fade.'"

"If those pictures are typical of your best art I would prefer fading pigments," said the Martian. "Who is that man walking with his head down?"

"He is one of those who celebrated the birth of the world's greatest master by making a glutton of himself," I answered.

"And this other man coming, dressed in rags—is he ill from the same cause?"

"No, he is ill because he had nothing to eat Christmas Day. Wait a minute. Here's a newsboy. Let's get a paper and see what's happened."

"What inspires the mirth?" asked the Martian.

"Why, I see here where an English naturalist proposes the preservation of New Guinea cannibals from the influences of civilization."

"And what and where is civilization?" queried my guest.

"You're in it now," I said.

"Good-by!" said the Martian, turning on his heel.

"Where are you going?"

"To New Guinea."

TO A CALIFORNIA MOCKING BIRD

Oh, mocking bird, I love you and your song,
You are a laird of blue and sunny skies;
Your tuneful notes reverberate and ring,
And from my heart a tender chord replies.

At early dawn I hear your wondrous song,
And all throughout the day you sing and sing;
Such melody as yours must drive away
Dull care, which vanishes on rapid wing.

So oft at night, when slumber will not come,
And troubled thoughts surge round my silent bed,
'Tis then you seem to sing in sacred note
To change my troubles into thoughts less dread.

Your sweetest song you save for moonlit nights,
When out of slumber, wakened by sweet sound,
I listen to your heaven-given voice
In wonder and in admiration bound.

The Right Appeal

CINCINNATI, (O.) Dec. 27.—[To the Editor of The Times:] After searching five years for a place to live with my family, also the family of Mrs. Edward Funck, we have decided on Los Angeles. This decision was reached after reading in your splendid, clean paper the results of the last State election on liquor, the Bible and gambling. We spent a year each in New York, Washington, D. C., Chicago and Miami, Fla., and twenty-five years in Cincinnati, O. None of these cities suits us. They are too corrupt, dirty, cold and unfit to raise children in. They make no appeal to art or music, etc.

Your paper of December 19 did the work in helping us to decide. The splendid support of your citizens at the polls on election day plainly indicates the high type of living in Southern California. We plan to sell our real estate and business here and leave for Los Angeles.

Best wishes to the clean men who own and manage the Los Angeles Times. More power to you all. EDWARD MALDEN.

"Going—Going—Gone"

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] It is no worse for the human form to be exposed in the nude in a swimming match than it is for the human form to be exposed in our art galleries in the guise of art. There is altogether too much prudery masking under the cover of indecency.

Who has any right to set himself up as a judge to declare what is decent and what is indecent and, therefore, should not be looked upon? If a bathing suit is decent on the beach, why is it not decent on the streets of the city? The position cannot be logically defended. The fact that the beach is the place for the bathing suit does not in itself make the bathing suit an indecent attire for the streets or the afternoon reception.

The morals of our people are not adversely affected any quicker by seeing a person in the nude upon the beach than by seeing a photograph or a statue of the same person in some public building. Nor are morals undermined any quicker by witnessing a real sport event, such as will take place when the channel is crossed on January 15, where the contestants are without bathing suits, than by looking upon the same event where the contestants are not allowed the freedom which they believe will aid them to victory. Let those who expect to be shocked stay at home. There is a good deal of truth in the French saying, liberally translated: "Evil to him who evil thinks." C. F. S.

Breaks Records, Not Dishes

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 3.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Mr. Lee Shippey has written a letter on the domestic conditions at the White House; and asserts that during eight years only four dishes have been broken.

He intimates that this great achievement, being of world-wide importance, should also influence the work of the humble toiler.

I am but a humble housewife in Indiana and without any thought of having done anything to deserve a medal, have kept my original set of dinner dishes intact for twenty years, with the exception of the breaking of one coffee cup, and that was caused by a visiting minister's son gently describing a baseball game.

Would there be any chance of my obtaining a seat in Congress?

VISITOR FROM INDIANA.

For Better Protection

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 30.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Upon reading your paper of yesterday I can only say that I was horrified to learn of the accident that happened at the Los Angeles Harbor to the men under the employ of the General Petroleum Corporation of this city.

(1.) To my best knowledge it was the fault of the State of California, as in many other cases.

It should be a law of the State of California that no welding should be done on a tank or pipe line, etc., without it first being thoroughly steamed.

(2.) Any superintendent of a company absolutely knows that it would be murder to weld on a pipe line that once had gasoline in it.

It seems to be unjust that the State does not make laws to protect the working man.

ALL WORMS LOOK ALIKE

Junior, who lives out east, was busily engaged helping his mother crack some nuts in the cellar. Mrs. Jones found a nut that had a worm in it. Junior exclaimed:

"Oh, mother, may I save this one for daddy?"

"No, dear, daddy wouldn't care to eat that one."

But he wrapped the nut in a bit of paper and placed it beside the furnace. That evening when daddy came home his son eagerly grasped his hand and pulled him down into the cellar.

"Why did you save this one for me?" his father asked.

"So's you kin go fishing next summer."

"Go fishing?"

"Yeh, you can use it for a fishin' worm," was his retort.—[Indianapolis News.

A Canny Child

Uncle Jim had given his small nephew a dime; but not long afterward the child appeared, long of face, to report: "That dime you gave me slipped through a hole in my pocket."

"Well, here's another," said Uncle Jim. "Don't let this one get lost, too."

The youngster looked thoughtful. "Perhaps half a dollar would be safer, wouldn't it, uncle?" he said.—[Youth's Companion.

BACK TO NATURE

"Oh, come with us to Lake Tahoe," my boon companions said; "in our own car, we plan to go, our wagon painted red. It is the back-to-nature goods that makes one young again; we'll have a camp-fire in the woods and there we'll broil a hen. Unhappy is the heartless wight who has not seen Tahoe; it is, indeed, a wondrous sight, as all good tourists know. So break away from easy chairs, from this, your resting place, and get some sandburs in your hair and freckles on your face." I made reply, "Full well I know that lake with charms replete; I've read some fifty books or so about the grand retreat. Mark Twain has balmed the place in words to move a man to tears; and other nobly gifted birds have boomed it for years. I have a picture in my mind that I would keep intact, and if I went there I would find the lake a frost, in fact. I've e'er I meet celebrities, be they of human brand, or merely scapes, lakes and trees, I like a pointed stand. They have to up to their fame; they all must gone to seed; so play your to-nature game and I'll stay home and read." When they returned it was to croak of hardships and dour; they ran against poison oak which made their legs turn sour. Some hunters filled the legs with shot, mistaking them for deer, and everywhere they went they fought misfortunes grim and queer. And while they scrapped with every foe that they every could spring, I sat and read of Lake Tahoe and sipped a Yuban sling. I have no scars, I'm well, ache, I do not itch or burn; and I know more about that lake that they will ever learn.

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Radio dealers have a good deal to be thankful for with the coming of the new year, for, according to Radiotelling, an eastern publication, the saturation point in the purchase of receiving sets is not quite 24 per cent. The figures which follow are as of January 1:

SATURATION COMPARISON

Families in United States	26,800,000
Families owning sets	11,500,000
Families without sets	15,000,000
Families using for electricity	15,300,000
Families using battery sets	6,270,000
Total number of sets in use	20,300,000
Saturation percentage	24 per cent

The same authority also furnishes figures of an industrial and commercial census as of 1927, which shows the number of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers which carry a full stock of sets and accessories. It will thus be seen that sporting goods stores, hardware stores, furniture emporiums and drug shops cater to the radio trade. Already some of the popular five and 10-cent stores carry radio goods and the time may not be far distant when we can get tubes and parts at the corner newspaper stand. Automotive	4,550

Furniture	900

Miscellaneous	1,500

The past five years the estimated number of sets, including factory and home made, and deducting for obsolete sets, has jumped from less than 100,000 to some 5,000,000, with a probable increase of almost 3,000,000 more in the next two-year period.

NUMBER OF SETS IN USE

1923	1,500,000
1924	3,000,000
1925	4,000,000
1926	5,000,000
1927	6,510,000
1928	7,700,000

At the same time it is interesting to note the probable figures for sets on the farm, according to the following tabulation, and the figures are, or course, included in the country's total as set forth on the nation-wide list:

SETS ON FARMS

1923	125,000
1924	350,000
1925	850,000
1926	1,350,000

With an audience of a little more than one to a set in 1922, and this is a small estimate, the number of listeners now amounts to somewhat more than 20,000,000, with half as much to be added in two more years, if statisticians figure correctly.

RADIO AUDIENCE

1923	2,000,000
1924	10,000,000
1925	15,000,000
1926	20,000,000

FAIRIES FROLIC

The twelfth consecutive weekly bridge game was broadcast over KHJ at 2:30 yesterday afternoon and Uncle John and the children's hour brought the weekly visit of Queen Titania and her Sandman at 6:30.

Little Queen Titania and her Sandman took Uncle John and radioland into a part of the Fairyland of the Heart which they had never visited before. It was called New Year's Land and the three Radio Fairies caught their first glimpse of it from the top of the Hill of Today.

From this hill they saw an old man, his footsteps weary and his clothing in rags, hastening away toward the Country of Past Years. Quickly they traveled and finally caught up with this dilapidated figure, to discover that it was the year 1926. After a short conversation with the Old Year, they left him to continue his way to his well-earned rest. In response to Uncle John's inquiry, the Sandman explained how the old year does not die but continues to live forever in the memory of achievements accomplished.

SOPRANO PLEASES

Charles D. McRoy's harmonica band from the City Playground Department presented several old-time and novelty numbers. Betty Jane Uhl, 9-year-old pianist, offered MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose," and Wilkes's "Indian Dance" and George Kerr, 12-year-old mandolin soloist, played three selections.

The evening scripture reading was delivered by the Rev. W. S. Buckanan, minister of the Arlington Christian Church of Los Angeles and H. M. Robertson gave his weekly talk on dogs.

The regular evening broadcast at 8 o'clock included Harry James Beardsley, baritone, in readings and solos, and Claire Wilcox, soprano. Miss Wilcox sang four numbers which were exceptionally well chosen and rendered.

IT'S SOME BAND

The Union Pacific Band of Los Angeles played an hour program under the direction of M. S. Sullins, its director. This industrial band plays noonday concerts weekly at the shops in Bandini and many thousands have heard its music for the past five or six years during the Tournament of Roses parade. The organization is composed entirely of employees of the Union Pacific and similar bands are maintained at each division.

The hour program included several marches and waltzes, a baritone number by the soloist, vocal refrains by Mike Thomas and refrains by the saxophone sextet. By way of variation from the popular trend of chosen selections, the band played the Poet and Peasant Overture by Suppe, famous Dalmatian composer.

Immediately following the regular two-hour evening program the Los Angeles Railway Orchestra came on the air for its hour of dance music.

HOUSE CLEANING

College talent for the week from local stations apparently will be confined to the 7 o'clock hour over KFI Thursday night when the University of Southern California will stage an hour program and again at 9 from the same station the U. C. Men's Glee Club and soloists will perform. Radio fans probably will vote the club some sort of a prize if they leave "Collegiate" from their program.

Spring house cleaning at broadcast stations has arrived six months early this year and three-fourths of Southern California stations were rustled from their smug complacency by staff changes. It has always seemed a sad ending when announcers and studio directors rise into the air upon the receipt of a few daffy fan letters which tell them how good they are. It takes a hard jolt to get them back to earth again.

KFI and KMTR must have declared an open season on "sister" talent for each station has lately broadcast a lot of song numbers by this or that group of "sisters." From both stations the effect has been the same. Not so good, if you know what I mean!

TALKS TO CLUB

Uncle John and Pal O'Mine were Ebell Club guests yesterday morning where Uncle John gave a talk on women and radio.

Dance numbers of the past and the present will be featured on the program tonight between 8 and 9 o'clock, from stations KNX and KFWO.

The concert orchestra, which has been heard regularly on these programs, will have special arrangements of all numbers for this particular hour.

MYSTERY IN FATAL HURT CLEARED UP

Elderly Man's Death Due to Injuries in Fall on Christmas Night

Part of the mystery surrounding the death of Frederick S. McPherson, 56 years of age, at the General Hospital yesterday morning was cleared up last night when it was learned that McPherson had fallen, injuring his head, after being put out of a building at 224 South Spring street Christmas night.

It also was disclosed that McPherson had been given emergency treatment at the Receiving Hospital the same night and placed in jail on a charge of drunkenness, and that the following day he was released on $20 bail, which he forfeited.

McPherson, according to reports circulated shortly after he died, was said to have told authorities at the General Hospital that he was assaulted by several men because he won a card game in a house at 1745 West Vernon avenue. University police officers reported that they had been unable to verify this or that McPherson had received his injuries there.

Further investigation of the case is being made by Detective Lieutenants Lind and Sperry of the University police division. The body of McPherson was taken to the county morgue.

Druggist Found Guilty by Jury of Possession

Morris Prelusky, in Municipal Judge Stafford's court yesterday, was found guilty by a jury on a charge of possession of liquor found by Officers Garner and Jackson in his drug store at Third street and Central avenue when they searched the place on November 27, last.

The officers' raid was staged after they had obtained a search warrant following the asserted purchase of several pints of liquor from Prelusky's clerk, Thomas Parks, according to Deputy City Prosecutor Eberhard. The officers made two separate purchases from the clerk, whose case is set for trial later this month on charges of sale.

TROJAN STUDENTS RETURN FROM EAST

College men and women who represented the University of Southern California at the national student conference at Milwaukee during the holidays will return to the Trojan campus this morning, including Harriet Fullen, Jeffrey Smith, Florence Nickles, Juanita Ellsworth, Paul Cunningham and Clara Miller.

TROJAN TEACHERS RETURN

After participating in the program of the annual convention of the American Association of Law Schools at Chicago, December 29-31, Dr. Frank Monroe Porter, dean of the school of law of the University of Southern California, and Prof. W. Turney Fox, returned to the Trojan campus yesterday. The school of law of Southern California has been a member of the Association of American Law Schools since 1906.

College Group Designates City for Convention

Announcement of the convention of the National Congress of the Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity in Los Angeles in 1928 will be made by C. Fletcher Quillian, president of the Southern California Alumni Association of the fraternity, at the monthly dinner and smoker to be held this evening at the Elks' Club. News of the selection of Los Angeles as the next congress center comes by telegram from Hal C. Harding, delegate of the association in Tampa, Fla., where the present biennial congress is in session.

At the meeting Wednesday evening, Dr. Francis W. Shepardson of Chicago, nationally known fraternity authority, will address the association on "The Fraternity of the Future." Hal McCreery, Stanford varsity football center, is scheduled to outline the 1927 Pacific Coast football outlook. The meeting is in charge of Walker S. Clute, secretary of the Southern California organization.

LAND FOR HOSPITAL SELECTED

Pasadena-Avenue Lots to be Purchased by City for New First-Aid Station

The first of the city's branch receiving hospitals to be built from the proceeds of the $250,000 bond issue authorized at the November election will be erected on Pasadena avenue, between Avenue 26 and Avenue 27, as a result of action taken yesterday by the City Council on recommendation of Police Surgeon Goodrich.

Two lots were ordered purchased at this location, giving the hospital a fifty-foot frontage on Pasadena avenue and an equal frontage on Workman street. The Council ordered the Board of Public Works to purchase the lots for a total of $19,000.

Dr. Goodrich said the price constituted a good bargain for the city and maintained the site would provide for a branch hospital to efficiently serve the Highland Park, Garvanza, Eagle Rock and Hollenbeck Heights sections.

Other branch hospitals are to be built in Hollywood and in the Los Angeles Harbor district. The new Central Receiving Hospital on Georgia street, south of Pico, is nearing completion. Early this summer it is expected the present receiving hospital will move from its old quarters at First and Hill street to the new building.

HONOR PAID MEMORY OF CHURCHMAN

Late Dean MacCormack Eulogized at Service in St. Paul's Cathedral

More than 500 members of St. Paul's Cathedral gathered yesterday at the cathedral to honor the memory of Dr. William MacCormack, their beloved rector, who died a year ago.

Simple but impressive was the service, which included organ selections, prayers by Dr. William B. Stevens, bishop coadjutor, and Rev. Harry Beal, present dean; scriptural reading by Colin Gair, and the congregational singing of Dr. MacCormack's best-loved hymn, "O, Love That Will Not Let Me Go."

"To know Dean MacCormack was to love him," said Reynold E. Blight, in eulogizing the churchman. "In his long service to his church, his city, his State and his nation no soul ever came into contact with him that was not bound to him by strong chords of affection. Nor was any member of the human race ever so mean and low as to be outside the circle of his love. The spirit of kindliness was his in superlative degree, and his service breathed the joy of sacrifice.

"Transparent and dynamic was our beloved brother's quality of sincerity," continued the speaker. "Those of us who knew him felt that at all times the words he spoke were charged with the spirit of honesty and goodness. In these days, when sincerity seems so rare, it is good to have known a man so whole-hearted as Dr. MacCormack."

Couple Observe Half Century's Marital Mark

Mr. and Mrs. John Korbel, 115 South State street, yesterday began the fifty-first year of their wedded life following the celebration Monday of the golden wedding anniversary that began with a nuptial high mass in the morning and ended with a program at Korbel's Hall, 1868 East First street, with 400 guests present.

At the nuptial high mass preached by Father Thomas O'Reagan at St. Mary's Church at 9 a.m., 100 guests were present. It was followed by a wedding breakfast at noon at the home. During the ceremony at the church Miss Eda S. Bressau, a cousin of Mrs. Korbel, acted as bridesmaid, which she was fifty years ago.

With the guests present at Korbel's Hall in the evening the bridal couple entered at 9 o'clock to the strains of the wedding march, after which there was a program of readings, toasts and instrumental and vocal music, followed by Mr. and Mrs. Korbel dancing a waltz.

Mr. Korbel was born in Germany and came to this country when 16 years of age. When 27 he married Elizabeth Becker, 16, of Peru, Ill., and they came to Los Angeles in 1883. They have one son, Jack Korbel.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Avoiding Undesirable Suggestion

One Mother Says:

At our house it is against the rules for anyone—father, mother, children or maid—to remark, "I don't like that" about any kind of food served at the table. I wish we could also make the law binding on visitors. Before I realized the power of suggestion in the matter of eating, my older children were turned against many articles of food by the remarks or insinuations of their elders. I have tried for years to overcome the prejudices thus easily gained. So now, whoever is obliged to pass by certain foods must say merely: "No, thank you."

HOUSEWIVES STILL HOLD BATTLE LINE

Power Bureau Gives Up Its Pole-Digging Attempts on Seventy-first Street

Absolute quiet reigned yesterday over "no linesman's land" on the East Seventy-first-street sector.

There wasn't a lineman or a pole digger from the Bureau of Power and Light in sight. Embattled women of the neighborhood were in complete possession of the field. The light of Monday's classic battle still glinted in their eyes, however, as they peered suspiciously from doors and windows at overalled-strangers in the street.

They weren't celebrating but they had occasion to. For their victory Monday sadly was confirmed yesterday by officials of the Power Bureau.

"They not only won, they routed us altogether," was the statement. "There'll be six feet of ice at Sixth and Broadway before some of our men venture on Seventy-first street again. We ceased operations because we are not putting up any poles or lines on any street where the people object to them. Nothing will be done unless we can come to some agreement with the women."

INVENTORY SHOWS HUGE GEM THEFT

An inventory completed last evening by H Preston Smith, president of the George C. Davidson Jewelry Company, revealed a loss of $25,000 in gems taken by thieves who smashed the street window of the store at 645 South Hill street Monday night.

Paint fingerprints on the broken glass are being checked by the police with records in the identification bureau, and a watch on local pawn shops is being maintained. Police of near-by cities have been furnished with a list of the stolen jewelry.

Virginia Lee Corbin, motion-picture actress, reported yesterday that during the night passkey burglars had entered her home at 262 North Plymouth Boulevard and obtained jewelry valued at $4175. Less than a month ago the actress's home was robbed and $3000 worth of jewelry and clothing taken.

MICHIGAN COLONY WELCOMES PASTOR

Former residents of Port Huron, Mich., to the number of thirty or forty, gathered at Hotel Ingraham Monday evening to greet Rev. and Mrs. John Munday on their arrival from their eastern home. Mr. Munday has just retired as pastor of Grace Episcopal Church at Port Huron after serving in that capacity thirty-three years. With his wife he has come to Los Angeles to make his home. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Maud Brown, proprietor of Hotel Ingraham, who was a resident of Port Huron for many years. Mr. Munday served for a year as assistant to the late Dean MacCormack a few years ago while on temporary leave of absence from his pastorate. He was in his younger days a worker under Bishop Johnson of this diocese while the latter was stationed at Detroit.

GRAUMAN PORTRAIT TO FEATURE EXHIBIT

With a long list of celebrities and patrons of the art world to be welcomed as honor guests, the International Artists, under supervision of Paul Francisco Lupo, honorary president, and Miss Irene D'Arville, have arranged a musical program to mark the opening of the exhibition. Daraio will exhibit more than two-score canvases.

Diet and Health

THE IMMORTALITY OF THE BODY

Not long ago there was a play given in New York, which was based upon the theme of immortality of the body with the characteristics of youth. The star, who had used the formula which produces these results, for 500 or 600 years, was bored and heartily sick of life. She was made happy by the destruction of the formula for immortality for it meant the end of her bondage to the flesh for all time.

Immortality of the body, at least to our knowledge, is an impossibility. But immortality of the cell—a single unit of any bodily structure—apparently is not altogether improbable, and the methods of maintaining this prolonged life give us a great deal of food for thought.

Dr. Raymond Pearl, director of the Institute of Biological Research at the Johns Hopkins University, is quoted as follows:

"Nothing like death is inevitable in the cell itself . . . The cell, when placed separately under such conditions as to supply appropriate food in the right amount and the removal promptly of the deleterious products of metabolism, or chemical changes, can probably live forever.

"This assertion is based on the successful cultivation of tissues from man's body, and the bodies of other animals, achieved during the last few years . . . The experimental culture of cells and tissues has now covered virtually all the essential elements of the metazoan body, including even some of the most highly differentiated of those tissues, nerve cells, muscle cells, heart muscle cells, spleen cells, connective tissue cells, epithelial cells from various locations in the body, kidney cells and others have all been successfully cultivated in vitro, or in special nutrient mediums.

"Particularly striking is the culture work of Carrel and Ebeling. These great scientists, by transferring the culture at frequent intervals into fresh nutrient medium, have kept alive for more than fourteen years, and in perfectly normal and healthy condition, a culture of tissue from the heart of a chick embryo. There is every reason to suppose that by a continuation of the same technic, the culture can be kept alive indefinitely. Although we die, our cells have the capacity to live forever. Not even senescence, or old age, is a necessary concomitant of cellular life."

Note that the cell must have appropriate food in the right amount and must have proper elimination of its wastes! I think you get the thought I want you to. If you are following the column you know something of what we know about concerning healthful nutrition and the methods for proper elimination. (We have an article on Balanced Diet and one on Constipation which will help you along these lines. You may have these by sending a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request. Allow two weeks for their receipt.)

A LITTLE LESSON

Here's a nice little testimony with its own little lesson:

"I have lost seventy pounds in seven months, having reduced from 204 to 134. I feel perfectly wonderful and have cured constipation and indigestion, which I had for all my life.

There's no knowing what you might have had if you had continued to be so excessively overweight, Mrs. G. I wish you would write us again and tell us how much exercise you took and any other special points in your reduction that you found helped you.

The instructions Mrs. G. followed are contained in a booklet which may be had by sending 10 cents in stamps and self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Tomorrow — Maintenance Calories and Exercise.)

My dear followers: When sending for material which we offer you, please remember to inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must inclose 10 cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 300 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible if they are of general interest. Don't forget the stamped, self-addressed envelope if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

THE BEST NICKEL'S WORTH

I remember reading somewhere that the best nickel's worth extant was a box of matches. It is a pretty good nickel's worth and a good case was made out for it.

But when I was grouching at the grocer over the price of eggs recently, which had soared from 36 cents a dozen to 60 cents, he glared at me. He was up on calories and vitamines, was that fellow, and he snorted that an egg was the best nickel's worth obtainable anywhere. He assured me it contained more nutriment than 30 cents' worth of steak and goodness knows what besides. I left, meekly feeling that his eggs were worth a couple of dollars a dozen—if his comparative figures were correct.

After that, I tossed the subject into the middle of a bunch of newspaper girls.

One told of some nickel motion-picture houses in the poorer districts of the city, where people could revel in exciting adventures and participate in interesting society and enjoy all sorts of romances, visit all sorts of places, vicariously, through the medium of the screen—but we soon found that nickel picture houses are mighty rare and that a dime is usually the lowest figure.

Another told of a marvelous cup of coffee she once purchased at a wayside hot-dog stand on a cold, wet day—served with cream and sugar, all piping hot, brimming with solace and inspiration, which she considered the best nickel's worth she had ever bought. Its nearest rival, she thought, was a hot-dog sandwich or a cornucopia of ice cream.

One cheated, for she claimed a nickel she tossed to a beggar was her best nickel's worth, because he had later died and left her his savings of $140. We made her tell how that chap came to know who she was . . . by which we learned that she had written a story about him. Bah, she bought that inheritance with publicity, not a nickel!

Emily sighed and . . . said she had once provided a magnificent nickel's worth herself, when she wrote a masterpiece for a magazine that went into bankruptcy the week after and paid a nickel on the $100.

Which naturally brought us back to our own profession. Think what an amazing nickel's worth we were helping to provide—when our stuff appeared in newspapers that sold for a nickel. Mental fare of every description, news, editorial profundities, special articles, vast information on a thousand subjects, humor, fiction, pictures puzzles, fashions, cookery recipe, etiquette, religious exhortations, advice, sympathy, reformative ideas, advertising . . .

We finally came to the conclusion that a good nickel newspaper has it all over a mere box of matches, an egg, cups of coffee, hot-dog sandwiches, ice-cream cornucopias, or any other generous nickel's worth on the face of the earth. Our imaginations took us into the wider ramifications and ensuing profits that come out of a nickel's worth of good newspaper to every member of a community. We decided to our own complete satisfaction that we were in the most generous profession in the world.

Rubio's Santa Had Earmarks of Bunko Man

Jesus Rubio, 470 Camulos street, no longer believes in Santa Claus, he reported to the Sheriff's office yesterday.

During the holidays, Rubio said, he was approached by a stranger who said he had been commissioned by a wealthy contractor to find some reliable person to distribute money among the poor.

Rubio said he gave the stranger $86 as evidence of good faith. The stranger wrapped it in a newspaper ostensibly, with a large sum of money, and handed the bundle to Rubio.

PASTOR'S CASE AT STANDSTILL

Jury Fails to Take Action on McPherson Charges

Inquisitors Meet for Hour With Keyes Absent

Ormiston Expected to be Arraigned Tomorrow

Contemplated action before the grand jury in connection with the Aimee Semple McPherson conspiracy charges failed to materialize and the case of the evangelist remained at a standstill yesterday. The inquisitorial body met for about an hour yesterday morning and disbanded without having heard any new witnesses. Even Asst.-Atty. Keyes failed to appear.

Mr. Keyes reiterated yesterday that no hastly action is to be taken by him on reaching a decision to proceed with a trial of the case in Superior Court or to ask a dismissal. He did announce definitely, however, that no further action before the grand jury was in view.

What will be done tomorrow at 10 a.m., when Kenneth G. Ormiston, radio man, appears before Judge Stephens for arraignment on an indictment accusing him of conspiracy in connection with the disappearance of Mrs. McPherson was doubtful. The radio man has retained an attorney, Lester Roth, who conferred yesterday with Chief Deputy District Attorney Davis.

It was learned that Mr. Davis told Mr. Roth a definite decision as to the future of the Ormiston case was not in store for the time being.

With the failure of Mr. Keyes to take any further action before the grand jury, it was learned yesterday that he took Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman before that body last Thursday merely to have her testify under oath concerning her new statements charging that Roland H. Rich Woolley was a party to the plot to manufacture false evidence in behalf of Mrs. McPherson to vindicate her of the Carmel charges. These statements of Mrs. Wiseman have been emphatically denied by Mr. Woolley, who was formerly the personal attorney of Mrs. McPherson, and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy.

Hundreds Offer Final Tribute to Peter S. Rishel

Several hundred friends assembled at the Rishel family home, 716 West Twenty-eighth street, yesterday afternoon to pay final respects to Peter S. Rishel, a member of the first Hollywood Town Board of Trustees and formerly a trustee of the Hollywood Union High School, who passed away Sunday morning at 80 years of age. Interment was at the Hollywood Mausoleum.

For twenty years up to six months ago, when illness overtook him, the deceased had been associated with the Security Trust and Savings Bank. He had resided in Los Angeles and Hollywood for more than thirty years, coming to Southern California in 1895 from Le Mars, Iowa.

Mr. Rishel leaves a daughter, Mrs. Joseph F. Sartori, of Los Angeles, and one brother, Dr. J. K. Rishel, of Williamsport, Pa.

Bankers further charged that provisions for repayment of the loans by the United States Veterans' Bureau at Washington in case the borrower defaults, "were rather indefinite." The bureau, they explained, will not make the loans good until they become at least six months overdue, and then the bureau will not redeem them unless the loans "are in perfect order."

FEAR FROZEN LOANS

In cases where there might be a dispute over whether all the formalities connected with advancing the loan had been complied with, they pointed out, the bank's money might be tied up for the balance of the twenty-year period, or maturity date of the policy.

Some bankers further charged that the clause in which it was provided that the government redeem the collateral when it became six months' overdue seemed "a somewhat vague guarantee." Other minor phases of the transaction came in for criticism by bankers, it was said, but members of the committee yesterday asserted that financial institutions here are desirous of co-operating in every way possible with government officials in making the loans possible.

Funds are expected to be advanced on the certificates for three months at an interest rate that is expected to be 6 per cent. It will be possible for the borrower to obtain about 8 cents on the dollar, it was said.

SIX ARSON SUSPECTS FREED

Disappearance of State's Witness, Harry Ex, Causes District Attorney to Drop Case

Six men accused of being members of a $2,000,000 arson ring are at liberty today because the State's star witness, Harry Ex, could not be found to testify against them when their case was called in Judge Burnell's court yesterday. Dist.-Atty. Keyes appeared in court personally and asked for the dismissal, which was granted.

"The prosecution's case was dangerously weak, even with Ex's testimony," Keyes said, "and without him it would be useless to attempt to prosecute these men."

"This mysterious Mr. Ex is almost as hard to find as Miss X, isn't he, Mr. Keyes?" Judge Burnell asked.

"Much harder," the prosecutor replied.

"Well," the judge observed, "they've both made their exit, so I can dismiss this case."

The defendants in the arson case were Fred Kaplan, Max Rachoff, Harry Leviton, Benjamin Sugarman, Joseph Greenburg and Ben Rossow.

Harry Meyers, a codefendant in the case, was freed two weeks ago when the charges against him were dismissed.

According to Dist.-Atty. Keyes, if Ex should be found before the statute of limitation automatically quashes the case, the prosecution will be resumed.

The seven men were accused of having destroyed numerous buildings by a device which started the fire when a call was made on an automatic telephone. The telephone call, it was alleged, exploded a quantity of thermite which burned at such a high temperature that it melted the telephone and left no evidence in the ashes of the conflagration.

HOMES FOR 20,017 PUT UP IN YEAR

Los Angeles building for the year 1926, for which permits were authorized having a valuation of $122,008,313, was featured by the construction of 11,194 residences providing accommodations for 12,556 families, according to a classified report of the year's building issued yesterday by J. J. Backus, city building superintendent.

These homes had a total value of $47,007,939, according to the report, a total that does not include the construction of 495 apartment-houses valued at $19,126,251. The apartment-houses, the report says, provide accommodations for 7456 families.

Factories constructed during the year were valued at $626,650 by the building superintendent and buildings erected for motion-picture studios cost $838,350. Five hospitals, valued at $302,500, and twenty-three hotels having a value of $3,324,900 were included in the year's building.

Seventy-seven school buildings constructed during the year totaled $6,799,826, according to the report. Permits also were issued for seventeen theater structures, costing together $3,459,000.

Checks Issued Without Funds Laid to Indian

Checks charged to George F. Thompson, who announced himself in Los Angeles as an Osage Indian with untold wealth derived from oil lands, it is said, resulted in the issuance of a criminal complaint by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Fisher accusing the Indian of issuing checks without sufficient funds.

When arrested Thompson was living in an exclusive apartment at 749 South Coronado street, according to J.H. Wearne, the officer who placed the Indian under arrest.

The officer's report of his investigation showed that instead of being a member of the wealthy Osage tribe, Thompson is a Chickasaw Indian, in reduced finances.

Charging another woman with alienating the affections of her husband, Mrs. Mary L. Jackson yesterday filed suit for $50,000 damages against Della Martin. James R. Jackson, to whom the plaintiff said she was married eleven years ago, was the husband in the case. According to the complaint, the defendant first appeared on the Jackson's matrimonial horizon in July, 1926, and finally induced Jackson to leave his wife and two children.

The Swedish legislator is on a tour of the United States and had just visited Hawaii, accompanied by his daughter, Miss Anna Van Moller. They are stopping at the Clark Hotel.

The body of the man was found by his wife and four children. Despondency over financial difficulties was given as the cause of suicide.

MEXICO HELPS COAST TRADE

Two More Vessels Will be Added to Service

Aim to Build Up Commerce, Not Make Money

As a result of the efforts of B. A. Almada, Mexican commercial attache in California, the Mexican government is preparing to back the Mexican Navigation Line, which the Mexican government owns, to a greater extent than ever before. Mr. Almada has just returned from a month in Mexico City working on this problem, and is now spending a little time in Los Angeles, where his family resides, and has conferred with the trade extension department of the Chamber of Commerce.

In the last few weeks service, especially to the smaller ports of the west Coast of Mexico, has been somewhat demoralised. The Mexican Navigation Line now owns four steamships operating on this Coast: the "Bolivia," the "Washington," the "Mootsuuma" and the "Jalisco." These ships have a combined capacity of approximately 10,000 cargo tons.

Mr. Almada pointed out to government officials that in order to build up commerce with the West Coast of Mexico a dependable service must be given to all of the twenty-two ports along the Coast even though some of the operations must be at a loss, and the government is now preparing to put the ships into all of these ports, with Los Angeles as one of the principal ports of call.

The government also has authorized the purchase of two more ships to supplement the four now in service, and rates will be made attractive to shippers in order to build up the commerce of the West Coast. The government line will be used to promote commerce rather than to make money, and therefore the smaller ports of Mexico will be served, which the privately owned lines can not afford to go into.

Rites Friday for Retired Veterinarian

Funeral services for Dr. William McEachran, retired veterinary surgeon, who died December 30, last, of heart disease, will be conducted Friday at 2 p.m. from the Bramble Funeral Church, 1816 Tobermann street. Dr. McEachran, who was 73 years of age at the time of his death, had been a resident of Los Angeles for the last twenty years.

Born in Scotland, Dr. McEachran emigrated to Canada at the age of 15 and received his early education in the elementary schools of Montreal. He later attended McGill University and graduated in 1881 with the degree of M.D., B.M. and V.S. Soon after he had finished his education, the doctor was sent to Nova Scotia with Sir William Osler, the eminent British physician, to investigate a disease which had broken out among the cattle of that region.

Dr. McEachran retired and came to Los Angeles in 1906. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Christina McEachran, of this city, and a grandson, Donald McEachran, who is stationed at North Island, San Diego, with the aviation corps.

GAS HALTS SEPARATION

Attempt at Suicide Brings About Reconciliation of Couple

A suicide attempt by F. E. Cobwebb, 1928 North Argyle street, last night ended in a reconciliation with his wife, Hollywood police reported.

Cobwebb and his wife had quarreled, it was reported, over his asserted association with another woman and Mrs. Cobwebb had departed with their baby for the home of a woman friend at 1190 Lodi Place. Cobwebb followed and urged his wife to return home with him.

This plea was refused. The woman retired, and Cobwebb locked himself in the kitchen and turned the lights off and the gas on. Later the woman heard groans, and, breaking into the kitchen, found Cobwebb on the floor.

They worked over him for some time and then, it was reported, Mrs. Cobwebb agreed to return home.

Detective Lieutenants Kling and Mahoney investigated.

MILLIONS IN HOTEL DEAL

Grand-avenue Site Taken Over on Ninety-Nine Year Lease for Height Limit Building

A ninety-nine-year ground lease on property at 586 South Grand avenue, plans for a height-limit hotel on the site, and a twenty-five-year lease on the completed hostelry were announced yesterday. The sum involved totals $6,700,000.

The property just south of the new public library has been leased by William H. Anderson from E. W. Goodman and the ninety-nine-year consideration approximates $2,350,000. The deal was negotiated through A. Wheeler of Cason-Hardebeck & Co., hotel brokers.

The site, 60x165, is now improved with the 100-room Key West Hotel, but Mr. Anderson intends to raze this building, starting about the 20th inst., and erect a modern 350-room hostelry, to be known as the Mayflower Hotel. It will cost more than $700,000.

With this in mind, Anderson has purchased the lease held by W. J. Colopy and Bert De Vault on the Key West Hotel. It had six years to run and he took it over for $50,000, it is said.

Charles F. De Long, owner of the Bull Pen Inn at 633 South Hope street, has agreed to lease the Mayflower Hotel for twenty-five years for $3,000,000 according to the report.

Part of the new building is to be taken over by the Bull Pen Inn, but De Long will operate both the hotel and the cafe.

Achitectural work is, to be done by C. F. Whittlesey. Kinne & Westerhouse are the contractors. It is expected that the building will be completed by December 1.

SEARCH FOR LOST WIFE NOW AT END

Venice Police Say They Have Letters Written by Mrs. Avalone Carnevale

VENICE, Jan. 4.—Venice police stated today they have received letters from Mrs. Avalone Carnevale of 444 Carroll Canal, reported missing since December 8 last, stating she is safe and sound. Further information was refused by the police. It was reported that Captain of Detectives Cline had ordered that the contents of the letters be withheld for the time being.

E. V. Carnevale, a jeweler with a shop in Seventh street, reported his wife's disappearance to Detective Lieutenant Allen of the Missing persons bureau on December 7, last, after, he said, she had telephoned she could not come to drive him home after he left his shop. When last seen, he asserted, she was driving an Essex coach and wearing an expensive fur and $1800 worth of jewelry.

Don't Be Skinny

Gain Pounds of Weight in 3 Weeks with Yeast and Iron—

It seems incredible how fast IRONIZED YEAST adds pounds of good firm flesh—on women and men, children and old people. Doctors know the value of vegetable iron and yeast in building up and improving the body. IRONIZED YEAST, in a highly concentrated form, contains all the blood building properties of vegetable iron with yeast. It is nine times more effective than a cake of ordinary baker's yeast or iron alone.

Sickening Oil Unnecessary

A single tablet of IRONIZED YEAST gives you all the weight-building benefits contained in 10 tablespoonfuls of cod liver oil, without the sickening, fishy taste and "repeating" that follows.

New Complexion for You

People ask—what is the magic in IRONIZED YEAST that transforms sallow, lifeless, faded complexions into the fresh, smooth, lovely skin of early girlhood? Wrinkles disappear. Eyes renew the sparkle of youth. Hollows fill out. No wonder thousands of women pour in letters to us in praise of the marvelous, youthifying effects of IRONIZED YEAST!

Yet the answer is simple. Vegetable iron and yeast have been used for years to vitalize the body; to make rich, healthy blood; to improve digestion and bowel action and add weight. In IRONIZED YEAST these two valuable elements are combined in a special formula that is nine times stronger than yeast and iron used separately. That's why IRONIZED YEAST works so quickly. No nasty, nasty taste.—Safe to take—contains no harmful drugs.

Indictments in Pending Cases Expected Today

A number of indictments, it is expected, will be returned by the Federal grand jury today—the last day on which the 1926 panel functions. All cases brought before the outgoing body, some of them pending over considerable time, will be cleaned up that the 1927 panel will start with a clean slate.

Although no sensational indictments are anticipated by Federal officials, it is expected that the jurymen may take final action on information and evidence placed before them by U. S. Atty. McNab and his assistants on various liquor law violators, including additional men asserted to have been involved in the coast-wide rum running combine that was recently exposed by the intelligence section of the Treasury Department, resulting in a score of indictments up to date.

Trial Date Set for Le Clerc in Murder Charge

Romeo Le Clerc, 26 years of age, must stand trial on February 7 for the asserted murder of Henry E. Schwartz. The date of the trial was fixed yesterday by Judge Craig when Le Clerc appeared in court and pleaded not guilty to the charge that he had killed the contractor.

Deputy sheriffs who investigated Schwartz's death accuse Le Clerc of beating the man to death following an automobile accident in which Schwartz was seriously injured. The victim's body was found in a secluded spot in an eucalyptus grove south of Los Angeles the following morning horribly mutilated.

The officers say Le Clerc was at liberty on probation at the time of the accident and feared that he would be returned to jail if the mishap was reported to authorities.

NEW SCHOOL OF INDUSTRY TO CONVENE

Individual Instruction to Suit Pupil's Need Will be Given at Riis High

When the Jacob A. Riis Junior High School opens for the reception of students the 31st inst., a new type of opportunity school will offer individual instruction. It will be the first school of its kind in America. Classes will be planned to fit the needs of the pupil rather than the pupil to the class.

This unusual school, with opportunities in trade and industry, has been built in the manufacturing section at Sixty-ninth and Main streets. Homer Watson has been appointed principal.

Lankershim will open a new high school on the 31st inst., with an enrollment of 600 pupils. The building has been erected at a cost of $350,000, equipment $70,000. C. W. Sandifur is the principal.

Other new schools to be opened on the last day of the month are Carbrillo avenue, San Pedro, Jessie B. Wickersham, principal; Fairburn avenue, Westwood, Mrs. Gertrude Enfield, principal; Fifty-fourth street, Norfolk street, Charles W. Baker, principal; Seventh street, San Pedro, and Seventy-fourth street school.

You don't need a Big Bank Account to Own a Profitable Producing Avocado Grove $717.50 An Acre—Approximate Investment for the First Three Years Will Give You a Grove Which Should Provide Income for Life!

YOU do not have to be "wealthy" to become a successful Avocado grower, although you probably will become so after entering this most lucrative agricultural enterprise.

All you require during THE FIRST THREE YEARS is approximately $700 an acre—one acre or ten. This sum makes the first, second and third annual payments on the land. It pays for leveling and ploughing the ground. It pays for the trees, and the planting; also for the irrigation pipe and water charges. It includes interest on the deferred payments.

Itemized it would approximate as follows:

One acre good Avocado land at $500 an acre. Pay only ONE-FIFTH cash	$100.00
Plough, level, pipe and plant one acre Avocados at $275 an acre	275.00
Cultivation, water charges, etc., First Year	60.00
Cash Investment, End of First Year	$435.00
Cultivation, water charges, etc., second year	$ 65.00
Payment on land, one-tenth purchase price	50.00
Interest on deferred payments	28.00
Cash Investment, end of Second Year	$578.00
Cultivation, water charges, etc., third year	$ 65.00
Payment on land, one-tenth purchase price	50.00
Interest on deferred payments	24.50
Cash Investment, end of Third Year	$717.50

And now, at the end of the three-year period you have a three-year-old Avocado grove which should be producing on a commercial basis and which should return during the fourth, fifth and sixth year an income of $500 or more, or more than enough to meet annual payment on land, upkeep expense, etc., and pay a handsome profit as well.

[NOTE—The amount required for third year is only $139.00, which diminishes annually, while each year, as the trees become larger, PRODUCTION INCREASES bringing an ever-increasing annual income!]

At the end of the third year your Avocado grove should be valued at from $2500 to $3500 per acre. Today it is hard to find a three-year-old Avocado grove which can be purchased for less than $3000 an acre!

PROVED AVOCADO LAND IN FROST-PROTECTED DISTRICTS WILL COMMAND HIGHEST PRICES

There are many good sound reasons for this, but due, primarily, to the excellence of the Avocado as a food and to the increasing demand for this California butter-fruit by an appreciative public. The greater this demand, which, according to food and fruit experts, will continue rapidly from year to year, the greater will be the demand for Avocado lands. But the supply is SHORT. Avocados will flourish only under the most favorable climatic conditions. They cannot withstand frost, extreme heat or heavy winds.

Therefore, acreage suitable for growing Avocados is limited by nature. Just so many acres may ultimately be utilized for this purpose, and no more. With a big demand for the fruit and a limited production area the inevitable will follow just as naturally as night follows day — prices for the fruit will undoubtedly continue to be firm and land prices will double, treble and even probably quadruple in valuation. Land priced today at $500 an acre should be actually worth from $1000 to $1500, from a production point of view, within a few years from now.

Men with vision and foresight are TODAY investing heavily in proven Avocado land and Avocado groves because of the Big Profits that have been and will be made in this agricultural enterprise.

Remember, YOU do not have to be rich; you do not have to be even "well-to-do," to become a successful Avocado grower and insure your future income from year to year. If you have a good income or a few thousand dollars in savings this is your opportunity. There is no better investment on earth than Earth itself, and we know of no better use to put earth to than to the production of a fruit which NOW is returning the grower from 40c to 65c a pound!

Telephone, call at the office, or fill in and mail the coupon for detailed information regarding one of California's most promising and profitable enterprises. This may be your passport to the realization of your ambition and aspirations.

Hennessey and Hibbs, Ten-for-One Railway Merger Brokers, Win Rehearing

SUPREME COURT GRANTS REVIEW

Plea of Illegal Evidence at Trial Made

Pair Convicted of Obtaining $87,000 in Fraud

Sentences on Thirty Counts Total 300 Years

A rehearing of the case against Thomas M. Hennessey and Harry D. Hibbs, so-called "ten-for-one" brokers, convicted of fraudulently obtaining approximately $87,000 from Southern California investors in a mythical $600,000,000 railroad merger, has been granted by the State Supreme Court, Paul Schenck, the convicted men's attorney, announced last night. Hibbs and Hennessey were sentenced on thirty counts, totaling thirty to 300 years each.

Attorney Schenck won the right to present his imprisoned clients' case before the Supreme Court on a plea that evidence had been illegally admitted at their Los Angeles trial last year. This decision of the Superior Court had previously been affirmed by the District Court of Appeal.

Their scheme, as divulged in testimony at the trial, was to interest persons of wealth in a proposed merger of a number of Western railroads for which they declared they needed $200,000,000 and agreed to pay back $10 for each $1 invested as soon as the merger had been completed.

Their scheme was revealed and fell through when investigation among some of the railroads named failed to substantiate the claims of the "ten-for-one" brokers.

They were indicted on forty-six counts of obtaining money under false pretenses, sixteen of which, however, were dismissed at the trial.

George Igruby, 35 years of age, a janitor living at 1825 Argyle street, Hollywood, was arrested last night by Detective Lieutenants Curron and Dickey on complaint of Mr. and Mrs. Don W. NOBODY'LL BOTHER THIS CHILD

Film Comedian Feels Safe About Her

Mildred Gloria Lloyd and Great Dane

WHEN Harold Lloyd, film comedian, leaves home temporarily these days he never worries about the safety of Gloria Lloyd, his baby daughter.

There are sixteen reasons for this. Each of them is a massive Great Dane, the particular pride of the Lloyd menage and the self-appointed guardians and playmates of the child. The great mastiffs keep constant watch over Gloria and the entire family.

Since the completion of his last picture Lloyd has been flooded with offers to make personal appearances, but has refused them all. He has stout concluded, he said, that he can spend a more enjoyable vacation with his wife, daughter and dogs than he can by travel. He indicated that he may make a short visit to New York, but that for the present he has abandoned the idea of a European tour.

Incidentally, the comedian pointed out, that if he does go to New York his prize dogs will take good care of his wife and daughter. Just how Lloyd is occupied on the plans for his new home in Beverly Hills. Construction is expected to start early in March.

Two Arrested as Suspects in Kearns Hold-up

Carmel Fici, 22 years of age, and George F. Grant, 24, were arrested on suspicion of robbery by Sawtelle police yesterday. According to the police, it is believed they may be the two men who held up Jack Kearns, prize-fight manager, and exchanged automobiles with him early New Year's Day.

Kearns said one of the men wore a patch over his eye and told him it was the result of being shot. Police believe this man to have been implicated in a recent attempted robbery at Downey, in which a shotgun was fired at two robbers.

The shot-riddled car left with Kearns when the bandits took his machine has been identified, according to police, as a machine stolen from a Florida visitor on December 13, last.

NEW TYPE FIGHT PLANE ON FLEET

"Mystery Squadron" Formed for Dreadnaughts

Picked Men Train Secretly for Year as Pilots

Tiny "Ships" Made to Battle in High Altitudes

Plans were completed yesterday aboard the U.S.S. California, fleet flagship, for assignment to the twelve dreadnaughts of the battle fleet, of a squadron of fighting planes of new design. The planes will be manned by enlisted men and are expected to out-perform at high altitudes any fighting plane in existence. The men who are to pilot the "mystery squadron" have been training in San Diego for the past year, it was learned yesterday.

The planes of the new squadron, to be known officially as VF-2, will arrive at Los Angeles Harbor before the fleet sails for the Atlantic on February 19, so that they may be given stiff trials under actual service conditions at sea. The new fighters, of a type to be known as TU's, are a development of the UO-type observation plane now in general use throughout the Navy.

They are single-seaters, however, armed with a single fixed machine-gun and are powered with the new Wright J-5 radial air-cooled engine. The engines will be equipped with superchargers which will enable the tiny fighters to operate at full efficiency at altitudes in excess of 22,000 feet. The planes will be catapulted from the compressed-air catapults on the afterdecks of the dreadnaughts, leaving the new powder catapults atop the turrets to be used for the Loening three-seater observation planes.

The new squadron is regarded as a great forward step in fleet aviation, as it gives the dreadnaughts' observation squadrons protection, from enemy combat planes while spotting fall of shot and directing fire in action.

Lieutenant-Commander James M. Shoemaker and Lieut. George F. Chapline, two of the Navy's best flyers, will be commander and executive officer, respectively, of the "mystery squadron."

It was also announced yesterday that the U.S.S. Langley, fleet aircraft carrier, will go to Seattle on the 10th inst., to bring back eighteen new Boeing fighting planes, which will be flown from the Langley during the coming cruise and which will be transferred to the U.S.S. Saratoga as fighting plane squadron six when the giant 43,000-ton carrier joins the fleet here next summer.

Fund Proposed to Fight Entry of Citrus Pest

Pointing out the menace to Southern California citrus interests if the citrus white fly becomes introduced into this section, the agricultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce, through Carlyle Thorpe, chairman, proposed that the State appropriate funds to combat the pest.

It was found by the committee that the white fly has three foci of infestation in the State of California, the cities of Sacramento, Marysville and Yuba City. The white fly is the major pest in Florida both in citrus injury and expense of control. It would become the same in Southern California if introduced. Its depredations would be comparable with that of the present black scale, which is costing Southern California over $5,000,000 annually to control, not taking into consideration the injury of the plant plus the decrease in production which unquestionably would bring it to above $15,000,000 each year.

Thrifty Pupils of Los Angeles Set High Mark

With a total of $850,000 in school savings and nearly every dollar of that sum earned by the school children, Avery Gray, head of the school savings department, is looking forward to the biggest year since the movement was started here.

"Sentous junior high school is a shining example, not only to other schools in Los Angeles, but to the country. The entire school is 94 per cent thrifty and of the twenty-seven rooms, twenty are 100 per cent in the savings plan. These youngsters are learning the value of money and are being taught its wise distribution," Gray declared yesterday.

Sally Lane

"THAR she blows" is no strange cry to Sally Lane, 14-year-old quartermaster of the whaling "killer" Hawk, who probably knows more about the whaling game than many so-called hard-nosed deep-water men. Sally came into port aboard the Hawk yesterday after three weeks of hunting off San Clemente Island, that netted forty whales.

These three weeks are Sally's idea of the perfect Christmas vacation. She left last night for high school in San Francisco. It's no once-in-a-while sport with her, however, for she has spent every summer since she was 8 years old either in the Arctic with her father, Capt. Louis Lane, or whaling in the North Pacific.

Whenever a whale is sighted Sally assumes complete command of the Hawk, her father taking his position on the bow as gunner. Sally, at this highly exciting moment calmly maneuvers the ship and handles the engine-room telegraph to get the Hawk in position for the fatal shot at the whale. After the huge quarry is harpooned and begins his fight for freedom, young Miss Lane is just as adept, the entire crew declares, in wearing down the whale until his struggles cease.

Sally's father is also the "thanwhomest" of all living Arctic skippers. This is the first season in thirty-six years he has not spent in the Arctic Ocean or Bering Sea, and it was north of the Arctic Circle that Sally was born. Capt. Lane, by the way, claims to have sailed a ship farther north than any man in history. It was in the schooner Polar Bear, in 1912, she fighting her way through the ice to north latitude 73 deg. 30 min.

CLUB ORGANIZER'S DEMISE REPORTED

Word was received here yesterday of the sudden death in Chicago of W. Y. Jackman, who was organizer of Club Casa Del Mar and of the Southern California Athletic and Country Club. Jackman, after two years here, left last spring for Chicago to organize a club there. He originally came from Cleveland. He leaves a stepson, Claud Arend, of Los Angeles.

CAFE NOTES

The air of quiet refinement that one finds upon entering the Mary Louise Tea Room, 2200 West Seventh street, possibly is the principal reason for the continued high regard in which that establishment is held by the public. Nothing counts so much with dinner guests as the surroundings and general atmosphere of a well-ordered tea room.

Every Thursday, during lunch and dinner, the Mary Louise offers a brilliant fashion promenade which has met with such popular approval that it has become almost an institution. An appropriate musical program accompanies this display, which is staged by the New York Store.

Downtown luncheon and afternoon teas are served at the Mary Louise establishments in Barker Brothers Building, Seventh and Flower streets and on the mezzanine floor of the New York Store, Seventh street and Grand avenue.

ABORIGINAL ART ATTRACTS

Hues of ancient Mexico's art and the brilliant colors bestowed by the Navajo Indians of Arizona on the blankets which they weave are incorporated in the art scheme of the Cliff Dwellers' Cafe, which recently opened at 3391 Beverly Boulevard. Although the restaurant has been opened several weeks, the art work just has been completed, according to Cortland Fox, manager. Hundreds of diners, attracted to the cafe by its excellent squab and chicken dinners, find themselves intrigued by the art work, due to the skill with which the Aztec and Navajo schemes are interwoven.

MUSIC WITH MEALS

Music has been appreciated for ages as a means of expressing motion or of obtaining pleasure, but, according to John Boos of the Boos Brothers' cafeterias, it has several uses not usually appreciated.

Mr. Boos says: "Although it is not commonly known, if pleasing music is heard during a meal it is beneficial to the diner in several ways. It causes him to masticate his food more thoroughly and if he enjoys the music it tones up the entire system, with the result that he feels just right for another meal at the next dinner time.

FILM STAR AT MONTMARTRE

The Hollywood Montmartre Cafe will celebrate motion-picture night this evening, with Priscilla Dean, film star, as guest of honor. Proff Moore, leader of the Montmartre orchestra, will officiate as master of ceremonies.

One of the features of the evening's festivities will be the starting of a new series of dancing contests. Miss Dean will act as judge of the dancing contest and also will award the prize to the winning couple.

A new art exhibit of Bertha Lum's paintings is attracting favorable comment from the numerous artists who patronize the cafe.

Though she is past 79 years of age, Mrs. Mary Curtis Richardson, noted San Francisco woman artist, still continues work in her studio.

ESPEE FREIGHT BREAKS RECORD

Lines Carried More in 1926 Than Ever Before

Gain of 3.5 Per Cent Made Over Volume of 1925

Increased Mileage Keeps Up Supply of Trains

The greatest volume of freight ever offered for shipment in one year was loaded on the Southern Pacific's Pacific lines during 1926, handled without car shortage, and a number of new records of operating efficiency were established in handling the heavy traffic, according to T. H. Williams, assistant general manager for the company here.

Figures compiled for the first eleven months of 1926 show a total of 1,277,736 freight cars loaded, representing a gain of 3.5 per cent over loadings in a like period of 1925. In spite of the fact that gross tons a freight train, exclusive of locomotive and tender, advanced from 1790 tons in 1925 to 1846 tons in 1926, average freight train speed advanced from 11.9 miles an hour to 12 miles an hour, this time allowing for all stops and other delays attendant upon operating trains.

For every hour of operation each freight train performed work equivalent to moving 8339 tons of freight one mile as compared with 8131 tons for the preceding year, or a gain of 208 net ton miles a train hour.

One factor in assuring an adequate supply of freight cars was this increased daily mileage traveled by the average car during the eleven months covered by these statistics. From 37.1 miles a day in 1925 the average mounted to 39 miles in 1926, an average covering not only time the cars were actually en route, but the time required for loading, unloading and passing through terminals. Locomotives gained nearly a mile a day in average miles operated. At no time during this period did the Southern Pacific have less than 93 per cent of total freight cars on line in serviceable condition.

ACCUSED AND ACCUSERS GATHER BEFORE LANDIS

Cobb, Collins, Bush, Rowland and Others Face Swede Risberg in Commissioner's Office

CHICAGO, Jan. 4. (AP)—The baseball scandals of 1917 come to a definite showdown when Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis opens the most extraordinary hearing in the history of the sport here tomorrow morning.

Judge Landis, acting as prosecutor and inquisitor, will sit in the case of seven of present-day major-league baseball stars involved in the charges made by Charles A. (Swede) Risberg that the Chicago White Sox bought a four-game series from Detroit in 1917, so the White Sox could edge out the Boston Red Sox in the race for the American League pennant.

Commissioner Landis invited thirty-eight of whom is dead, to appear before him at the opening session of the hearing, their accusations and denials to be presented tonight. Among those on Ray Schalk, manager of the White Sox; Eddie Collins, recently released baseman of the Chicago Nationals; Donie Bush, shortstop of the Pirates; Rogers Hornsby, new manager of the St. Louis Americans, and Rowland, manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, at the time the baseball scandals were played. Ty Cobb, involved with Tris Speaker, in a charge of baseball games in 1919.

SEVEN MAY BE OUSTED

Despite a definite feeling still prevalent that unless something is done to the situation condemning Cobb and Speaker, who retired as the result of the baseball-throwing charges, baseball officials are not expected to oust the seven baseball players named in the charges made by Risberg.

STANFORD WILL ASK RE-MATCH

Card Gridders Would Play Alabama Eleven in Game After Next Season

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 4.(AP) Plans for a game between Stanford and Alabama at the close of the 1927 regular football season are being discussed informally here among followers and some team members of the Cardinals. The 7-7 tie of the two elevens last Saturday was a bitter pill for the Stanford men and most of those players who will be back next season are anxious for another meeting with the Crimson Tide.

GLENN "POP" WARNER.

It is understood that Stanford authorities will be petitioned to try and arrange a post-season encounter with Alabama and to this end Coach Wallace Wade of the Southern Conference champions is quoted as saying in Los Angeles that he would like to schedule a home and home game with the Crimson Tide.

BRUINS DOWN STANFORD FIVE

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 4. (AP)—After a first period passing and individual work, many chances into the basket, varsity basketball team defeated the Stanford Varsity five, 23-16-17 beating at the Southern Branch tonight.

Both quintets started slowly, 0 to 6, at half time the score was close and hard fought, neither quintet showing that a four-point advantage at any time. The lead seesawed back and forth in the first half, with Stanford having a slight edge.

With the opening of the second half, however, the Bruins' offense began to function brilliantly and by some beautiful shots on the part of Williams and Armstrong the south-

Tilden Turns Down Trip to French Courts

NEW YORK, Jan. 4. (AP)—In order to accept an invitation to play on a team which the United States Lawn Tennis Association will send abroad for European competition in May and June, William T. Tilden today announced he had abandoned plans to sail the 29th inst. and compete in the French Riviera tournaments in February and March.

BILL TILDEN

The American team probably also will include Francis H. Hunter of New York and Warren F. Cohen, Jr., of Kansas City Mo., a protege of Tilden's. Tilden declared "business reasons make it impossible for me to go over in January and stay abroad until the team comes over in the spring. Since I could not return in time to complete my business after the Riviera season and sail with the U.S.L.T.A. team, it seems necessary to give up my Riviera trip for the year. Meanwhile I hope to play for the Florida tournaments as conditioning for the trip abroad."

COMPETING in the Los Angeles $10,000 open golf tournament, the qualifying rounds of which are held today, will be seen many of the greatest golfers in the world. Among this group of champions and near-champions is a man who could, if he wanted to, claim the following: that he is the holder of the world's lowest score for both thirty-six and seventy-two holes; that he is one of the longest drivers in the world; and that he is the world's fastest golfer. Among the numerous championships that this player has won is the British open tournament, and his lesser titles are too numerous to mention. He is a Scot, 43 years of age, and his name is George Duncan.

Last year, in the first Los Angeles $10,000 golf tournament, Harry Cooper, the winner, grabbed off a nice check for himself, the amount of which was $3300. Now, do you think that George Duncan of Methlick, Aberdeenshire, Scotland, is going to let Harry Cooper get away with first prize again if he can help it? George is out to grab that check, even if he has to duplicate the 263 that he shot in the championship of Lucerne in 1913, to win it.

Other classy players whom Duncan will have to beat if he wins the aforementioned fat (but not bouncing) check, are Joe Kirkwood, the famous Australian trick-shot wizard; Mike Brady, who once got three holes in one in a single round; Johnny Farrell and "Wild Bill" Mehlhorn, two great players who are always threatening to win the United

Trojans Take on Hollywood Five Tonight

The Hollywood Athletic Club and U.S.C. court teams meet tonight in the U.S.C. gym in a return game with prospects of a lively contest bright. The Orange H outfit won the first game on the Hollywood court, 28 to 19, but the Trojans, since that time, have not lost a game. The contest is scheduled for 8:15.

MANUEL LARANETA

Tonight's festivities mark the return of Morris (Red) Badgro to the field. The star Trojan forward spent Christmas vacation in the north, and tonight will play his first game with the U.S.C. five. He will be paired with Moore, Bone or Heinstand at the forward job, with Jack Bruner at center, and probably Capt. Manuel Laraneta and Jesse Hibbs at guards.

Curiously enough both the Trojans and Hollywood teams have lost but one game to date this season. The Trojans, as mentioned, dropped a game about two weeks ago to Hollywood, and

TEX RICKARD

The promoter was accompanied by Billy Gibson, manager, and Dudley Field Malone, legal adviser of the champion, together with a score of newspaper men, most of them apparently convinced that Rickard's conference Thursday with Tunney will furnish the final flourish to negotiations already completed.

Rickard, while silent on details of his plans before departing, is understood to be confident of signing Tunney to a blanket agreement calling for a title bout against any opponent the promoter may select, the match to take place at the Yankee Stadium around September 15.

Included also in Rickard's program is an attempted comeback by Jack Dempsey, the former champion being slated to meet either Jack Delaney, the 175-pound champion, or the winner of the current elimination tournament, Jack Sharkey, Jim Maloney, and Paolino, the Spaniard, are other figures regarded by the promoter as top-notch contenders. The best two of the contending lot are slated to fight it out for the right to meet Tunney.

BAY CITY BOXERS COMING

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 4. (AP)—Ten amateur boxers of the Olympic Club will invade Los Angeles the latter part of the month for the Pacific Coast boxing championships. In making the announcement today, James J. Richardson, boxing commissioner, said that an extensive program had been arranged for the Winged "O" men.

The schedule here includes an engagement with the Hollywood Athletic Club on February 3. A series of fights in which boxers representing Stanford, California, California Aggies and the Olympic Club will meet on March 24, and the elimination bouts to select entrants for the national boxing championship on April 11.

Rumor Has It That White Sox Owner Is Seeking to Sign Ousted Cleveland Pilot for Chicago

BY DON MAXWELL

CHICAGO, Jan. 4. (Exclusive)—While Kenesaw Mountain Landis was preparing tonight for the opening tomorrow of the most unusual inquiry ever held in the history of organized baseball, a new rumor was claiming attention. It was this:

Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the White Sox, is reported to have under consideration the offer of a contract to Tris Speaker.

Tris Speaker

It was definitely known that Comiskey has discussed the wisdom of attempting to acquire the services of the former Cleveland manager, whose mysterious demise from the leadership of a team that had just finished in second place, has not been satisfactorily explained.

Use Six Courses in 36-Hole Preliminary Play

Championship Proper Opens at Caballero Friday

Four Players Stand Out as Possible Winners

BY BILL WISE

Representative challengers, included in the field of more than 300 contestants, will qualify thirty-six holes over six local courses today in the pretourney assault on the championship title won by Harry Cooper, El Serepo professional, in the $10,000 Los Angeles open last year.

With the thirty local and visiting professional dignitaries, exempt from the initial two-lap medal test, approximately 100 low scorers in today's contesting fields will rest tomorrow and open play in the championship proper at El Caballero Friday.

The qualifying arrangement lengthens the championship just thirty-six holes for most contestants and as low scores in the play today will again be forced to qualify thirty-six holes, eighteen each, Friday and Saturday, the unusual procedure is being rightfully censored by both local and visiting golfers.

While nothing definitely has been decided, approximately fifteen lowest scorers and probably all ties, on each local course in the play today, will be paired for the championship proper and will play their first eighteen-hole round at El Caballero Friday.

Great care has been used in the selection of the courses for the preliminary play today, and many famous golfers will be in action on either the Los Angeles, California, Brentwood, Hillcrest, Wilshire or Midwick layouts. There will be no gallery charge for the play today and local fans may utilize the opportunity of seeing Cyril Walker, former open champion, and other noted golfers in action.

HARRY COOPER

A complete list of pairings with course assignments was published in these columns yesterday morning.

Play in the open championship proper will get underway Friday, with the best field in the history of local golf competing for the title won by Harry Cooper last year.

Cooper is confident of his ability to repeat in the current event, but the vast majority of experts have failed to rank the Texas golfer as a probable winner. Von Elm, national amateur champion, will naturally carry the hopes and best wishes of the local fraternity, but among the professional entrants Tommy Armour, MacDonald Smith, Bill Mehlhorn and Al Watrous seem to have the call. Joe Turnesa, slender New York youngster, should press the leaders, while Johnny Farrell and Mike Brady are just about due for some great golf. If Brady starts putting, he will rank as the most dangerous challenger in the play.

Cyril Walker has been having some difficulty with his irons, but the play today may straighten him away

Hoppe Grasps Cue to Regain Title Tonight

ERICK HAGENLACKER

Tonight in New York City, Willie Hoppe, the old master, will have an opportunity to win back the world's 18.2 balk-line billiard title which he relinquished to young Jake Schaefer in 1925 after fifteen years of supremacy, broken only once in 1921 by the same Jake Schaefer.

Hagenlacker, a Hollander, is one of the few foreigners to hold the championship, winning it from young Jake Schaefer last year 1500 to 1344. He picked up the game around the music halls in Europe and perfected it to such an extent that he is now one of the five or six outstanding billiardists of the world.

Welker Cochran, the boy who is always knocking at one door of the championship, but never quite entering, will challenge the winner for a match to be held some time in February.

Atkinson and Harms Draw in Semifinal Battle

BY PAUL LOWRY

Harry "Kid" Brown kept his California fight slate clean by winning a ten-round decision over Johnny Adams at the Olympic Auditorium last night. It was a slow and uninteresting brawl up to the ninth round, when Brown broke the wrestling bonds that had united the pair for eight rounds and planted a right-hand uppercut on Adams's chin.

HARRY "KID" BROWN

After that it was quite a free-hitting contest with Brown gathering most of the safe blows and almost stowing his foe away in both the ninth and tenth rounds.

But while he sagged to his stipped in the ninth and half slipped and was half punched to the canvas in the last session, Adams managed to weather the storm and instead of a knockout all Brown dragged down was the verdict.

This, however, in addition to the verdicts he has taken over Baby Joe Gans and Harry Wills gives him a 1000 percentage in this State, which cannot be sneezed at in spite of the fact the "Kid" is said to be passe in eastern circles.

VICIOUS FINISH

Up to the period when the excitement started the best thing about the main event had been the preliminaries, which were chockful of action and malicious slugging.

LINCOLN FIVE HAS STRENGTH

Toilers and Redshirts Open Season Day Early

Crimson Team Suffers from Overconfidence

Favor Emancipators, Romans to Cop Contests

When the City League basketball season opens tomorrow afternoon in the new Hollywood High School gymnasium, Coach Motts Blair's Manual Arts quintet will be an even bet to defeat the Redshirts, champions of last year.

MOTTS BLAIR

It has also developed that while the Toilers and Hollywood fans in their enthusiasm have been unable to see any team in the league other than their own, and have been readily predicting the championship for the winner, Coach "Happy" Van Pelt's Lincoln five, now being coached by Coach Bates, is rapidly being made a favorite to win the title.

Coach Bill Paige appears to have developed another strong team around Capt. Dick Linthicum, star forward, but the Hollywood Boys are suffering from a severe attack of swelling craniums, according to reports, and for that reason, the Toilers are given a chance to upset the dope. Coach Blair is fully capable of turning the trick and he has a fast, smart team.

SIELER VETERAN

Manual Arts' starting line-up has but one veteran, Capt Perry Sieler, who plays a guard position. Sieler was the best center in the City League next to Jimmy Mears last season and he is making good at guard. Clyde Peck, one of the huskiest men on the squad, plays the other guard position. For forwards, Blair is using Brennon McCormack and "Doc" Woods, who have a lot to learn, but are learning fast. Bill Niles, a former lightweight boxer, is filling Sieler's shoes at center.

Rice and Sieler work a nice passing attack and they usually complete the plays. Both are accurate shots and the Hollywood guard will have to stop them to win.

Hollywood's chances seem to rest on the none too steady shoulders of Capt. Dick Linthicum, who is the only consistent player on the team. If the Toilers see Linthicum, they will have gone a long ways toward winning the game. Clem Sultenfuss will probably be Paige's choice for Linthicum's team-mate. He is a fair forward, but hasn't been out long enough to be in first-class condition.

NEED EXPERIENCE

Howard Roberts and Ed Tinley are unknown quantities at guard. Tinley is a scrappy type of player and should give a good account of himself. Ivor Jones will play either center or forward switching off with Linthicum who plays either position.

Advance information indicates a packed gymnasium, and many Hollywood students will be turned away as only 800 could be taken care of. As a final measure names were drawn from a hat and the fortunate winners will get tickets. The new gym has a capacity of 2000.

On Friday afternoon Lincoln plays Poly in the Mechanic gym, and Los Angeles meets Franklin in the second tilt.

PICK LINCOLN

Lincoln should have no trouble disposing of Poly, as Coach Voyle Brennan's team is reported to be weak. The Railsplitter five is one of the biggest in the league and has a number of veterans back, led by Capt. Eddie Christensen, an all-star forward from last year's team.

OBSERVATIONS

BY THE IMPUDENT BYSTANDER, BILL HENRY

WE RISE to put ourselves on record as one who doesn't think that the New Year's Day game was so rotten. We've seen games that were more thrilling and games that were better played but, on the other hand, we suspect that the prevalence of opinion that the game was rotten is in no small degree due to the prevalence of opinion previous to the game that Stanford would knock Alabama for a row of postless watermelons. It is a good deal like the opinion of the recent Tunney-Dempsey fight—everybody thought Tunney was a pushover and Dempsey would win easily so, when he didn't, everybody said the fight was rotten and Tunney was worse. Well, there you are.

What is going to become of baseball if this talk of scandal continues? It looks to us as though Judge Landis had pulled the biggest boot in history by recognizing seven years late—a teapot scandal of very doubtful authenticity. If he could railroad Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker out of baseball for a thing like that Landis can't ignore the charges of Swede Risberg, which are just as well substantiated as those of Dutch Leonard and which involve a dozen or more of the old standbys of baseball.

Somebody attempted to come to the judge's rescue the other day and explained the judge's action by claiming that he was forced to make the 1919 scandal public or else have some newspaper syndicate do it for him. Our own guess is that if the judge had really had the best interests of baseball at heart he would have let the syndicate worry out its third and fifth volumes and with a statement that anything that happened in 1919—if it did—couldn't be substantiated at this late date and therefore the less said the better.

The Bruin basketball team, which has cut a terrible swath in local rage circles for several seasons, doesn't seem to be the critter she used to be. Caddy Works considerable of a problem on his hands to replace the fine players who dropped out at the end of the last season and this year's outfit seems to be very much an in-and-outer. However, Caddy has taken that kind of a crew before and made a good basketball team out of it so there isn't any reason to believe that the Bruin is dead just yet a while.

admitted that Speaker was slipped out of his $50,000-a-year job. The public has been led to surmise that the Cleveland club wanted to force Speaker out in order to avert a threatening scandal storm.

If that was the club owners' purpose, it failed. For the Leonard charges were broadcast in full. By this time the public must be aware that the only charge against Speaker is the statement of Dutch Leonard. Over Cobb's head hangs the shadow of a letter he wrote. Speaker was mentioned in a single written word. Over his head is Leonard's story and that alone.

Those who have urged Comiskey to sign Speaker have pointed this out. They have added that Judge Landis has never said that either Speaker or Cobb could not get back in baseball. They have told Comiskey that they believed it would be a popular idea.

Those friends of Speaker argue that Schalk, Collins, Faber and all of the others named in Charles Risberg's story of thrown games are under a cloud of the same texture as the cloud that now blots Speaker from the game.

Mr. Comiskey expressed surprise when asked if he was considering the Speaker deal.

"Even if Speaker did return to the game he would be the property of the Cleveland club, wouldn't he?" Comiskey asked.

"Speaker has been unconditionally released," the reporter said.

more recently the latter team bowed to the Oregon Aggies.

With Jimmy Mears sporting a pair of crutches due to an injured ankle, the Hollywood line-up will require considerable shifting. Chuck Kearney will doubtless desert his regular stand at forward to replace Mears at center unless Yardleigh's injured finger is healed enough to permit his appearance. Bill Goerts and Fawcett will gallop at forwards with McFadden, Yarnell or Dorsey at guards.

Soccer Teams Card Pair of Tilts Sunday

The Los Angeles Soccer League will resume its regular schedule of games next Sunday at Loyola Field and the card will consist of the usual doubleheader at 1 o'clock and 3 o'clock.

The opening number—Long Beach vs. Magyars—is something of a natural, the sides being old rivals in the Southern California league before graduating to the city loop, and their previous battles have left many scars.

Their first meeting in the opening half of the L. A. competition at Long Beach, resulted in a victory for the beach squad by the odd goal in three, and the Hungarian boys are determined to reverse this decision Sunday.

The twilight attraction features the L.A.A.C. side against the hard-hitting Vikings, and a win for the club men is being predicted in some quarters.

CHILL DENIES RAISING HOTEL BILL; STARTS SLANDER SUIT

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 4. (AP)—Ollie Chill, former American Association umpire, filed suit for $300,000 damages here today against the league and Thomas J. Hickey, its president, alleging that he had been slandered.

Chill alleged that Hickey had given a statement to a Minneapolis newspaper in explanation of the umpire's dismissal, charging that Chill raised a hotel bill from $2 to $16 in sending in his expense account.

The petition alleged the statement was "false, fraudulent and wanton."

TWENTY ONE YEARS of BASE BALL by Eddie Collins

(Copyright, 1927, by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

III. CHARLES ALBERT BENDER

Of all the "native Americans" who have essayed the national game none have had so distinguished a career as Charles Albert Bender.

For twelve seasons the "Chief" was Connie Mack's "anchor man" though during all those years there were always at least two other hurlers of great ability. Connie built his pennant winning machine around Bender, Waddell, Plank and Coombs while Coakley, Dygert, Henley, Bush and Carroll Brown also wore the spangles of the Athletics during the period of Bender's service with the Mackmen.

I rate Bender among the first five American League hurlers and he gets this place because he made pitching a fine art. He mastered every natural form of delivery but never bothered with spitters or other trick styles. Both Wood and Johnson had far more speed, Coombs and Scott better curves, and Joss and White more deceptive "slow balls" but I never saw anyone who could toss all styles with the skill that "Chief" exhibited.

EDDIE COLLINS

But his mechanical efficiency was only a part of Bender's stock in trade. He knew the strength and weakness of every batter; his control was superb and he possessed such a wealth of courage that facing the strongest teams afforded him his greatest pleasure. Connie Mack said repeatedly that with a single all-important game to play Bender could go for him in preference to any pitcher he knew. That he meant what he said is shown by the fact that "Chief" worked the opening game for Mack in four world series.

In 1909 Albert beat the Giants in the only game won by Philadelphia, shutting them out; in 1910 he opened against the Cubs and allowed three hits and one run, the A's winning. In 1911 he hurled the first game for us against Mathewson and fanned eleven of the Giants though they beat us, 3 to 1, and in 1914 he pitched his only bad world series game when the Braves batted him off the slab. Everything went wrong for us in that series, anyway. Bender also has on no-hit game to his credit, that against Cleveland, May 12, 1910.

PLAYS FAMOUS CUBS

After the close of our season in the fall of 1910 we made an exhibition tour to the Coast. On the way we stopped to play the famous Cubs in Chicago. Reaching there we found that this game had assumed more importance than attaches to an ordinary exhibition. Chicago had always been good American League territory but Chance had a great team and the White Sox had not done well that season, and the American League supporters were very anxious that we win.

Connie called us together and explained the situation, then he said to Bender: "Albert, you know you are to pitch. Now, Al-bert, I have asked you to win some important games for me and you never failed. I want you to bring me this game." He did. The Cubs got two hits but no runs.

That was, perhaps, the "Chief's" only fault, grew out of his attitude toward opposing batters. He was not as strong as Walsh, Cheabro, Coombs and other great pitchers, and for that reason, and also, because any time any batter, however great, made a hit off his delivery he thought the batter was lucky; he never wanted to waste a ball. His system was to throw all strikes, if possible. Of course, he gave the usual quota of passes because he was trying to get the ball over the corner, or high, or low, or somewhere else that the batter did not like, but he was always trying to pitch strikes. Occasionally after having the batter 2—0 he would throw one in the groove and get away with it. Then he would return to the bench and grin with great satisfaction.

GET INTO TROUBLE

Through this craft, however, we sometimes got into serious trouble. Against the Giants in '13 we were going along easily in the fourth game with the count 6-0 in our favor until the seventh inning. Two men got on with two out when Fred Merkle came up. "Chief" had just whiffed Catcher Wilson and was bent on showing up Merkle, who was a corking hitter as everyone knew, but who could do little with Bender when the "Chief" was careful.

He put over two strikes on Fred and then, in spite of the protests of Ira Thomas, Bender deliberately tossed one up Merkle's alley. A pitch that came across the letters on his shirt Merkle could hit a mile. He just naturally lost that ball and the Giants had three runs. As we won we didn't kill Albert.

On another occasion we were having one of our usual battles in Detroit. The Tigers could not see Eddie Rommel pitched because we rattled him so that if he got the ball with one or more of us on bases he was likely to throw the game away. In all case they filled the bases on Bender late in the game, with two out, and Jennings sent in Rossman to bat. Claude was a great slugger and not afraid of the Chief. Albert disregarded Thomas's sign and Rossman hit a home run.

As soon as the ball left the bat, Conn.) motioned Bender to come in and he was on the bench when Rossman had ambled around the [illegible]. Standing on the plate the elated Tiger lifted his cap, made us a bow and called out: "I'm not much of a sharpshooter but I can drive the Indian to his wigwam."

Thomas was so sore that Connie had to take him out of the game also.

CHIEF AND UMPS PAL

Being undemonstrative, "Chief" never had much trouble with umpires. Most of the umps don't mind a decent kick if it is not made too obvious to the fans. Once the Highlanders came over to Philly and brought Tim Hurst with them.

Tim worked all alone. Late in the game, which was close, Eberfield on third and Chase on first started a double steal. Bender intercepted the catcher's throw and caught Eberfield off third several feet. Tim, looking at second, didn't see the play and waved both players safe.

Albert was furious. He slammed his glove on the ground with great violence just as Hurst turned around, and the stands were hooting to beat the band.

Tim walked up to Bender and said in his blandest manner: "Mr. Bender, will you please pick up the glove? That's a good boy, now carry it to the clubhouse; you are through for the afternoon."

And he was.

Maroons Take on Richfields in Puck Scrap

Battling for second place in the California Professional Ice Hockey League, the Winter Garden Maroons and the Richfield offers clash tomorrow night at the Winter Garden Ice Palace in the seventh game of the local league.

The last game between the two squads was one of the most sensational contests played at the arena and the game tomorrow night should be just as close and sensational. The Maroons were victorious last Thursday night by a 4-3 score.

Edge, the highly touted Regina star who joined the squad several days ago, is reported to have hit his stride and he is expected to contribute to the Maroon offensive.

Jack Lawrence, Gaston Scott and Chum Irvine assisted by Playing Manager Abbey Newell of the Richfield squad are in a fighting mood and should get going tonight. The oilers won their first two games and were leading the league, but the jinx seems to be hanging over them and they have dropped the last three games. Bill Cotrell, manager of Richfield, has had the team out twice a day during the past week and is confident of winning tomorrow night.

Cops First Junior Title Play Game at Midwick From White Quartet by 11-to-4 Score

The Reds opened their drive on the Midwick junior championship with an 11-to-4 victory over the White polo quartet yesterday. The contest was the first game of the annual clash for the junior title.

R. B. Honeyman featured for the winning combination, contributing six points to the general total. J. A. Wigmore drove four digits through the uprights and Dr. E. T. Malaby gained one.

For the losing quartet, Howland Paddock scored one goal and Dr. H. H. Wilson and John Knorpp tallied one each. The game was hotly contested throughout despite the apparent one-sidedness of the score.

A practice game is on schedule today, with Purples and Uplifters tangling on Thursday. In this game Hugh Blue, C. E. Wrighthorn, Ed Vail and Jack Holt will line up for the Purples, with G. Proster, Snowy Baker, R. Millsaps and C. Brattmson doing honors for the losers. Yesterday's line-ups:

Reds (11)—Dr. E. T. Malaby (1) No. 1; J. A. Wigmore (4) No. 2; R. B. Honeyman (6) No. 3; H. Cox, back.

RABBIT PUNCHES

STANFORD was held to a tie by Alabama for the same reason that Washington was beaten, 29 to 19, by Alabama last year. The reason is the Stanford players were not keyed up to the contest any more than were the Washington athletes in 1926. The author of this new version of last Saturday's affair is none other than George Wilson, all-American halfback, who did a few things to Alabama a year ago, but not quite enough to win.

George is here with his Wilson Wildcats to play the Hollywood Generals at Wrigley Field next Sunday, and he took time out from practice yesterday to explain Stanford's failure to beat Alabama. "Washington State College could have licked Alabama Saturday," he said. "So could the University of Washington.

"The Stanford team did not play the game of which it was capable. The same thing must have happened to 'Pop' Warner's boys that happened to us last year.

"We came south on a lark and were licked. At the time we took a vote in Seattle to play the Alabama team I told the boys we would get beat, and my prophecy came true, although we did our best to win after we got into the game. But our mental attitude before the game was wrong, and Stanford's must have been, too."

Commenting on professional football, Wilson says he has played in nineteen games this fall and likes it. "Of course, it's different than college football, but it's better ball. The boys all know their onions and while we don't get on pins' points before a game you don't see us make the same mistake a second time like the collegians do.

"If a play doesn't work right the first time we don't discard it, but first find the reason and then rectify the mistake. I've got some good boys on my team, and they play real football. Little 'Rabbit' Bradshaw, formerly of Nevada, certainly earned the respect of eastern football players and fans this year. He's only a mite of a man to be playing with 200-pounders, but he has a heart of iron and ability to match it."

Jimmy Dougherty is certainly not going to let any stone go unturned in proving that the victory of his boy, Jon Anderson, over Leo Lomski Saturday night was bona fide. Undoubtedly the telegram from Joe Waterman, the Portland matchmaker, was prompted by Jimmy, and properly so when Waterman had been quoted in local papers as saying that Lomski was robbed. Waterman's wire said he had not seen the fight, as quoted, having been in Tacoma at the time, whereas the fight was held in Portland, but that the press and officials regarded it as a just decision. Anderson having won seven out of the ten rounds.

SHOWDOWN ON SCANDAL TODAY

ing charges in 1919 were threatening, the players involved in the newest scandal may be ousted.

In the Cobb-Speaker scandal, Commissioner Landis gave out the testimony resulting from his investigation, but made no decision as to the guilt or innocence of Speaker or Cobb, since the two stars had resigned and were no longer connected with baseball.

Now, the commissioner has on trial more than a score of players still shining brilliantly in the major leagues, and must render a verdict innocent or guilty, on the startling charges made by Risberg.

Risberg's story is to the effect that certain members of the White Sox pooled $45 each to make $11100, which was paid to the Detroit pitchers for "sloughing off" in the series. It was Rowland whom Risberg alleges instigated the plot and declared in Risberg's presence that the series had been fixed.

Rowland's denial of the accusation has been made in no uncertain terms. Rowland said he would welcome the opportunity to confront Risberg, the banished former shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, who was forever barred from organized baseball for participating in the crooked championship between Chicago and the Cincinnati Reds in 1919.

LANDIS WON'T COMMENT

Landis tonight refused to make any comment on tomorrow's fateful proceedings. The hearing will open in the commissioner's office at 10:30 a.m. and probably will last two or three days. Landis wired Risberg to come prepared to stay three days.

Most of the players named by Risberg assured Landis they would be on hand to face their accuser.

Schalk, Collins and Harry (Nemo) Leibold and other members of the 1917 White Sox team admit giving their $45 contributions to the pool, but they uphold the innocent version of the Detroit girl, while Rowland declares he never heard of it at all. Hughey Jennings, the Detroit manager of 1917, says he never heard of the girl, and as his testimony will be of no value, he declined to attend.

Some of the Detroit players of 1917 admit receiving money from the Sox as a reward for their success against Boston, but stoutly deny throwing any games to the White Sox.

JAWSON DUE FOR GO HERE

Milwaukee Welterweight in Vernon Bout With Callahan Tuesday

Joe Jawson, Milwaukee welter, is due here today to start training for his ten-round bout with Mushy Callahan at Vernon next Tuesday night.

He will do no boxing for the first day, but will confine his workout to the road.

Jawson has heard of the bad effects California climate has on invaders and will try to avoid it by working as much as possible out of doors.

Jawson is 23 years of age. He has been fighting since 1918.

He has fought every good featherweight, lightweight and most of the welters. He boxed Danny Kramer as a feather. During 1926 Jawson engaged Sammy Mandell, Jimmy Goodrich, Charley O'Connell, Pinkie Mitchell, Zivic and others.

Jawson defeated the new German welter champion, William Ernche, in his last fight a few weeks ago.

Callahan may find Jawson one of the toughest men he ever faced. The Milwaukee boy's record does not show a single setback by a knockout. Most of Jawson's bouts have been no-decision contests.

Kramer Out to Defeat Tut in Hollywood Go

If Danny Kramer can beat King Tut decisively at the Hollywood Legion Stadium Friday night, Manager Tom Gallery is planning on lining up a fight for Kramer with Joey Sangor or Doc Snell. They are featherweights and would be great opponents for Kramer.

The main events at the stadium this week are hard at work getting in shape for this fight. It means much to both as it is the first time that either has ever been signed for a fight at the Legion Stadium.

"There hasn't been a fighter in any class show at Hollywood in months who can hit like Kramer for his poundage. He is a miniature Jack Dempsey when it comes to bowling over fighters with one punch.

Kramer is a knockout artist. Billy Hart and Irish Mickey Cone are big hits at Hollywood and Georgie Gordon will be more or less of a card until he gets beaten. Gordon made hundreds of friends when he flattened Eddie Diggins.

Some smart fellows believe that King Tut will beat Kramer and a lot of the short money is going to find a place on Tut's head when the boys enter the ring.

Irish Mickey Cone will be a lot better this time than when he fought Billy Hart before, and that was a slashing bout. Cone is used to California and the weather by this time. It has worked hard for several weeks to get right and he is in the pink.

and he may repeat his sensational victory in the national open, several years ago. Leo Diegel is much too good to be left out of the reckoning, but it is hard to see how any local or visiting golfer—including even Bobby Cruickshank and John Golden—can expect to tumble Armour Mac Smith, Mehlhorn and Watrous.

Bobby Cruickshank is also due for some good golf and Bobby is going to do his best at El Caballero. Mac Smith really putted at Long Beach and should burn up El Caballero greens. Watrous and Armour are both fine iron-shot makers, and Mehlhorn, who has played in more tournaments during the past five years than any other golfer, will have a great chance in the event. Cooper, George Duncan and other celebrities should finish behind the leaders, but watch Armour, Mac Smith, Watrous, Mehlhorn and—Turnesa.

WILSON GREAT PASSER

Wildcat Leader Plans Aerial Attack Sunday Against Hollywood; Says Pros Can Trim College Elevens

That George Wilson is one of the greatest forward passers in football today was the claim advanced by a group of fans who watched the Washington star go through a stiff workout with his Wildcats in preparation for the game with Johnny Hawkins's Hollywood Generals at Wrigley Field Sunday afternoon.

Wilson shot bullet-like passes that traveled 20 and 25 yards on a line to "Red" Flaherty and Jim Lawson, his ends. Flaherty, a big red-headed youngster from Gonzaga University, was proclaimed the greatest end in the American Professional Football League during the past season. Flaherty is fast and able to jump high in the air and pull down the passes.

GEORGE WILSON

In addition to the short, sizzling passes, Wilson is able to throw the long ones and "Rabbit" Bradshaw is a wonder in getting down the field under tosses.

"Professional football teaches a player how to use his head," declared Wilson. "In college the boys play with their hearts.

"A mediocre pro team will beat the best of any of the college squads as the brain is the greatest asset in any line of sporting endeavor."

Wilson is planning to depend mainly on forward passing to gain against Hawkins's squad Sunday. He realizes that the former U.S.C. star has one of the greatest lines ever gathered for a football squad and that it would be useless to try to tear holes in that line regularly.

FEG MURRAY'S GOLF CART

States open champion, Jock Turnesa, who almost did for George Von Elm, the present amateur champion, who beat him badly in the last round, and Willie Hunter, a former amateur champion. And only a few of numerous "dark horses" of whom might gallop home victory in this tournament, Sarazen did.

But to get back to the Scot—George Duncan, who is a golf ball over an one of the most fascinating players to watch, possessing a quick enough to make "Lightnin'," they call him, walks up to the ball at his and simply plays one pause at all to get on this to outwit his opponent as he is so high-strung, waited and fidgeted around hit the ball, he would go wrong. No "Cyril Walker" for George Duncan!

Trapmint Wins Another Race at Tia Juana

TIA JUANA RACE TRACK (Mex.) Jan. 4.—Running the mile and seventy yards in the fastest time of the meeting, 1.42 3-5, just four-fifths of a second off the track record, Trapmint, owned by Bowman & Crofton, took the seventh and feature race here today from a field of seven, but only by a nose from Bookbinder.

The pair raced through the last of the stretch almost as a team with Trapmint, which headed Bookbinder, the pacemaker, on the turn for home, just a little the better. The World got the show.

The victory was the third straight scored by the 4-year-old for his owners, which gained him just before his first win for $4000. After the race today Benny Creech, owner of Bookbinder, led Trapmint away on a claim for $5000.

Lomski Plans Fast Attack for Flowers

"Tiger" Flowers will have to travel a lot faster than he did in his bout at Ascot Park with Eddie Huffman if he expects to grab the decision over Leo Lomski in the ten-round main event of Dick Doanald's show at Wrigley Field on the 22nd inst.

Lomski has mapped a plan of battle in which he expects to swarm all over the colored deacon from Marietta, Ga. Flowers is a wonderful fighter at long range. He can box with his right hand almost as well as the average fellow can with his left.

The "Tiger" has a peculiar style which makes him a hard target to hit for a slow-moving fellow of the Huffman type. He was all over Eddie, showering him with every kind of a punch that is known and he had the former sailor bewildered.

Lomski has won practically every fight he has had in this vicinity by taxing the battle away from his opponent. He is always coming and keeps a tatoo of punches beating on his opponent's head and body.

TIGER HOCKEYITES REPORT FOR WORK

The froah declared his blood to have been poisoned by the growth of a huge boil, covering almost the entire span of his wrist. Osborne will be out of tennis play for a month, at least.

ly Atkinson and Billy Harms ended in a draw after Atkinson got off to a great start by flooring Harms in the second round for the count of nine with a left hook to the face. Still later in the same round Harms was down again for a one count, but Harms was game and pulled himself up on even terms in the later rounds.

Jimmy Hackley, an old-timer of he Vernon four-round days, knew too much for cocky Dan Levy and the latter was smartly licked in six roun'e in addition to having a bad cut opened over his left eye.

FARYO OUTPOINTED

Teddy Lewin outpointed Manuel Faryo in the opener, but it was Willie Brown and Dick De Hoag who stole the show. Brown, an animated stepladder with long arms, won, but after taking a bad punching in the first and second rounds, little De Hoag unloaded a right-hander which upset the tall boy. He planted several other right-hand swats on the face before the round ended, but Willie's head cleared during the rest period and he easily outpointed De Hoag in the last round.

UNIVERSAL QUINTET TAKES TWO CONTESTS

The Universal studio basketball team played a double-header last night, trimming the Occidental alumni, 30 to 12, and winning from the Los Angeles High alumni, 23 to 21.

Universal used the same line-up throughout both games, only one substitute going into both contests This included Lumley, Sterns and Schlaum, who alternated at forwards; Knutsman, center; and Rock and Wanne, guards. Lumley, with 13 points, was high in the first tilt, while Rock, with 10 digits, sparkled in the second affair. Universal is topping the Industrial League, having been undefeated to date.

NEW RULING WOULD CAUSE HARM, CLAIM

According to local followers of rod and reel, should the State Fish and Game Commission decide not to allow the selling and transportation of live trout, more harm than good will be the outcome.

The anglers base their convictions on the fact that such places as Lake Arrowhead and various privately owned streams and lakes and business institutions have for years at times relied on the Rainbow Angling Club at Redlands for a supply of live trout. Each season Lake Arrowhead alone has the Rainbow club transport 500,000 trout to the famous lake.

"Times" Daily Short Story

Witches' Loaves

By O. Henry

MISS MARTHA MEACHAM kept the little bakery on the corner (the one where you go up three steps, and the bell tinkles when you open the door.)

Miss Martha was forty, her bankbook showed a credit of two thousand dollars, and she possessed two false teeth and a sympathetic heart. Many people have married whose chances to do so were much inferior to Miss Martha's.

Two or three times a week a customer came in in whom she began to take an interest. He was a middle-aged man, wearing spectacles and a brown beard trimmed to a careful point.

He spoke English with a strong German accent. His clothes were worn and darned in places, and wrinkled and baggy in others. But he looked neat, and had very good manners.

He always bought two loaves of stale bread. Fresh bread was five cents a loaf. Stale ones were two for five. Never did he call for anything but stale bread.

Once Miss Martha saw a red and brown stain on his fingers. She was sure then that he was an artist and very poor. No doubt he lived in a garret, where he painted pictures and ate stale bread and thought of the good things to eat in Miss Martha's bakery.

Often when Miss Martha sat down to her chops and light rolls and jam and tea she would sigh, and wish that the gentle-mannered artist might share her tasty meal instead of eating his dry crust in that draughty attic. Mis Martha's heart, as you have been told, was a sympathetic one.

In order to test her theory as to his occupation, she brought from her room one day a painting that she had bought at a sale, and set it against the shelves behind the bread counter.

It was a Venetian scene. A splendid marble palazzio (so it said on the picture) stood in the foreground—or rather forewater. For the rest there were gondolas (with the lady trailing her hand in the water,) clouds, sky, and chiaro-oscuro in plenty. No artist could fail to notice it.

Two days afterward the customer came in.

"Two loafs of stale bread, if you blease.

"You haf here a fine bicture, madamie," he said while she was wrapping up the bread.

"Yes?" says Miss Martha, revelling in her own cunning. "I do so admire art and" (no, it would not do to say "artists" thus early) "and paintings," she substituted: "You think it is a good picture?"

"Der balace," said the customer, "is not in good drawing. Der bairspective of it is not true. Goot morning, madame."

Yes, he must be an artist. Miss Martha took the picture back to her room.

How gentle and kindly his eyes shone behind his spectacles! What a broad brow he had! To be able to judge perspective at a glance—and to live on stale bread! But genius often has to struggle before it is recognised.

What a thing it would be for art and perspective if genius were backed by two thousand dollars in bank, a bakery, and a sympathetic heart to—But these were day-dreams, Miss Martha.

Often now when he came he would chat for a while across the showcase. He seemed to crave Miss Martha's cheerful words.

She thought he began to look thinner and discouraged. Her heart ached to add something good to eat to his meagre purchase, but her courage failed at the act. She did not dare affront him. She knew the pride of artists.

"You haf here a fine bicture, madame," he said, while she was wrapping up the bread

Miss Martha took to wearing her blue-dotted silk waist behind the counter. In the back room she cooked a mysterious compound of quince seeds and borax. Ever so many people use it for the complexion.

One day the customer came in as usual, laid his nickel on the showcase, and called for stale loaves. While Miss Martha was reaching for them there was a great tooting and clanging, and a fire-engine came lumbering past.

The customer hurried to the door to look, as any one will. Suddenly inspired, Miss Martha seized the opportunity.

On the bottom shelf behind the counter was a pound of fresh butter that the dairyman had left ten minutes before. With a bread knife Miss Martha made a deep slash in each of the stale loaves, inserted a generous quantity of butter, and pressed the loaves tight again.

When the customer turned once more she was tying the paper around them.

When he had gone, after an unusually pleasant little chat, Miss Martha smiled to herself, but not without a slight fluttering of the heart.

Had she been too bold? Would he take offense? But surely not. There was no language of edibles. Butter was no emblem of unmaidenly forwardness.

For a long time that day her mind dwelt on the subject. She imagined the scene when he should discover her little deception.

He would lay down his brushes and palette. There would stand his easel with the picture he was painting in which the perspective was beyond criticism.

He would prepare for his luncheon of dry bread and water. He would slice into a loaf—ah!

Miss Martha blushed. Would he think of the hand that placed it there as he ate? Would he——

Miss Martha hurried to the front. Two men were there. One was a young man smoking a pipe—a man she had never seen before. The other was her artist.

His face was very red, his hat was on the back of his head, his hair was wildly rumpled. He clinched his two fists and shook them ferociously at Miss Martha. At Miss Martha.

"Dummkopf!" he shouted with extreme loudness; and then "Tausendonfer!" or something like it in German.

The young man tried to draw him away

"I vill not go," he said angrily, "alse I shall told her."

He made a bass drum of Miss Martha's counter.

"You haf shpoilt me," he cried, his blue eyes blazing behind his spectacles. "I vill tell you. You vas von meddingsome old cat!"

Miss Martha leaned weakly against the shelves and laid one hand on her blue-dotted silk waist. The young man took the other by the collar.

"Come on," he said, "you've said enough." He dragged the angry one out at the door to the sidewalk, and then came back

"Guess you ought to be told, m'am," he said, "what the row is about. That's Blumberger. He's an architectural draftsman. I work in the same office with him.

"He's been working hard for three months drawing a plan for a new City Hall. It was a prize competition. He finished inking the lines yesterday. You know, a draftsman always makes his drawing in pencil first. When it's done he rubs out the pencil lines with handfuls of stale bread crumbs. That's better than India rubber.

"Blumberger's been buying the bread here. Well, today—well, you know, ma'am, that butter isn't—well, Blumberger's plans isn't good for anything now except to cut up into railroad sandwiches."

Miss Martha went into the back room. She took off the blue-dotted silk waist and put on the old brown serge she used to wear. Then she poured the quince seed and borax mixture out of the window into the ash can.

I'M THE GINK

I'm the gink who hits the high spots along the primrose path and yet always finds time to speak sentimentally of "the wife" or of "home and mother." Often when I am in my cups I have been known to shed tears about my wife or sweetheart. I think I am a very fine fellow. It never occurs to me what others may think. Of course I never consider the wife, sweetheart or mother. I show them no respect, but I think it gives me a sort of distinction to be talking about them. Of course I am shallow and selfish, but I think I am a fine, thoughtful sort of person. The incongruity of it never strikes me.
